PEIPING, China, Jan. 4 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The walled Chinese city of Shanhaikwan, which fell into the hands of the Japanese yesterday after their third attack, was reported today to be nothing but a smoking ruin.

In the repeated attacks 500 Chinese troops were killed. The Japanese used tanks during two hours of fierce fighting in the streets.

It was understood that almost the entire south wall of Shanhaikwan was flattened by shell fire.

The Chinese were believed to have re-formed their lines a mile southwest of the city and were preparing to offer further resistance.

Chase Chinese "Short Distance."

Japanese military leaders said their forces pursued the fleeing Chinese soldiers "a short distance" southward along the tracks of the Mukden railroad, but they "did not intend to proceed far."

Terribly as the Chinese apparently suffered in the combat, it was said that civilian noncombatants suffered even worse. No estimate was available of the number of civilians killed, but casualties were believed to be enormous.

It was reported that three additional Japanese warships had arrived off Chinwangtao, a few miles south of Shanhaikwan, and had made an attempt to land Japanese marine units. The marines, however, were repulsed by Chinese forces.

It was also reported that a Japanese aircraft carrier had arrived at Tangku, at the mouth of the river below Tientsin.

Tokio Reports "All Quiet."

TOKIO, Jan. 4 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Japanese military communiques reaching here today said eight Japanese soldiers were killed and 31 wounded in the Japanese army's occupation of Shanhaikwan.

These communiques said that quiet reigned early today at the Chinese walled city of Shanhaikwan following Tuesday's pitched battles.

All information available here indicated that the Chinese main forces had retreated in disorderly fashion southwestward from Shanhaikwan, but that the Japanese, under Maj. Gen. Suzuki, halted their pursuit of the fleeing Chinese soldiers at sundown.

Japs Ready for Anything.

Thereafter, advices reaching here said, the two forces were nowhere in contact except in the western portion of Shanhaikwan, where the Japanese were engaging small bands of Chinese troops in sporadic conflicts.

Today both sides were apparently resting on their arms while tentative "feelers" were being sent out to determine whether the next move would be one of war or peace. The Japanese forces are ready for either.

Japanese reports were uncertain concerning the situation at Chinwangtao, a few miles south of Shanhaikwan, where one officer and 20 enlisted men of the American army are stationed. The reports reaching Tokio, however, agreed that Japanese destroyers on Tuesday had shelled Chinese troops at Chinwangtao, but apparently the Japanese troops had not advanced to Chinwangtao.

BOMB TOWNS IN JEHOL

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 3.—Following the Japanese seizure of Shanhaikwan, in which hundreds of Chinese are reported to have been killed, Japanese airplanes today raided the southern border of Jehol province, west of Manchuria. They dropped bombs on several towns and villages.

Reports from Chinwangtao said the occupation of Shanhaikwan was accomplished by a combined land, sea, and air attack. Some 5,000 Japanese troops and twelve bombing planes participated, while nine warships off shore poured shells into the walled city and prepared the way for infantry attacks.

The country south of Shanhaikwan tonight presented pitiful scenes. Thousands of terrified refugees, their homes and belongings destroyed by the Japanese gunfire, stumbled afoot or in donkey carts and on camels along the execrable and frozen roads, swept by winter winds. Railway travel is paralyzed by troop trains moving north from Tientsin.

Meanwhile, T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister and acting head of the executive yuan, issued a caustic

'Count Buelow' Arrested as Counterfeiter

Henry Dechow, who as the bogus "Count Enrique von Buelow" married Mrs. Lottie Brenner, widow of a Chicago alderman, several years ago, was arrested by secret service agents in New York last night as he alighted from a Montreal plane.

He was seized as a leading member of an international counterfeiting ring which passed thousands of dollars in bogus $100 bills in Chicago, New York, and elsewhere. His arrest was deemed of great importance by Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, head of the federal secret service in Chicago, who said that as recently as last Saturday Dechow came to town carrying nearly $100,000 in the counterfeit bills.

Trailed to Canada and N. Y.

In fact it was the count's visit here which led to his undoing, and the recovery of his entire supply of bills. From here Capt. Callaghan's men trailed him to Montreal, and from there to New York.

In Chicago, Dechow, through agents, passed $25,500 of the bogus bills on loop banks, but quick work on the part of Capt. Callaghan's men halted further spreading of the fake notes and caused the confiscation of every one of the notes brought here by Dechow. One man was arrested.

These notes, amounting to $97,000, are now locked up in Capt. Callaghan's office. A federal official predicted last night that the counterfeiting ring would be broken up soon.

Predicts Early Arrests.

"There are eight Chicago racketeers in our net," he said, "and they will be arrested soon. This is one of the biggest counterfeiting schemes in history."

The counterfeiting group began its operations in 1929 in Berlin. Its work came to the attention of Chicago authorities a few days before Christmas, when Frank A. W. Johnson, 40 years old, of 1319 North Francisco avenue, tried to exchange one hundred counterfeit $100 bills for ten good $1,000 notes at the First National bank. Fifteen minutes before, Capt. Callaghan had warned the bank of the bogus bills. Johnson was seized.

With Johnson's arrest Capt. Callaghan's agents learned that Dechow was back in Chicago with $97,000 in fake bills. Of these the $25,500 had already been passed. Dechow, agents said, paid 30 per cent commission to the men who passed them.

Dechow early in 1930 married Mrs. Brenner, wealthy widow of Nathan T. Brenner, former alderman. Subsequently Mrs. Dechow sued him for divorce four times before finally becoming Mrs. Brenner again.

HOWARD WANZER HOME GUARDED AFTER THREATS

For the last few days police have been guarding the home of Howard H. Wanzer, president of Sidney Wanzer and Sons dairy company, because of the receipt of several letters threatening him with bombing, it became known last night.

The Wanzer home is at 6463 Kimbark avenue, a block away from one of the dairy plants at 6819 Kimbark avenue. The same patrolman detailed to watch the residence also watches the dairy. Other dairy plants of the company also are being protected.

Mr. Wanzer refused to confirm the police reports that he had been threatened with bombing, but admitted that precautions in the way of police protection had been taken. This, he said, was because of "various troubles in milk circles."

Patrons Unaware of Holdup as Loop Store Is Robbed

Two robbers entered the Eastman Kodak store at 133 North Wabash avenue last evening, threatened the manager and took $300. Several patrons and about twelve clerks in the store at the time were unaware of the holdup. The manager, F. M. Cornwall, of 1246 Judson avenue, Evanston, described the robbers. Police said this same pair had committed six holdups in the loop in the last two weeks.

Spoils Belong to Victors, Cry of Huey Long

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long [Dem., La.] frankly informed the senate today that the battle cry of Andrew Jackson "To the Victors Belong the Spoils" still holds good.

The occasion was the presentation by Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] of a resolution instructing the civil service commission to furnish a list of available patronage positions.

Pretending innocence, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] wanted to know "Why?"

Points to Change March 4.

"There is to be just a slight change of administration on the fourth of next March," Senator McKellar replied, "and we would like to have the information asked for by this resolution."

"We want whatever jobs are coming to us," interposed Senator Long.

"Whatever may have been left," suggested Senator McKellar.

No Objection to Resolution.

Senator McKellar succeeded in getting the resolution agreed to without objection.

But Senator Long was not yet finished.

"I hope there will not be any misapprehension about the purpose of the resolution," he said. "I hope my colleagues are not deluded. I trust this resolution which has been passed will result in some of our deserving Democrats being given a job or two. I hope that item is in the minds of the senators. I do not want that to be lost sight of because there is great eagerness on the part of deserving Democrats all over the country."

President Appoints 25,000.

The list comprising federal patronage amounts to nearly 100,000 jobs, of which about 25,000 are directly in the President's hands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—The Pennsylvania railroad announced today that it would test electric train operation between New York and Philadelphia within ten days. The starting of regular service between these points will put 799 miles of line, or 2,665 miles of track, under complete electrification. This will include the New York district, the western end of Long Island, the main line between New York, Philadelphia and Wilmington, and Philadelphia suburban lines.

TRACE ROMANCE CLEW IN KILLING OF BANDMASTER

Romance in the background of the murder of Capt. Edwin O. Schildhauer, Austin High school bandmaster, was sought by the police last night in an intensive examination of the widow and several others.

When a number of contradictory statements had been made, Supervising Capt. John P. Stege ordered that Carl Bradberry, 6139 South Park avenue, a former deputy sheriff, be held for the night. Capt. Stege also directed that a search be made for Paul Walton, described by the police as a former lawyer. Both Bradberry and Walton were friends of the Schildhauer family.

"Your husband was murdered because some other man was in love with you," Capt. Stege said to the pretty widow, Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, when she was taken to his office in the Marquette station for questioning. Mrs. Schildhauer's private life has been under investigation since the night of Dec. 10 when her husband was kidnaped in front of his home at 3445 Fulton street, shot to death and thrown from an automobile in Cicero an hour later.

Walton's Name in Case.

Intimates of Mrs. Schildhauer had named Walton as a man who paid marked attentions to the wife of the bandmaster. Bradberry became involved in the investigation when a card bearing his name was found in the slain man's pocket and later when he was connected with a mysterious advertisement placed in THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 30.

The specific reason for Bradberry's detention last night was his statements regarding disposition of his revolver. He said he had given it to Louis Collins, 4145 Broadway, a deputy sheriff, on or about Dec. 1. He then said he had borrowed it a week later. He refused to explain why.

"Yes, I have his revolver," Collins said when questioned. "He did not borrow it after he gave it to me."

Face to face, Bradberry and Collins contradicted each other.

Another Contradiction Appears.

A similar occurrence came when Bradberry's sister, Mrs. Katherine Sho-Walter, 130 East 68th street, and Mrs. Schildhauer, were brought face to face. There was a question about who paid for the advertisement. Mrs. Schildhauer said she paid for it after talking with Mrs. Showalter.

"I never talked to you in my life," Mrs. Showalter asserted.

"I had some school board tax anticipation warrants and Bradberry told me his sister worked at a loop department store and I could pay for a fur coat with the warrants," Mrs. Schildhauer had said earlier. "I went to see her and bought the coat."

"She never bought any coat from me," said Mrs. Showalter in the presence of Mrs. Schildhauer. "She never came near me."

The advertisement was for ten salesmen to report at an office in the loop where desk space had been rented by some one related to Bradberry. No explanation could be obtained by Capt. Stege as to why Mrs. Schildhauer should allow the use of her name in placing the advertisement or why she paid for it, or how it figured in her affairs in any way.

Still More Contradictions.

Another set of contradictions came when Bradberry tried to account for his time on the night Schildhauer was killed. His wife had declared that he was home and that they had heard the announcement of the murder over the radio. Bradberry said he was working for a Negro deputy sheriff who is in the policy gambling game. The Negro deputy's name is William Collins and he is not the Deputy Sheriff Collins to whom Bradberry gave his gun, it was explained.

Collins, the Negro, was taken to Capt. Stege's office by Sergts. Frank Donohue and Charles Reynolds of Coroner Frank J. Walsh's office. They have been on the hunt for a motive since the slaying and have questioned dozens of persons who knew the Schildhauers.

"Bradberry worked for me every Saturday night as a guard," Collins told Capt. Stege. "Four or five hundred policy writers bring in their

GRAVE TASKS CONFRONT U. S. AS 1933 OPENS

This is the first of a series of twelve succinct dispatches from Arthur Sears Henning, Washington correspondent of The Tribune, presenting the condition of the country's revenues and the costs of government.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—No graver problems of statesmanship were ever faced by our government in peace or war than those pressing for wise solution at the beginning of 1933, the fourth year of the most devastating economic upheaval in our history.

Upon the quality of statesmanship and the courage displayed in meeting a multitude of economic issues depends the salvation of the country. They will determine whether we are to weather the gale and recover prosperity at no distant date or plunge recklessly along into a panic compared with which the crash of 1929 will fade into insignificance.

The picture of the condition of the country upon which our elected and appointed public servants look as the new year opens is one to give all beholders pause. The income of the American people has fallen from 85 billions of dollars in 1929 to 38 billions in 1932. The aggregate of public and private debts is estimated at upwards of 200 billions, the interest charge on which is about 10 billions. The combined cost of federal, state and local governments is still close to 15 billions.

Business is stagnant; more than 10 millions of persons are out of work, a large proportion of them destitute; the purchasing power of farmers has almost vanished. Signs of what appeared to be an upturn in business activity last year are now clouded in uncertainty. In many lines which seemed to be picking up there has been a slip back in the last few weeks.

The federal government is operating for the third consecutive year with an unbalanced budget. To make both ends meet it is borrowing constantly increasing sums through sale of bonds and short time government obligations, chiefly to the banks. In fact, the banks are carrying Uncle Sam today.

To meet the constantly recurring deficits, the treasury in three years has borrowed five billions of dollars. The public debt, which had been reduced to $16,185,309,832 on June 30, 1930, has risen to almost 21 billions, which is little more than four billions short of the wartime peak of $25,478,502,113. In fact, with dollars dearer now than in 1919 and the national income halved, the 21 billion debt today bears far more heavily on the people than the 25½ billion debt of 1919.

The sinking fund for retirement of the public debt has become, in effect, inoperative, inasmuch as the treasury is borrowing to fill the sinking fund. The deficit was $902,716,845 at the close of the 1931 fiscal year.

Another deficit of $2,885,362,299 was incurred in the 1932 fiscal year. With the sinking fund of $391,660,000 in 1931 and $412,554,750 in 1932 deducted, approximately 3 billions were added to the public debt in those two years. In the six months of the 1933 fiscal year that have now elapsed another billion has been added to the debt as a result of the failure of the increased taxes voted at the last session of congress to balance the budget.

The federal budget is still unbalanced for two reasons. One is the continued high cost of the federal government. The other is the drying up of the sources of tax revenue. There has been not only no material reduction in the normal cost of the government, which for some years has been in the neighborhood of 4 billions, but an increase in the cost due to the abnormal expenditures on various forms of depression relief. Thus the cost of the government for the 1932 fiscal year rose to more than 5 billions. Although it would be possible to cut a billion dollars from the normal four billion dollars budget by radical curtailment of the paternalistic, subventionary and regulatory activities of the central government, congress so far has contented itself with passage of the economy act effecting only 150 millions of savings and most of these only temporarily.

With the cost of government still undiminished the federal revenue has fallen from 4 billions in 1930 to 2 billions in 1932. Individual and corporation income taxes, the mainstay of federal revenue, declined from $3,410,159,230 in 1930 to $1,056,756,697 in 1932.

Argentina Delivers $204,000 to Embassy for U. S. Debt

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Argentine government today delivered $204,000 to its embassy in Washington, D. C., to meet debt payments due the United States.

UNION FACTIONS STAGE BATTLE; WOMAN VICTIM

30 Pickets Held for Murder Inquiry.

BY PERCY WOOD.

(Picture on Back Page)

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Two were killed, one of them a woman, and at least twelve men were wounded by machine gun and rifle fire near here at dusk tonight in a battle between working and striking coal miners. This newest outburst in the Illinois mine war has been smouldering for weeks. Law enforcing authorities in the midland tract fear its further consequences.

By midnight 30 pickets had been arrested and the states' attorney said some of them would be charged with murder.

The scene of the conflict was the neighborhood of Peabody pit No. 7 at Kincaid, a rough and tumble mining settlement 8 miles from Taylorville. About 150 members of the rebel union, the Progressive Miners of America, met an equal number of United Mine Workers coming from the shaft. The two groups clashed at the entrance of the mine property.

Shot Starts Battle.

As night fell, a single shot was fired from which side no one is prepared to say—and in a second the village echoed to the hammering crackle of a machine gun, the popping of rifles and revolvers, the sound of shotguns. Perhaps five minutes later the working miners had retreated to the mine property and the strikers vanished in the gloom.

When the wounded could be reached, rescuers found Mrs. Emma Comerlatto, 52, wife of a striking miner, lying on the porch of her house which was adjacent to the mine property and within the line of fire. She had been shot just below the heart. She was pronounced dead at a hospital here.

Wounded Lie in Road.

In the roadway leading to the pit lay a dozen men. One of them, Vincent Rodems of Springfield, a member of the United Mine Workers, had a bullet in his stomach. He also died. Others were less seriously wounded, although physicians feared for the life of Joe Berta of Taylorville, who was shot through the head, while Joe Marelli, whose left leg was shot off, was taken to Springfield.

In the tumult of rescue which followed the fusillade, the wounded were placed in ambulances and private cars and rushed here to hospitals and at Springfield.

Hunts for Machine Gun.

Further trouble was brewing at midnight. Sheriff Charles Wieneke sent a squad of deputies to surround a cottage near the scene of the shooting where, he was told, men were hiding with a machine gun. At Tovey, three miles from Kincaid, feeling against the working miners ran high. States Attorney John W. Coale and the sheriff were conferring on the advisability of asking for return of the National Guardsmen, who patrolled the mine area for four months this fall and winter. W. C. Argust, local superintendent of the four Peabody mines, is leaving the matter of troops to the authorities.

The last of the soldiers were removed only the day before Christmas.

Victims of Battle.

St. Vincent's hospital here was taxed almost to capacity. The following were known to have been wounded:

Joe Berta, Kincaid, shot in head.

Harry Fustin, Taylorville, United Mine Worker, shot in left hip.

J. C. Crowder, Taylorville, shot in left arm.

Fred Stone, Kincaid, wounded in hip.

George Embroschan, Kincaid, foot wound.

Tom Julius, Bulpitt, superficial wound.

Rival Factions Gather.

Observers foresaw trouble when the striking miners began to assemble along the hard road in Kincaid at a point where a cinder lane veers off toward the mine a block away. Soon 150 were waiting in scattered groups, in such a position that the outgoing workers would have to pass through their ranks to reach the highway.

Guards at the mine gates sent the warning within. The workers were kept in a group until all had reached the top of the shaft. Night was coming on rapidly. At about 5:15 p. m. the workers advanced on foot through the mine gate, formed in a column six abreast. They moved forward.

Most of the pickets drew together, save a group of about 20 at the right of the road and another half that size which took the left flank. The crunch of shoes upon cinders brought Mrs. Comerlatto from her kitchen to the porch to watch the column from the mine pass. They advanced toward the strikers. It was almost dark when the two forces met.

Just what touched off the spark of violence is not clearly known. But it is certain that as the head of the column neared the strikers, guns appeared and taunts were bandied back and forth.

Machine Gun Clatters.

Then came the first shot and with it bedlam. Within a second many guns were in action. Their concerted fire dominated by the clatter of the machine gun. The authorities have not learned which faction had that weapon.

Mrs. Comerlatto was struck by the first volley and her screams mingled with the cries of the wounded and infuriated men.

The United Mine Workers' group slowly fell back toward the mine gate, rallying for a spirited stand near a small grocery beside the wire fence inclosing the property. They returned the fire from the roadside for a few seconds, then retired through the gate, still in good order. But their close formation made them a perfect target for the strikers, who were not bunched so thickly. Several of the wounded workers fell as the column reëntered the shaft house yard.

Fight Quickly Finished.

It was probable the entire fight did not last five minutes. The moment the workers disappeared at the mine the pickets began to fade into the shadows. Within two minutes after the firing ceased no one remained on the field but the groaning wounded.

This lull was brief, for in a minute the road was filled with men, women and children, residents of the village who had been summoned by the clash of battle. Word was flashed to Taylorville and soon the wail of ambulance sirens were heard speeding toward Kincaid. Passing motorists were commandeered to carry the wounded.

The Progressive union faction recalled tonight that late in October, Andrew Ganis, one of their faction, was killed by a corporal of the state militia. His funeral brought 10,000 strikers and their families to Taylorville for a huge public burial. It was predicted that much the same sort of ceremony will mark the burial of Mrs. Comerlatto.

Blow to New Union.

Operation of the Peabody mines is a thorn in the side of the Progressives who early in September cut away from the United Mine Workers and formed their own union in protest against acceptance of the $5 per day basic wage scale. It was not only the pay angle, but dissatisfaction with the leadership of John L. Lewis, national president of the U. M. W. of A. which brought the rift.

The new union has not made much headway in the southern Illinois fields but is strong in this locality. There are about 1,800 miners operating the four Peabody pits in the midland tract. It was said tonight that several hundreds of them were imported from less turbulent sections of Illinois and from the mining fields of West Virginia and Pennsylvania to carry on the work.

Mines to Stay Open.

Superintendent Argust is firm in his intention to continue to operate the mines again tomorrow, but whether the Progressives will continue their picketing after today's bloodshed, could not be learned. In a recent decision rendered here, Judge William Wright of Effingham defined "peaceful picketing" as that which does not interfere with the "volition or locomotion" of those desiring to work.

In their few appearances as pickets since that decision, Progressive partisans maintain that the rebel miners have kept to the letter of the decision. Two weeks ago there was a brief disturbance at mine No. 58 at Hewittville, on the Taylorville city limits. The pickets claimed that they had been beaten by United miners deputized by the sheriff. The Progressives are organized here as Amalgamated local, No. 9, headed by John Stanley.

Troops Riot in Jamaica After Soldier Dies in Fight

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Several civilians and soldiers were hurt today when soldiers of the Northumberland fusiliers rioted after one of their comrades had been killed in a fight. The soldiers stopped street cars, taxicabs, and automobiles, and beat drivers and occupants of the vehicles. They also clashed with the police.

Seven Boys Arrested as North Side Burglar Band

Seven boys, whose ages range from 12 to 16 years, are being held as alleged burglars by West North avenue police. They are William Boquist, 16; John Kampe, 14; Bruno Mazalowski, 12; Adam Morye, 13; Ted Cyzaka, 13; Leonard Brydion, 12, and Benjamin Taraszka, 14. Police said 20 complaints against them have been signed.

HOLD BURGLARY SUSPECT TO JURY.

Nicholas Barta, 20 years old, who gave his address at 4943 Sheridan road, was held of the grand jury in bonds of $7,500 yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Boys' court on five charges of burglary.

statement on the Shanhaikwan incident, in which he said:

"Two bombs were found in the Japanese gendarmerie station at Shanhaikwan, which is the pretext for the latest Japanese drive in north China It may go down in history alongside the mythical explosion on the South Manchurian railway tracks near Mukden on the fateful night of Sept. 18, 1931.

"It is not difficult to divine the motives of this drive. Jehol, the gateway to north China and Mongolia, has long been coveted by the Japanese militarists, but since an attack on that mountainous province in midwinter presents a difficult problem, it is the Japanese hope that pressure on Tientsin and Peiping through Shanhaikwan might result in Jehol's surrender without serious fighting."

Japs Make New Shanghai Threat.

Rear Admiral Tomo Sugisaka, commander of the Japanese marines here, suddenly notified authorities of the international settlement tonight that the Japanese will hold an annual review of all Japanese forces within Hongkew park tomorrow.

When this news became known an evacuation of Chinese civilians from Chapei, the native city, and from the outskirts of the Hongkew district was immediately begun. Municipal police eventually succeeded in partially allaying fears of another Japanese invasion. Thousands of Chinese, however, refused to be reassured and fled into the foreign settlements.

The Japanese embassy in a long statement tonight said the Japanese acted at Shanhaikwan in self defense The embassy charged that Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted governor of Manchuria, had been transporting troops, arms and munitions into Jehol province, which the Japanese regarded as "hostile moves." Marshal Chang, the statement said, had told Japanese authorities he was acting upon instructions from Nanking to adopt a strong policy against Japan.

U. S. TO MAKE NO PROTEST AGAINST NEW JAP INVASION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Japan's penetration of the Great Wall of China at Shanhaikwan aroused the keenest interest at the White House and state department today, but no move looking to a diplomatic protest developed.

Officials said that while there had been no change in the state department's position that Japanese offensives in Manchuria represented violations of the Kellogg anti-war pact, no new protest would be registered at this time.

Indications today were that the Hoover administration is inclined to sit back and see what the league of nations does before taking any action. State department officials said there had been no change in the Hoover doctrine of nonrecognition of territorial gains by force of arms.

The United States at present has 422 regular army troops in northern China. Twenty soldiers and an officer are at Chinwangtao, 282 officers and men are at Tientsin and 119 at Peiping. There are 620 American civilians at Peiping and 460 at Tientsin.

EVANSTON AGREES TO CONSOLIDATE ON ELECTIONS

Evanston is willing to consolidate its election with other elections in Cook county. The city council last night authorized Mayor Bartlett to notify County Clerk Sweitzer of agreement to the plan. Political leaders sponsoring the plan assert that if the various cities and towns in the county consolidate or hold their respective elections on the same day much money will be saved.

Mayor Bartlett will call on Clerk Sweitzer this afternoon and go over the plans. Evanston's next election is scheduled for spring, but because of last night's action will be held on June 5, the day chosen for the consolidated balloting.

EUROPE DECLINES TO DO ANYTHING TO STOP JAPAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—A grave view is taken in diplomatic circles here regarding Japan's invasion of China proper, but the feeling is one of absolute impotence—nothing can be done about it. Military action by the European powers to save China is considered out of the question and even an economic boycott in these hard times is recognized as impracticable.

It would require the unanimous support of Europe, and that is impossible to get, in the face of the desire by merchants and munition makers to sell goods to any one who has the money to pay. Even the bankers might grant loans if there seemed a reasonable chance of getting their money back.

The mood of the diplomats, therefore, is one of hope and prayer—hope that Japan will not be too hard boiled with China and a prayer that if she does nobody else will become involved.

MOSLEMS LOOT SHOPS OF HINDUS; TROOPS CALLED

ALWAR, Rajputana, Northern India, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Troops were rushed today to Dijar, Ramgarh, and Lachmangargh in northern India where renewed tension between Moslems and Hindus raised considerable anxiety, which was quieted with the arrival of soldiers.

Hindu shops and houses in all three places were reported looted by Moslem demonstrators and further disturbances were threatened, it was said because the Hindus refused to subscribe to anti-government activities.

Alwar is a hilly tract of land in the Rajputana group of Indian states in the north and is governed by Sir Jey Singhji Bahadur, native prince, supported by five ministers and a council. Defense of the state is in the hands of imperial service troops organized by the father of the present ruler.

Landslide Perils Town in Mountains of Mallorca

PALMA, Mallorca, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Reports from the mountain town of Espellencha said today that a landslide with an estimated area of 100,000 square meters was moving slowly toward the sea and menacing the town. There were several loud explosions of gas, it was reported, huge breaches were opened in the mountainside, and tons of standing timber were carried along by the slowly moving mass. No loss of life was reported.

Speak at Luncheon

Three Japanese students, who are making a good will tour of the United States, spoke yesterday at the meeting of the Rotary club in the Hotel Sherman. They are Kazuyuki Sumomogi, Do Shi Sha university, Kyoto; T. R. Makiyama, Chuo university, Tokio, and Tadayoshi Yamada, Meiji university, Tokio.

Roger Alton Pfaff, a student at the University of Oregon and adviser to the tour, said the trip was started with the idea of fostering and creating good will between the United States and Japan. The tour is sponsored by the Oriental Culture society, the Japanese Rotary club, and Prince Tokugawa, president of Japan's house of peers. The students have made sixty speaking appearances since their arrival in the United States on Nov. 13. The students called at the office of the Japanese counsel and visited THE TRIBUNE offices before their appearance at the Rotary club.

SPAIN'S PROTOCOL IRKS U. S. ENVOY; SKIPS BANQUET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 3.—Objecting to the protocol established by the new republican government of Spain, Irwin B. Laughlin, American ambassador, refused to attend President Alcala Zamora's banquet for the diplomatic corps in the former royal palace tonight. Following the last state banquet, the American ambassador raised the question of precedence at tables given to the speaker of the cortes over ambassadors of big powers, which he said was contrary to diplomatic usage.

But Spanish authorities argued that since Spain has no vice president and that the speaker completes the term in case of the president's death, the speaker is entitled to the consideration usually given vice presidents.

An official of the president's household said that Mr. Laughlin inquired before the banquet whether the protocol would be altered. The reply was that no change would be made and Laughlin declined the invitation, pleading illness. The papal nuncio and other members of the diplomatic corps attended.

JAPAN ORDERS ARMY TO FIGHT CHINESE BOYCOTT

Fears Latest Incident Will Stir Up Trouble.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 3.—Regarding violent anti-Japanese agitation at Shanghai, Peiping, Tientsin, and other ports as inevitable, army and navy officials today dispatched orders to Japanese military forces in China proper to be in readiness to act at a moment's notice to suppress such manifestations. They instructed Japanese residents in Peiping and Tientsin to take refuge in army barracks.

While no anti-Japanese demonstrations have broken out yet, army authorities attribute this to the fact that Chinese newspapers did not publish editions on the first three days of the new year. It is feared here that widespread outbursts are inevitable when the news of the seizure of Shanhaikwan reaches the populace.

Japs Blame Chinese.

The Japanese blame the Chinese entirely for the incident. They promise to take the utmost precautions to prevent the affair from spreading, especially since there are many foreign residents, as well as foreign troops, in Tientsin and Peiping.

Following a conference between army and foreign office officials this afternoon, Japan decided to adopt a "conciliatory" attitude. She will regard the outbreak as a localized affair as long as the Chinese do not aggravate the situation. Military authorities, commenting on the situation, said:

"Developments depend entirely upon China. It is impossible to say anything now, especially as Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian war lord, appears to be rushing troops and ammunition to Shankaikwan, but the present outbreak does not necessarily mean that we will be forced to alter our plans with regard to North China.

"No Reason to Be Alarmed."

"It seems that Chang is staking everything on a final effort to create a disturbance with a view to forcing the intervention of a third power, as his strength is crumbling from within. There is no reason to feel overly alarmed."

Diplomatic quarters are trying their utmost to restrict the fighting and keep the situation from becoming aggravated. Instructions have gone out to representatives in Peiping and other cities to keep in close touch with the representatives of other powers and strive to settle the matter amicably and quickly.

Information received from a reliable quarter states that as a result of a conference held recently at Nanking secret orders were dispatched to all treaty ports to boycott Japanese goods, starting Jan. 1.

Japs Flee to Barracks.

Coming at a time when Japanese goods had finally started to reënter China, and Japan was regaining her lost markets, boycotts would come as a severe blow to commercial interests.

Dispatches received here at 10 o'clock tonight said that Japanese residents of Tientsin and Peiping were fleeing to the barracks of the Japanese legation guards, who were prepared to meet any contingency. Other Japanese residents were said to be taking refuge in the British concession at Tientsin.

Sixty Japanese women have taken refuge aboard a Japanese warship at Tientsin. Martial law has been promulgated in the Chinese quarter of Tientsin.

FOUND DEAD OF BULLET WOUND.

Oscar Umenhofer, 53 years old, 1657 North Mead avenue, was found dead in his garage with a bullet in his head last night. He is believed to have committed suicide.

500 SLAIN AS JAPANESE LAY CITY IN RUINS

The arrow indicates Shanhaikwan, which was described in dispatches from Peiping last night as having been laid in ruins by Japanese gunfire. Five hundred Chinese soldiers and an undetermined number of civilians were reported killed. The Chinese troops fled southward and were said to be reforming their lines about a mile southwest of Shanhaikwan for further resistance to the Japanese.

THREE RED LEADERS GET DEATH; ACCUSED OF GRAIN SABOTAGE

MOSCOW, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Three of the highest communist party and soviet officials in the Brekhovsky district of the Ukraine were sentenced to death today and eight others to imprisonment upon their conviction of treason. It was charged they engaged in a campaign of sabotage against the government's grain collection plan.

The Ukraine, once known as the breadbasket of Europe, still is the soviet government's chief grain producing area, but its 1932 production and delivery has been the most backward in the whole country. The three men sentenced to execution by shooting are Golovin, secretary of the regional communist party committee; Polamarechuk, president of the regional soviet executive committee, and Anistrat, senior agricultural technician for the regional executive committee.

They were charged with arbitrarily lowering the government's grain collection quotas, and falsely reporting on the extent of the crop to the central authorities. By thus actively assisting the Kulak, or independent farmer elements to cheat the government and keep most of their grain for themselves, they were branded as counter revolutionaries, traitors and betrayers of the working class.

VON LUDENDORFF IS THREATENED WITH A DUEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—Erich von Ludendorff, German general in the world war and leader in several attempts to overthrow the republican government, was threatened with a duel today by Herr Oldenburg-Januschau, die-hard monarchist friend and next door neighbor of President Paul von Hindenburg on his estate at Neudeck, East Prussia.

Von Ludendorff in his weekly paper insinuated that when the German nation donated the Neudeck estate to Von Hindenburg on his eightieth birthday Oldenburg-Januschau, as well as Von Hindenburg's son, Oscar, profited through business transactions. Oldenburg-Januschau denied the charges and reminded Von Ludendorff of the "manner in which such cases are fought out among cavaliers." He explained that the legal papers to the estate were made out in the name of Von Hindenburg's son was only a dodge to avoid payment of an inheritance tax. Oldenburg-Januschau, the paper said, received a greater mortgage than was justified from East Prussian relief funds on his estate.

HOOVER ASKING $300,000 FOR TWO FOREIGN PARLEYS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Congress today was asked to put up another $300,000 for financing American participation in international conferences.

In two messages President Hoover asked $150,000 for the American delegation at the Geneva disarmament conference and $150,000 for the delegation which is to go to London for the international economic conference called by the league of nations. The second appropriations for the arms conference will bring the American bill for that parley up to $450,000.

State department officials said the money was asked at this time so it would be available when President Elect Roosevelt assumes office. It was intimated the administration had been informed Mr. Roosevelt intended to go ahead with their disarmament program at Geneva.

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 3.—The young Swedish prince, Gustav Adolf, son of the crown prince of Sweden and grandson of King Gustav, has decided to enter commercial life. Tomorrow he will start to work as a clerk in one of the Stockholm banks. This is believed to be the first time in world history a future king has worked as an ordinary bank employé.

Prince Gustav Adolf is 26 years old and is well known as a sportsman. In 1928 he visited the United States and was best man for his cousin, Count Folke Bernadotte, at the latter's marriage to Miss Estelle Manville.

Parents Ask Search Here for Three Indiana Girls

SHANHAIKWAN IS NO STRANGER TO HOSTS OF WAR

Was Chinese Stronghold Centuries Ago.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Shanhaikwan, gateway city between China and Manchuria, which has been captured by Japanese troops, is one of the key cities of the far east, the National Geographic society said in a special bulletin today.

"Situated on a narrow coastal plain where the only water level trade route between China and Manchuria pierces the Great Wall of China, Shanhaikwan has for centuries been a place of strategic importance far out of proportion to its 80,000 population and few native industries," the society said.

Scene of Famous Gate.

"At Shanhaikwan the Great Wall drops down from the mountainous borderland between China proper and Manchuria and tumbles into the Gulf of Liaotung. Here is the best preserved section of the Great Wall and its celebrated eastern gate, called 'Under Heaven Number One Gate,' or 'The First Gate of the World.'

"Once Shanhaikwan and its part of the Great Wall formed part of the first line of Chinese defense against the Manchus. For more than 30 years the Manchus were kept at bay in this region. Finally, on May 26, 1644, aided by a furious sandstorm, the forces of the Manchu leader, Wu San Kuei, managed to overcome a vastly superior Chinese army and scaled the Great Wall, pouring into China to become masters of that country until the republic was established in 1912.

Occupied in Boxer War.

"Shanhaikwan was occupied by allied troops during the Boxer rebellion in 1900. Here the allied forces landed.

"Shanhaikwan, whose name means 'Between Mountain and Sea' [it lies three miles from the mountains and an equal distance from the sea], is roughly divided into three parts—the old walled city, surrounded by three miles of fortifications 40 feet high; a walled quarter east of the city proper and outside the Great Wall, and a third section outside the west gate of the city proper.

"Shanhaikwan owes most of its present importance to the railroad line between Tientsin and Mukden, which cuts through the Great Wall at this point. This is the only rail link between China proper and Manchuria, and with the Chinese Eastern and Trans-Siberian railways it forms part of a continuous transcontinental line to Europe in normal times.

Gap in Wall Made by Princess.

"The Tientsin-Mukden line was built more than a third of a century ago. Popular sentiment in China at that time would not have permitted a breach in the Great Wall for the line and it would have ended at Shanhaikwan had not a special opening in the wall been at hand. A Chinese princess seeking the body of her husband, who had been killed in defense of the wall and buried in it, tore down a part of the great structure. Through the gap thus made the railroad was run."

JACK PICKFORD DIES; VICTIM OF HIS OWN FAME

Movie Actor Succumbs in Paris Hospital.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Jack Pickford, brother of famous Mary, and a meteor among movie stars in his own right, died here this afternoon. He was 36 years old.

He died in the same American hospital where his first wife, Olive Thomas, Follies beauty, and screen star, succumbed during their honeymoon from mercurial poisoning—a poisoning which Pickford's friends always have believed was suicidal.

The official cause of Pickford's death was announced as "progressive multiple neuritis which affected the brain center." Around Paris bars where he was almost a landmark, they are saying tonight:

"Poor old Johnny. Dissipation finally got him."

Threw Away His Life.

Neither version tells the whole tragic story.

It is the story of a man who had everything he wanted and threw it away—including his life.

More than three months ago Pickford was brought to the hospital, worn out so that he could not eat. It was not the first time in his life he had been that way and he knew pretty well what he was up against. Physicians warned him that this time it was all over unless he stayed off liquor.

He remained at the hospital only two weeks. One day he just said, "What the hell!" and walked out.

He did not stay out long. In the middle of October he was back in the hospital again. They kept him in bed from then on. But it was too late.

Confident of Pulling Through.

"I'll pull through," he told friends.

It was a queer sort of death with no delirium. The body just grew weaker and weaker, and the heart, after a great fight, collapsed without warning.

Two days ago, although no one expected the end to be so near, it was evident that Pickford's fight for life was lost, and his secretary, Miss Grace Moore, telephoned his sister, Mary—Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks. Mrs. Fairbanks wanted to rush over, but was warned it probably would be useless.

A priest was notified to be ready, but Jack slipped out so quickly and so gently that the confessor did not have time to arrive. A cable announcing the death was sent to Mrs. Fairbanks this evening, and Miss Moore will accompany the body to the United States Saturday.

In Europe Since Late Summer.

Pickford had been in Europe since late summer. He was not strong when he left Hollywood last July on a long cruise through the Panama canal to Germany. That cruise, which was intended to restore his health, really did no good. After a rapid fire life into which he packed more action than any three ordinary men, Jack found the 31 monotonous days on ship a long boredom. He failed to take proper care of himself, and a few weeks around German resorts and Paris bars, where his generosity made him a legion of friends, did the rest.

Jack's long period in the hospital was actually calm and happy. First there was an endless string of friends, but the hospital finally had to take steps to keep most of them away. They tried to cheer Jack up, and physicians sometimes had difficulty preventing him from leaving again.

Douglas Fairbanks, who was a great pal of Pickford, saw him when he was in Europe and was worried about his condition.

Talks of Three Wives.

Pickford in his last days thought and talked a lot about the three women who had played the biggest rôles in his life. He said less of his present wife, Mary Mulhern, than of the others. She is getting a divorce which will not become final until March, but they were still friendly. She sent him a Christmas cable. He mostly talked about Marilyn Miller, whom he continued to love after she had divorced him.

Not long ago Marilyn's sister visited Jack on her way to England to ask him if he had any message for Marilyn.

Then, lying there in the hospital, he could not help thinking about the youthful Olive Thomas. From a window he could see the very garden where he paced, smoking endless cigarets while doctors were trying to save her after she had taken poison following what Pickford at the time admitted had been a "wild night" in Montmartre night clubs.

That tragedy did not quite ruin Pickford's life, but it helped twist it and made him wilder than ever.

Jack wanted to live, but often told friends he was not afraid to die. He said he had had all the thrills, all the adventures, all the money, all the fame, and all the friends he wanted and he would not mind when "finis" was written to the glamorous story.

Spoke of Sister Mary.

He thought and spoke of his sister, Mary, up to the very end.

Pickford's Paris friends declare that Jack was something more than just another playboy. There was something fine in him that dissipation never destroyed. They describe him as a wild, reckless youth, too stubborn to do anything anybody told him and always wanting to try something new and not caring much what came of it.

ENTERED MOVIES AT 13.

Jack Pickford, whose real name was John Carl Smit, was born in Toronto, Canada, on Aug. 18, 1896. He began his stage career with his sisters, Mary and Lottie Pickford, in a road show.

He had seven years of experience on the stage when he began his movie career in 1909 at the age of 13. His first picture of note was "Tom Sawyer." Jack became an American citizen in 1920 and adopted the name of John Carl Pickford, his sister having by this time become famous as Mary Pickford.

Jack's last picture was "Gang War," which was produced five years ago. Other films in which he starred were "Seventeen," "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," "The Bat," and "Exit Easily."

W. C. T. U. ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF ITS PRESIDENT

All Because a Dry Drinks Too Many.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The Cook county W. C. T. U., after a protracted executive session in which the matter was "fully discussed," yesterday voted to accept the resignation of its president, Mrs. Beata Brucer, 2646 North Hamlin avenue, for what was termed an "indiscretion."

Mrs. Brucer was not present at the meeting, having told Mrs. Ora Nichols, first vice president, who now assumes the presidency, that she did not wish to appear. The official body consists of about 100 women, who are officers of the various local W. C. T. U. chapters in the county. The meeting was held on the 13th floor of the Garrick building and Mrs. Brucer, according to the members, was about the only absentee.

Faces Wife in Court.

The former president's difficulties with a prohibition press agent who imbibed freely on Christmas eve became known last Thursday when Mrs. Brucer faced Mrs. Amelia Lynch, 1664 Farwell avenue, in the chambers of Municipal Judge Joseph Graber. Judge Graber previously had issued a warrant sought by Mrs. Lynch against Mrs. Brucer, which was not served. Mrs. Lynch charged Mrs. Brucer tried to steal her husband.

Mrs. Brucer promised Judge Graber to have nothing more to do with Mrs. Lynch's husband, Arthur, a former field representative of the Business Men's Prohibition Foundation, and was not put under a peace bond.

Finds Him Intoxicated.

Mrs. Brucer later explained in an interview that on Christmas eve she was summoned to Lynch's room in a Dearborn street rooming house, for which she was paying, and she found him there in a drunken condition. Her first impulse was to call his wife, she said, but he appealed to her as an old friend, and she decided to aid him, which she did by putting him to bed and giving him black coffee.

On the occasion of the interview Mrs. Brucer announced she would resign from the presidency of the Cook County W. C. T. U., adding: "I can't face those women. I know these good Christian women, and with some of them there is not much Christianity."

Later, however, she said that she had nothing to hide, and that she would "face the women and explain it to them, and let them put it to a vote whether to keep me as president."

Meeting in Two Parts.

The meeting yesterday was in two parts. The first one was attended by the presidents of 34 local unions. Mrs. W. L. Ferguson, president of the Illinois W. C. T. U., presided at this meeting, at which Mrs. Brucer's case was first discussed. Then 100 women, consisting of the presidents and the other chapter officers, met.

At the close of the second session Mrs. Ferguson issued the following typewritten statement:

"The Cook County Woman's Christian Temperance union has today, with great regret, accepted the resignation of its former president, Mrs. R. H. Brucer."

Then there was inserted in pencil the line: "A vote of fullest confidence was given her."

To Keep Her Membership.

The statement continued: "She will, however, retain her membership in the organization.

"While we stand by Mrs. Brucer and do not believe that she has been guilty of anything except indiscretion, and while we believe that she was attempting to put into practice what we are preaching, that one should help his fellow man when he is 'down,' it seems best under the circumstances to accept the resignation."

Mrs. Ferguson said that Mrs. Brucer had submitted her resignation by mail "immediately." She would not amplify this statement.

Door Like a Speakeasy.

The meetings were conducted in strictest secrecy. The room in which the board met was entered by a door in which a peep-hole such as is found on speakeasy doors gave the women within the opportunity of seeing who was without before they were given entrance. When the larger executive meeting was in progress the smaller room, which adjoined it and gave entrance to it, was guarded by two women who put a divan across the peephole door and sat within, watching all who approached.

"Reporters in disguise," said one woman to another. "They can't get away with that."

When the executive session roll call was concluded songs were sung to open the meeting. Asked later whether the first hymn was "White Ribbon Vibrations" or "America Is Going Dry," several members said: "We're not supposed to talk."

During the reading of the minutes of the last session reference was made to discussion of how to get more publicity for the organization and the cause, and what to do in case beer returns.

Aid to the Fallen.

After the meeting was adjourned most of the women departed with defiant glances as they passed reporters. Mrs. Bessie Baur, of Niles Center, recording secretary, smilingly made a statement, however. Asked if the phrase in the prepared statement about aiding a man when he was down referred to any drunken man, she said:

"Well, Mrs. Brucer didn't know he was drunk when she was summoned that night. And when she found he was drunk she had to aid him. It would have been un-Christian not to."

Another woman, asked if she voted to accept the former president's resignation, said:

"Of course. We all did. We are all Christian women, aren't we?"

Drop Below 1932

Payments of 1933 vehicle taxes at the office of City Clerk Brady yesterday totaled $361,575, in which was included the payments made during the month of December by forehanded motorists. Some 3,500 persons crowded the clerk's office to buy their license stickers yesterday. The collections were considerably below those for the first business day of 1932, when they totaled $585,756, an all time record for the office. Clerk Brady said that if payments do not increase it will be necessary to ask the police to start at once their annual drive against motorists who have failed to pay the tax. The police campaign usually is not begun until March.

FIND ACCOUNTS OF GARY WOMAN RECORDER SHORT

County Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Lake county, Ind., started an examination yesterday of the books of Mrs. Bessie B. Ross, 50 years old, a Republican woman leader of Gary, whose four year term as recorder of the county expired last Saturday night. There appears to be a $2,800 shortage thus far, said Mr. Estill.

The audit was prompted, he explained, by reports that Mrs. Ross had tried to end her life last Sunday. This report was denied, however, by Dr. George Gannon and Dr. J. Robert Doty, who attended Mrs. Ross. They said she accidentally took an overdose of sleeping medicine. She is now recovering.

Prosecutor Estill said he decided to make the audit on hearing a report that Mrs. Ross had written a note stating that the proceeds of her $3,500 life insurance policy might be used to repay money she had borrowed from county funds.

Estill said that Mrs. Ross is supposed to have borrowed $5,000 from her mother for her campaign last fall. She was defeated. Her mother, who lives in Muncie, mortgaged her home to lend Mrs. Ross the money. Mrs. Ross, he understood, tried desperately after her defeat to raise money to pay back the debt.

Dr. Frank Smithies, specialist in digestive diseases, was awarded the cross of the French Legion of Honor at a dinner at the Drake hotel last night. The presentation was made by Rene Weiller, French consul, in the name of the president of France in recognition of the physician's service to humanity. Dr. Smithies lives at 3740 Lake Shore drive.

TURNS UP BANDIT TO SAVE BROTHER IN PERIL OF CHAIR

The hidden hand of one brother reached out last night to save another brother from possible execution in the electric chair.

Last week the brother in peril of the chair—Frank Glenday, 26 years old, of 357 East 24th street—was arrested here as a member of the band of five bandits who late in November stole $4,000 from the bank at Stamping Ground, Ky., and killed the cashier. The capture was made by Lieut. Edward Kelly of the bureau and Chief Ernst Thompson of Stamping Ground.

Glenday confessed and is now in Kentucky. He said he aided in the robbery at the instigation of a man recently released from the Folsom prison in California. This man, he said, had been a fellow prisoner with his brother, Alex Glenday. Alex had ended his term, but officials would not release him until he obtained funds with which to get out of the state. The robbery provided the necessary funds.

Chief Thompson promised young Glenday he would try to save him from the chair if he would turn up this other convict. Glenday couldn't. But last night Chief Thompson arrested the man—Stribby Tincher—in St. Louis. The information leading to the arrest came from Alex Glenday.

ASKS TAX PARITY WITH NEIGHBORS ON GOLD COAST

C. S. Pearce Cites Slashes by Appeals Board.

Charles S. Pearce, president of the Colgate - Palmolive - Peet company, whose home is at 209 Lake Shore drive, yesterday informed the board of tax appeals that he intended to pay no more 1931 personal property taxes than his neighbors.

Through his counsel, Paul O'Donnell, Mr. Pearce cited 40 Gold Coast residents whose names were included in the list of 85 persons whose personal property assessments were reduced during a series of hearings by George F. Nixon and Fred W. Brummel, the board members. The reductions aggregated $900,000—almost 70 per cent of the total valuations as made by the assessor.

Lawyer Asks Reduction.

"These persons," the lawyer told the appeal board members who were reading over the three page list of names and assessments, "are all neighbors of Mr. Pearce. Their original assessments are not as much as his in most cases, and every one of them was reduced enormously."

"Most of these people have as much wealth as has Mr. Pearce," continued the lawyer. "I can see no reason why this list in its revised form as it left the rooms of these board members should not be sufficient proof to warrant a sizable decrease in the assessment against my client."

Before the attorney could offer to produce any more evidence the board members halted him. Then they said they would take the list of names and continue the hearing of Mr. Pearce's objection until Jan. 11. They promised to investigate his assertions before that time.

When Pearce and his attorney had departed the board members sent a message to Assessor Jacobs, inclosing the list of names. A note from Mr. Brummel asked that a deputy assessor be sent out to Mr. Pearce's home and suggested that a reappraisal of the property of some of the latter's neighbors would produce pertinent information.

Comment by Attorney.

An attorney who has represented several hundred taxpayers before the board of appeals heard the objection offered by Pearce. "That's the sort of thing the board can expect to hear from individual taxpayers of all degree, from the big manufacturing companies and the big department stores from now on," he said. "They have offered an invitation for complaints of all sorts by their wholesale slashing of the assessor's valuations."

Later in the day Assessor Jacobs directed that letters be sent out to the 85 taxpayers whose assessments were cut last week asking them to appear for another hearing before the board of appeals. Before this could be done, he was advised by County Attorney Hayden N. Bell that the action of the appeals board closed the personal property books. Any new appraisals of this property, the assessor was told, would have no standing.

Messrs. Nixon and Brummel then held a conference with the assessor. The three called upon Attorney George Lennon, who represents the board, and Attorney Bell to work out a formal procedure by which the tax books might be reopened and new information on the Gold Coast assessments presented to the appeals board.

Elected Speaker

MRS. MINNIE D. CRAIG.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 3.—(AP)—A small town banker's wife, interested in music and flowers as well as politics, became the first woman speaker of the state house of representatives today.

Mrs. Minnie D. Craig of Esmond, prominent in state Republican circles and a member of the legislature 10 years, was elected presiding officer as the lawmakers began their biennial session.

Friends of the middle aged woman, giving a unanimous ballot after a male Democratic rival received scattered votes, looked about to see whether they might claim for her the honor of being the first or only one of her sex in the nation to hold such an office.

TESTIFIES $900 LIQUOR HAILED "FILM REFORM"

Witness Says Al Smith, Others Were Guests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—A dinner at which the liquor bill totaled $900 was held to celebrate the opening of the first motion picture production for the purpose of making "clean, moral and religious" films, Thomas A. Lynn, secretary and treasurer of the company, testified in federal court here today.

Such notables as Alfred E. Smith, Michael Meehan, David Wark Griffith, and Morris Gest were at the speakers' table at the dinner, the witness said. Lynn was testifying at the trial of Otto E. Goebel, promoter, and eight other officers and employés of the company on a charge of mail fraud, resumed today before Federal Judge John M. Woolsey.

The defendants are alleged to have sold $3,000,000 in stock through the use of the names of prominent clergymen and laymen.

Rum for "Rainbow Man?"

The dinner described by the witness was held at the Hotel Biltmore in April, 1929, to mark the opening of "Rainbow Man" with Eddie Dowling, produced by the Sono-Arts corporation, a subsidiary.

In addition to the liquor bill, the dinner cost $3,500, Lynn said. He testified it had been his understanding that Mr. Meehan was to pay the liquor charges. The bill was charged by the company to advertising, however, as was the cost of the dinner, he said.

The witness made it clear that neither Mr. Smith nor Mr. Meehan was connected with the company. Mr. Smith, he said, was interested in the movement to cleanse the motion pictures, while Mr. Meehan was interested in the progress of his friend, Eddie Dowling.

Money Spent on Coast.

Lynn also testified that Mr. Goebel had spent $418,000 in production on the Pacific coast prior to July, 1929. There had been no supervision of these expenditures, he said. The prosecutor charged a copy of a $50,000 check was misused as a stock selling bait.

HOUSE TO IGNORE HOOVER'S BLAST ON REORGANIZING

Charges Democrats Dodge Issue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—House Democrats today went ahead with their program for killing the Hoover government reorganization program in the face of a blast from the White House charging them with insincerity in their professions of a desire to reduce the cost of government through merging federal functions.

Immediately following the issuance of a statement by President Hoover criticizing Democratic leaders for proposing to pass the reorganization problem in its entirety on to President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, house Democrats said that the Hoover reorganization recommendation would be ignored.

Will Turn Down Hoover Plan.

The plan, according to a statement issued by Chairman John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] of the house expenditures committee, is to push a resolution through the house vetoing every item on the reorganization plan forwarded by President Hoover. That done, he added, an attempt would be made to enact legislation clothing the incoming President with full powers to effect such reorganizations as he sees fit.

"The President knows," Cochran asserted, "that I am as anxious as he is to see a reorganization of government agencies. I might add that I am much more in favor of the elimination of useless bureaus and commissions than the President seems to be. I feel it is unjust and unfair to the incoming President practically to revolutionize the administration of fifty-eight activities two weeks before he assumes command of the government. My committee will meet Thursday to report out a resolution killing the Hoover reorganization plan."

Hoover Attack on Return.

The President's attack was issued a few moments after his return from Florida, where he spent several days battling sailfish and resting over the holiday period. Talking to newspaper men at his first press conference in several months, the President asserted with heat that all recent reorganization moves on the part of congress were merely make believe. He referred to the Democratic plan for turning the merging problem over to Gov. Roosevelt as "simply a device" to defeat reorganization.

"The proposals of Democratic leaders in congress to stop the reorganization of government functions which I have made is a backward step," he said. "The same opposition has now arisen which has defeated every effort at reorganization for twenty-five years. The chairman of one house committee discloses, 'Many members of the administration itself opposed Mr. Hoover's plan,' but that he had not called them to testify because 'he saw no reason to embarrass them.'

Must Act Soon, He Says.

"He could add that outside groups, congressional committees and members of congress fear a reduction of influence in the administration of these functions. The proposal to transfer the job of reorganization to my successor is simply a device by which it is hoped that these proposals can be defeated. Statements that I have made over ten years as to the opposition which has always thwarted reorganization have come true.

"Either congress must keep its hands off now or it must give to my successor much larger power of independent action than given to any President if there is ever to be reorganization.

"And that authority to be effective should be free of the limitations of the law passed last year which gives congress the veto power which prevents the abolition of functions, which prevents the rearrangement of major departments. Otherwise it will, as is now being demonstrated in the present law, again be merely make believe."

Must Follow His Plan.

The President said that any real reorganization "sensibly carried out" will sooner or later embrace the very executive orders which he issued some days ago and which are to be vetoed by the Democratic house if its plans are not upset. The President added that his orders had consolidated fifty-eight boards and bureaus into nine divisions. Many other consolidations remain to be ordered, he said.

"It is only by consolidation that duplication and waste of a multitude of officials can be eliminated," he continued. "It is the only way to further reduce logrolling and personal politics in these appropriations."

CATHOLICS WIN PLEA TO KEEP SCHOOLS OPEN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Catholic Parochial schools in Winnipeg, attended by 2,500 pupils, will remain open for the present at least. This was announced today by the Rev. Father R. A. Neary, secretary to Archbishop Sinnott. Classes will be resumed Wednesday.

This decision was announced following receipt by the archbishop of petitions bearing thousands of names urging that the 10 schools be kept open, promising on behalf of the signatories to make any sacrifice to that end.

It had previously been decided to close the schools owing to the heavy financial burden, and the Winnipeg school board was preparing to absorb Catholic pupils into the public schools.

PLAN TO BALANCE BUDGET AWAITS ROOSEVELT WORD

Leaders Meet Him in N. Y. Tomorrow.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Democratic plans for balancing the budget are to be held in abeyance, pending the conference on Thursday night between President Elect Roosevelt, Speaker and Vice President Elect Garner, Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic senate leader, and other Democratic leaders.

This was the decision today of a conference of those who will leave Washington for the meeting, Thursday in New York.

The house ways and means committee hearings which were to have begun tomorrow in the hope that they might produce some yet untapped source of revenue were postponed.

Uncertain What To Do.

Democrats in congress, it is reported, have been groping ever since Gov. Roosevelt announced he opposed a general sales tax. They are, moreover, uncertain what President Hoover will do in case the pending beer bill is passed, with is promise of at least 150 million dollars of revenue in the first year of operation.

That there are those who still believe a sales tax is the only means of balancing the budget was disclosed when Senator Robinson, following the conference of those who will meet Mr. Roosevelt, said a sales tax had been among the topics of discussion.

Another subject concerned the giving to Mr. Roosevelt the broad authority to reorganize the government departments which Democrats refused to President Hoover.

Still a third topic was the idea favored by some of issuing bonds for the construction of public works instead of paying for them out of current appropriations.

Tydings and George Give Plan.

At the same time another Democratic proposal was put forward in the senate by Senators Millard Tydings of Maryland and Walter George of Georgia in a resolution to amend the national defense act of 1916 by the creation of a "council of national stability and welfare" to consist of the secretaries of the treasury, war, navy, interior, agriculture, commerce, and labor and to be assisted by an advisory committee of nine prominent citizens. The members of the advisory committee, the resolution provided, should be nominated by Mr. Roosevelt and appointed by President Hoover so they might be ready and waiting when the new administration began.

"Many of the problems of the present depression such as a revival of international trade, war debts, rehabilitation of depreciated currencies and disarmament, except remotely, will not respond to congressional or even ultranational treatment," Senator Tyding declared. "Solutions for these matters must, in large measure, come from either diplomatic negotiations or world conferences.

"In meeting the extraordinary conditions, both at home and abroad, the best advice and planning in the nation is imperative if these problems are to be solved soundly.

"The national planning commission would be removed from the political sphere, could suggest to the President and congress the fundamental remedies necessary. We must keep in mind that the day of expediency will eventually come to an end. The disposition is to apply too many temporary remedies. Policies must go deeper than that."

BORAH HAS INFLATION BILL READY; WHEELER CITES HIS SILVER PLAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The movement to bring about currency inflation came to the surface in the senate today. Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho] is preparing an inflation bill and soon will introduce it.

Following a speech on wheat by Senator John Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], Senator Borah asked how it would be possible to raise the price of domestic commodities when such prices in the rest of the world kept falling?

"At the present time," Senator Borah said, "thirty-two nations are off the gold standard. We are on the gold standard. That is practically destroying the last hope of the farmer to get any reasonable price for his commodities. How are we going to remedy this situation until we remedy the money situation?"

Senator Bankhead told the Idaho senator he was "in full accord with his views."

"I want to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar," said Senator Bankhead. "I should like to see the purchasing power of the people of other countries of the world increased."

Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], said the currency of gold standard countries has gone up. Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.] declared with the monetary systems once stabilized other problems regarding prices would settle themselves.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], spoke of his efforts to "remonetize silver." The bill is in the hands of the finance committee.

"We must do one of two things in this country to bring up the price level," he asserted. "We shall either have to go off the gold standard or we shall have to remonetize silver."

IRELAND DECIDES TO PARTICIPATE IN WORLD'S FAIR

The Irish Free State formally decided yesterday to participate in the World's Fair this summer. The announcement was contained in a cable dispatch received by W. J. B. Macaulay, consul general of the country, in New York, and was forwarded to the exposition headquarters here.

The action follows Mr. Macaulay's visit to the exposition grounds last month. He recommended an exhibit of modern industrial development and ancient culture in Ireland. He suggested that the exhibit include a display of Irish gold ornamental work from 200 B. C. to 700 A. D.

Ireland was the 17th foreign nation to announce participation.

The World's Fair has concluded arrangements with the Pal-Waukee airport to take passengers for an aerial view of the exposition. Large twin motor Sikorsky amphibian planes, with a capacity of 10 passengers, will be used. Space has been provided from Leif Ericson drive to the water front for a ramp and other facilities.

Indiana Allows a Month to Buy Auto Licenses

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Automobile license plates of 1932 will be good in Indiana only until Feb. 1, James Carpenter, head of the state automobile license division of the secretary of state's office decided today. Last year the time was extended until in March.

TEACHERS MUST TAKE SALARY CUT, DECLARES MYERS

Start Today to Slash Budget 19 Million.

Salaries of teachers and other employés of the school system must be cut "if we are to balance our 1933 budget," Lewis E. Myers, president of the board of education, declared last night on the eve of a special board meeting today when a tentative budget totaling $79,819,170 is presented to the trustees. How to slash the tentative estimates some $19,000,000 to stay within an estimated revenue of $61,000,000, is the task on which the board will begin work today.

Mr. Myers declared that he was in favor of making pay reductions on the basis of the salary and wage scales of 1931. The pay rolls were pruned slightly in 1932 by shortening the school term, but the basic scales were left untouched.

"Some employés get so little that their pay checks should not be touched," said Mr. Myers. "I'm in favor of making the higher salaried employés stand the bulk of the cut and graduating the reduction."

Board Favors Reduction.

A majority of the school trustees have announced that they will vote for salary cuts if these prove necessary to keep the budget within the anticipated revenue. But before the school board starts cutting salaries many needless expenditures must be slashed in the opinion of Mr. Myers. In this category he placed the Chicago Normal college, training school for teachers at 6800 Stewart avenue.

There are more than 3,000 teachers in the city waiting assignment. According to Supt. William J. Bogan, the schools absorb only about 600 teachers a year. With the supply of teachers exceeding the demand, Mr. Myers believes the college should be closed for one year. The institution was given $288,055.50 in the 1932 budget.

If the college could be run on a self-supporting basis by charging tuition that would be a different matter, Mr. Myers declared. "I've no objection to keeping the place open if it supports itself," he added.

Vote to Stay Within Levy.

The tentative budget which Howard P. Savage, school business manager, will submit today balances the appropriations on the maximum levies for the various school funds. The school trustees have voted, however, to stay within a tax levy of 48 million dollars, exclusive of a bond levy, which was recommended by the citizens' committee on public expenditures.

The bond levy amounts to approximately eight million dollars. The board has more than five million dollars available from sources other than taxes, such as rents and money from the state distributive fund. Adding these amounts to the 48 million dollars, the board will have approximately 61 million dollars to appropriate against in 1933.

John Howatt, school engineer, announced yesterday that reductions of $354,335 had been made from Aug. 1 to Dec. 21 of last year in the salaries of janitors, firemen, engineers, and other employés in his department. This is $16,409 more than the cut required from Mr. Howatt's department when the board reduced its 1932 levies by 15 million dollars last summer.

SEEKS TO ABOLISH SIX COLLEGES IN TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Abolition of the University of Tennessee Junior college, the Tennessee Polytechnic institute and the four state normal schools was sought in a bill introduced in the legislature today by Senator W. P. Monroe of Union county. He estimated the saving would be $2,000,000 biennially. The normal schools are located at Memphis, Clarksville, Johnson City and Murfreesboro. Tennessee Polytechnic institute is at Cookeville and the junior college at Martin.

O'BRIEN TAKES OFFICE AS NEW YORK MAYOR; HE PLEDGES ECONOMY

New York, Jan. 3.—Mayor John P. O'Brien, inducted into office at city hall this afternoon, pledged himself in his inaugural address to an eleven-point program of municipal economy. All the city's Democratic leaders applauded.

There were not more than half a dozen silk hats in the crowd that filled the aldermanic chamber.

As summarized by himself, Mayor O'Brien's program includes:

Creation of a centralized purchasing department.

Turning over to the department of public markets the functions of the department of weights and measures and abolishing the latter.

Abolition of the board of taxicab control, transferring its functions to the police department.

Abolition of the city planning commission, giving its functions to the chief engineer of the board of estimate.

Consolidation of inspection of buildings.

Reorganization of the department of sanitation for efficiency and economy.

Creation of a capital outlay budget.

Among those present were John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall; John H. McCooey of Brooklyn, John Theofel of Queens, Borough President Samuel Levy of Manhattan, James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state and Bronx Democratic leader; ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith. Smith got his usual big cheer from the crowd.

850 FURNITURE BUYERS ARRIVE FOR MART SHOW

More than 850 buyers from furniture and department stores throughout the country registered yesterday at the American Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, where a national semi-annual furniture display opened. More than four thousand are expected in Chicago during the two weeks of the show to attend displays both at the Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart.

Expressions of optimism regarding the future of the industry were made by Dr. A. P. Haake of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers and Roscoe R. Rau of the National Retail Furniture association. New styles in "moderne" furniture, to which an impetus is expected to be given by the coming Century of Progress, are bound to encourage public buying, they said.

Furniture men are facing 1933 with more confidence than they showed last season, according to Lawrence H. Whiting, chairman of the board of the Furniture Mart and chairman of the furniture reconstruction council.

At a round table merchandising conference luncheon to be held in the Merchandise Mart grill today George W. Ritter, consultant, and D'Alton D. Fennell will speak.

$250,000 SAVING MADE IN 1932 BY CITY FIRE DEPT.

A saving of approximately $250,000 out of the $6,255,356 that was appropriated by the city council for the operation of the fire department during 1932 was reported to Mayor Cermak yesterday in an annual report submitted by Acting Fire Commissioner Carmody.

As an economy measure four fire stations were abandoned early last year, but this did not impair the fire fighting service, according to the commissioner. He said that the department functioned more efficiently because of the concentration of personnel nearer the center of greatest fire hazards. The number of fires was less during the first ten months of last year than during the corresponding period of 1931, he reported.

ROOSEVELT HAS FIRST CONGRESS YET TO DEAL WITH

May Learn It's Hard to Be Rid of Wasteful Jobs.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—It will be depressing to some of our citizens but quite heartening to deserving Democrats to hear that Mr. Roosevelt's plan to abolish the United States doghouse inspection service and the federal bureau for the investigation of conditions and trends among other departments of the government in order to save money is strictly the old heat, as we say.

Mr. Roosevelt may think he is going to abolish a few departments and he may even go so far as to try, but Mr. Roosevelt has not had any experience with the United States congress as yet. When he becomes familiar with the methods of the boys he will be better able to appreciate Mr. Hoover's feelings in uttering his remarks on reorganization today.

Mr. Hoover Comments.

Mr. Hoover's remarks were in the nature of a squawk. He had heard, of course, that Mr. Roosevelt intended to show him up immediately after moving into the White House by wiping out many wasteful jobs, and it seems to have stirred him up because he had been trying to do the same thing for a long time. But Mr. Hoover said the Democrats would not let him do this. It seems that this would abolish a great many jobs which they wished to keep available for Democrats who wish to serve their country after the fourth of March. So, naturally, when Mr. Hoover heard that Mr. Roosevelt was boasting of what he was going to do he squawked.

Whe. the time comes to select departments for consolidation and extinction Mr. Roosevelt will begin to learn what it is all about. It will be a good deal like trying to get a couple of heavyweights together, except, of course, that now and again heavyweights do get together, whereas politicians never have been known to abolish one job without creating two in its place.

There seems to be great amusement among the Washington experts over the innocent credulity with which the citizens accepted Mr. Roosevelt's heat on this matter of shrinking or compacting the government through the elimination of jobs.

Long Time on the Outside.

The deserving Democrats have been waiting since Woodrow Wilson's time for this opportunity to serve their country in the doghouse inspection department and other important branches of the public service, and if congress were to give Mr. Roosevelt authority to cancel these opportunities just on the dawn of the new tomorrow things would go very hard for the members of congress.

As Mr. Hoover suggested, everybody desires to cancel the other fellow's patronage, which is the technical name for the jobs with which the boys pay off those who elect them, but none of them are willing to cancel their own. If they should be so brash as to authorize Mr. Roosevelt to do this according to his own judgment, the sufferings of the expectant workers who waited so long and toiled so hopefully in the campaigns would be acute and many of the statesmen would be afraid to go home again.

The upshot of all this will be, as I understand it, that if the boys give this authority to Mr. Roosevelt at all, they will reser e the right to review his decisions and correct any which they do not happen to like, individually, as being unduly harsh on their own patronage. Consequently, after Mr. Roosevelt has canceled out all the jobs which seem to him to be not strictly necessary for the safety of the country the boys on the hill will go over his report and stick them back in again and everything will be as before.

Boys on the Hill Responsible.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested an idea which was intended to let the boys out from under and place the blame on him. He was willing to make the decisions and take the rap, as the Americans say, apparently not caring much whether he is ever reelected to a second term or not. But there is one serious fault in this plan. That is that the expectant Democrats, if they didn't get their jobs, would blame the boys on the hill for giving Mr. Roosevelt the authority to wipe out the positions in the first place.

I am not sure that I have got all this exactly straight, because it seems such a racket that I am wondering how such things can be among statesmen whom I always understood to be the leaders of the nation and very highminded in all things. But I am assured in a very matter of fact way by people who have been working around Washington for years that it has always been customary for the party in power at a given time to give jobs to great numbers of petty politicians, rural and otherwise, and pay them out of the public taxes as a reward for their work in electing the ticket. Do I understand this correctly when I understand that a congressman drawing good pay and pickings out of the treasury is allowed to take more money out of the treasury to pay other people for turning out the vote which elected him?

I have known of cases in private business in which people who got good jobs were grateful enough to slip a little present to the parties who recommended them. But I am sure that in private business it would be considered very reprehensible for them to lift the money out of the firm's cash drawer for this purpose.

Judges at Work in New Evanston Court

First Case Heard

The criminal branch of the new Evanston Municipal court heard its first case yesterday. Edward Heley, 25 years old, 1237 Chicago avenue, Evanston, was sent to the bridewell to serve out a fine of $10 imposed for disorderly conduct by Associate Justice Walter W. Ross. The civil branch of the court, in which Chief Justice Harry H. Porter will sit, will not open until next week. It has no cases on file at present.

RUMOR POMERENE TO LOSE JOB AS R. F. C. CHAIRMAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—According to reports traveling the grapevines between Washington and Hyde Park, Atlee Pomerene, Democratic chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is to be squeezed out by the incoming Roosevelt administration.

Another rumor is that Eugene Meyer will continue as governor of the federal reserve board at least for a year or two and perhaps for another term. The reports are that Mr. Meyer's Republicanism will not operate to cost him his job.

Mr. Pomerene is in a vulnerable position because under the law only four of the seven members of the board can belong to the same political party. At present four members, including the chairman, are Democrats. Addition of a Democratic secretary of the treasury would bring the number to five. This means that one must resign.

There are persistent reports that Chairman Pomerene offended many Democrats in the senate by making speeches praising the work of the Reconstruction Finance corporation during the national campaign.

GUNMAN INVADES PAINTERS' UNION MEETING; 3 SHOT

Three men were shot and wounded last night by an unidentified intruder who broke into a meeting of the Painters' union, local No. 275, held in the Bakers' hall at 218 West Oak street.

The wounded are Benjamin Dickerman, 40 years old, 1219 North Leavitt street; Harry Bahlke, 35 years old, 1521 Cleveland avenue, and Peter Planting, 32 years old, 125 North Humphrey avenue, Oak Park. Each was shot in the legs. They were taken to the Henrotin hospital.

August Friedman, 3946 Belmont avenue, president of the local, told the police that the meeting was called to discuss plans for the new year. He and other members said there had recently been an election of officers and that members of another union which had intended to muscle in had been defeated.

Some of the painters said that four men tried to break in and that one of them belonged to the faction which had been defeated. The other three, one of them the gunman, were not recognized by those at the meeting. It was said that the man with the pistol wrestled with the sergeant at arms, Otto Voegel, and began shooting after he had been thrown to the floor.

ALLOTMENT BILL OF FARM RELIEF GIVEN TO HOUSE

Four Provisions Included in Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Democratic allotment plan of farm relief was formally introduced in the house of representatives today.

Emerging from the house committee on agriculture it was revealed as a measure proposing to help the farmer and thereby—so it was claimed—the nation by these four provisions:

1. To levy on the four basic farm commodities of wheat, hogs, cotton, and tobacco, and on silk and rayon a manufacturers' sales tax which, in the case of wheat, will amount to 200 per cent of the present farm price and which, in the case of hogs, will amount to nearly 50 per cent of the current price of pork.

2. To give power to the secretary of agriculture to fix the prices of the four commodities by determining their "fair exchange value" and to determine the "fair exchange allowance" necessary to restore the purchasing power of the commodities to their 1909-'14 level.

3. To bring about inflation by handing to the farmer in the shape of "adjustment certificates" a negotiable certificate of government indebtedness secured by the tax revenues and redeemable by the government.

4. To give to the secretary of agriculture power to control the production of wheat, hogs, cotton, and tobacco by granting him authority to determine the percentage of production required for domestic consumption; to disburse adjustment certificates only to those farmers who cut production 20 per cent; to decide how this curtailment of production shall be determined, and to decide what use the farmer shall make of lands so taken out of production.

These were the basic features of the bill which President Elect Roosevelt and his Democratic leaders in congress are offering as their solution of the farm surplus and price situation.

Wheat at 90 Cents.

In the case of wheat it is estimated that the fair exchange allowance would amount to about 60 cents, in order to raise the present farm price to 90 cents and over. For hogs the initial allowance would be based on the difference between the current price and 3½ cents, gradually rising until a full allowance based on prewar purchasing power is reached.

The tax would be levied on the processing of the commodities, with home processing exempted. The bill provides for the taxing of floor stocks, and additional tariffs equal to the allowance rates are to be imposed to protect against foreign invasion of goods.

On the part of more than one Democrat, however, it is being offered in the belief that if passed in this session it will be vetoed by President Hoover. Republicans in congress are angrily charging that politics is the mainspring of the Democrats' great desire to help the farmer.

Two Democrats refused to stay in line in the 14 to 8 vote by which the house agricultural committee reported the measure out. Though the session was executive, they were reported to be Representatives Harry P. Beam of Chicago and William L. Nelson of Missouri. The other opponents, according to report, were Representatives John D. Clarke of New York, Charles Adkins of Illinois, Fred S. Purnell of Indiana, Thomas D. Hall of North Dakota, Donald F. Snow of Maine, and August H. Andresen of Minnesota.

The bill is to be made the subject of a special rule tomorrow which will permit its consideration for eight hours of general debate, beginning on Thursday, with the expectation that it will be passed before the end of the week.

Though a strenuous fight was waged in committee, dairy products were not included in the measure. An amendment to include rice will be offered by the committee on the house floor.

It is provided that the measure be in effect for one year, with the President given authority to continue it for an additional year.

Chairman Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.] in a statement given out at the time the bill was introduced defended it as an emergency measure necessary to give such other proposed legislation as the refinancing of farm mortgages and readjustment of taxes time to work.

Roosevelt Outlines Policies to Discuss with Congressmen

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Freed now of all other cares, Franklin D. Roosevelt came to New York City tonight to start planning in earnest his policies as President of the United States.

The President elect said he would devote tomorrow to preparation of the conference he will hold on Thursday night, at his home here, with the Democratic leaders in congress. Before coming to New York today Mr. Roosevelt spent an hour discussing the farm relief question with Henry Morgenthau Jr., state commissioner of conservation, who has been Roosevelt's farm adviser and his contact man with all of the agricultural interests of the nation.

Although the President elect declined to comment on the details of his discussion with Mr. Morgenthau, it was reported they went over the proposals of the farm relief legislation pending before congress. Mr. Roosevelt has indicated that he strongly desires the present congress to pass bills providing for an application of the domestic allotment plan to the 1933 wheat crop, and similar bills calculated to raise the farmers' prices for tobacco, corn and cotton.

Tomorrow the President elect plans to meet economic advisers, to attempt to reach a more definite decision in his own mind as to what the Democratic party in congress should do toward balancing the federal budget at this time. He has stated his approval of a plan whereby congress would give him the power, after March 4, to deal drastically in consolidating and reorganizing and eliminating bureaus in the federal government, but today's criticism by President Hoover, who charged that the Democrats were using that proposal simply to avoid the responsibility for defeating the Hoover economy recommendations, may alter the Democratic position somewhat.

It is also expected that during the next two weeks, prior to Mr. Roosevelt's departure for Warm Springs, Ga., the President elect will meet with his New York City supporters to consider appointments to the cabinet.

With the time for selections drawing short, he is prepared to receive direct approaches toward aiding his task. He is also confronted with naming ambassadors and consuls to the foreign powers. His hope is that through these envoys he will put through his plans for a revival of world trade and for settlement of the pressing issues of disarmament and the payment of the war debts.

DELAY DECISION ON THE RETURN OF STEVENS' BOOKS

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday continued until Jan. 6, the motion of counsel for James W. Stevens, former chairman of the board of the Illinois Life Insurance company, for the return of his personal books.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green and Assistant State's Attorneys John E. Pedderson and James J. Cherry asked additional time in which to prepare petitions asking permission to examine the books. It was intimated that an informal agreement may be reached, obviating the necessity of grand jury subpoenas.

Agents of Gen. Abel Davis, receiver for the insurance company, had virtually completed their audit yesterday, but due to the illness of Gen. Davis no report will be made to Judge Wilkerson before tomorrow or Friday, it was announced. The report is expected to make further revelations about the operation of the insurance company by the Stevens family. Both state and federal investigations are under way.

SANITARY BOARD ASKS U. S. LOAN; ANSWERS COURT

Taxes Delayed, Can't Sell Bonds.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Chicago sanitary district today in its semi-annual report told the United States Supreme court that its failure to push work on the sewage treatment program ordered by the court in the lake diversion case has been due solely to lack of funds.

Asks Federal Loan.

If the Reconstruction Finance corporation agrees to advence the $36,450,000 for which it has been asked by the sanitary district, "work on the sewage treatment construction program would be resumed at once on the $8,810,500 of work already under contract and on 3½ to 4 million dollars worth of work for which plans are ready," the report said.

The report was a defense against recent charges that the district has "wilfully" neglected the court's order to construct the sewage disposal stations. No mention was made of the court's recent action in appointing Edward F. McLennen, Boston attorney, as a special master to conduct an investigation of the neglect charges.

Unable to Sell Bonds.

The sanitary district now has $43,000,000 of bonds for sale, the report said, but is unable to find buyers for them. Similarly, the district has been unable to collect $40,707,000 in taxes now due. Failure to sell bonds, added to tax delinquencies, has held back construction work for last year.

JOE GREIN FINDS 'SHORT GALLONS' IN ALKY TRAFFIC

The bootlegger has joined the housewife as a victim of short weighting merchants, City Sealer Joe Grein said yesterday. Examination of a number of five gallon alcohol cans taken in raids disclosed that they are each three quarts short.

Another new method of cheating adopted by several poultry dealers in the city is the use of a one and one-half pound iron weight, Grein said. Investigators have discovered that these dealers insert the weight in poultry during weighing.

3 White Men Charged with Killing Negro in Tennessee

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Three white men were charged with murder today for the slaying of a Negro they said they were bringing to jail for an attempted criminal attack. They are Ernest Crook, his son, B. C. Crook, and his son-in-law, W. R. Blakey. In a signed statement B. C. Crook said he shot the Negro when the latter jumped from their car and ran.

BONUS FRIENDS URGE PERSHING, BYRD SALARY CUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Members of congress who seek funds for the veterans struck again today at those demanding veterans' benefits be curtailed.

Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.], himself a veteran, and Representative Patman [Dem., Tex.], perennial author of bonus legislation, caustically denounced Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Gen. John J. Pershing and other officers who draw government money and at the same time advocate cuts in veterans' appropriations.

Demand 411 Million Cash.

Admiral Byrd and Gen. Pershing, together with Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord and Rear Admiral William S. Sims are members of the National Economy league which has demanded a 411 million dollar decrease in the annual outlay for veterans.

Senator Robinson on the senate floor asserted that Admiral Byrd's position was inconsistent. Admiral Byrd for a time traveled and lectured extensively for the economy league.

"Admiral Byrd draws retirement pay of $4,200," Senator Robinson said. "He is a young man and no one would say he is in distressing need of the pension. If he wishes to be entirely sincere, he ought to come to the government and say 'Here's the $4,200; I don't need it.'"

Pershing's Salary $21,000.

In the house, Mr. Patman pointed out that Gen. Pershing was drawing $21,000 a year as general of the armies and head of the battle monuments commission.

"If we are to cut veterans' benefits," said the Texas congressman, "we ought to start with men like Pershing."

Admiral Byrd was defended by Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], a lifelong friend who painted a glowing picture of the admiral's character and achievements and reminded the senate that not a voice had been raised in opposition when Admiral Byrd was promoted by congress for the flights which culminated in his antarctic expedition.

Sees 400 Million Saving.

Meanwhile, the joint committee on veterans' legislation heard further witnesses demand a large cut in the billion dollars that goes annually to the veterans.

Among witnesses for the National Association of Manufacturers was Noel Sargent, economist, who presented recommendations showing where more than 400 millions a year could be saved. Mr. Sargent said his association opposed federal aid to any veterans whose disability was not service-connected.

Further protests were presented by Demarest Lloyd, executive secretary of the Taxpayers' union, who testified that "there is no reason why a man who served in the army should become a member of a specially privileged class."

Soviet Icebreaker Runs Aground Off Spitzbergen

MOSCOW, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Tass News Agency reported today that the soviet icebreaker Malygin has run aground off Spitzbergen. The smaller vessel Sedov, which was sent to its aid, was unable to refloat the Malygin, the reports stated, and the icebreaker Lenin was dispatched from Archangel in a new attempt. Reports received here did not mention casualties. The Malygin set out with a crew of 70.

BILL TO CONTROL SALE OF BEER IN CAPITAL IS OFFERED IN HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A measure regulating the sale of beer in the national capital was introduced in the house today by Representative Loring M. Black [Dem., N. Y.].

"The purpose of this bill," said Mr. Black, "is to provide a form of control in the event the sale of beer is made legal as it probably will be, before the 18th amendment is repealed." Drafted by the Crusaders, the measure may become a model for state control legislation, the New York representative said.

The main provisions are as follows:

A tax of $2.50 per barrel would be levied on all beer sold in the District of Columbia; a license fee of $100 levied on all establishments selling beer by the glass and a tax of $25 on establishments selling beer by the bottle; restrictions under which establishments selling beer by the bottle could not sell it by the glass and establishments selling beer by the glass could not sell it by the bottle; restrictions against the sale of beer to persons under 18 years old; and restrictions designed to prevent brewers or wholesalers from controlling establishments engaged in retailing beer.

Find Report King's Friend Was Murdered Is a Myth

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 3.—(AP)—It was established today that there was no foundation for a rumor published abroad that Mme. Magda Lupescu, friend of King Carol, had been murdered in Bucharest. Mme. Lupescu is in excellent health, living quietly at her villa in a fashionable residential district of the city. She received friends there on Christmas and New Year's day.

COLDS GO THROUGH 3 STAGES!

And They are Far Easier Stopped in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief is twice as easy in the first stage.

For prompt relief take a couple of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine immediately upon catching cold. This will usually expel the cold overnight and thus prevent the spread of the infection within your system.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. Kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful. May be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is absolutely no penalty attached to its use. For more than 40 years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Get yourself a package today and be ready for any cold that may come along. Say "NO" to a substitute!

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to keep your system immune.

JUVENILE COURT SYSTEM HIT IN TWO RAPE CASES

Records of Varecha and Bukovitz Cited.

The Criminal court is ready to handle delinquents of the type of James [Iggy] Varecha and Sigmond Bukovitz, both 17 years old and both robber-rapist "graduates" of the Juvenile court system, if Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court will send her recalcitrant wards to be dealt with by men experienced in the cases of those charged with serious crimes.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court made this announcement yesterday. At the same time the Evanston police said that Bukovitz had been positively identified as the youth who on Dec. 13 robbed and attacked Mrs. Helen Holzfeind, 29 years old, 1334 North Shore avenue, at the Ridge avenue station of the elevated lines in Evanston.

Two Cases Are Alike.

Bukovitz, like Varecha who is now under sentence of death for murder, was sent by Judge Bartelme and her Juvenile court associates to every possible institution over which that court has jurisdiction. When no other place of incarceration was available Bukovitz, like Varecha, was sent to the Dixon state hospital, a home for feeble minded which has no provisions for handling those inclined to escape.

Under existing statutes the Juvenile court has jurisdiction over its wards up to 21 years of age. No matter what the crime, with the possible exception of murder, it has been the custom of the court to insist on retaining jurisdiction over young criminals at least until they reach the age of 17 or 18.

The presiding judge of the Juvenile court is selected by the judges of the Circuit court. They select one of their own members for this post and it has been the practice to allow the same judge to continue the work year after year. The judges of the Circuit court have exclusive jurisdiction to change the judge in the court.

Prystalski and Varecha Case.

Judge Prystalski is a member of the Superior court, which has no voice in Juvenile court affairs. As chief justice of the Criminal court, however, his attention was called to the Juvenile court by the Varecha case. The chief justice sentenced Varecha to the electric chair for the murder of Frank Jordan in a south side holdup on the night of Nov. 16. On the same night, after the slaying of Jordan, Varecha kidnaped and attacked the young woman companion of another robbery victim. These crimes occurred after he had escaped from the Dixon hospital.

"There is something wrong somewhere," said Judge Prystalski yesterday. "Dixon most certainly is not the place to send boys of the Varecha and Bukovitz type. The walk away from that place without much trouble.

"Let them bring the cases of that type over to this court and we will try them. If the defendant is insane he can be sent to some institution where he will be kept at least until he recovers his sanity. If not we can send them to an institution where they will be locked up until such time as the state provides some different institution for offenders of that type. They should be kept locked up when they demonstrate repeatedly that they cannot be trusted with their liberty. The public certainly is entitled to some protection."

Matter of Jurisdiction.

Under the criminal code the Criminal court has jurisdiction over those who commit crimes if they have arrived at the age of 14 years "or before that age if such persons know the distinction between good and evil." However, when the Juvenile court act was passed it transferred jurisdiction over all juvenile defendants to that court when the defendants became wards of the court, unless the Juvenile court waived its jurisdiction. Both Varecha and Bukovitz became wards of the Juvenile court at an early age.

Judge Bartelme, who has always sat in the Juvenile court since she was elected a circuit judge, is at present in California on a vacation. She will not return to her duties until next Monday. In the meantime other circuit judges are presiding in the Juvenile court once or twice a week.

Judge Craig Hood presided there yesterday. He finished his work before 2:30 o'clock and left the building. The next session of court will be on Friday, when Judge William V. Brothers will preside.

Juvenile delinquents who are sent to the Dixon hospital as feeble minded cause all of the trouble in the institution, according to Dr. W. G. Murray, the superintendent. In the last five years 107 of these delinquents have escaped and only 32 have been returned.

As Judge Prystalski pointed out in the Varecha case, the Juvenile court authorities were not uninformed that Varecha was a chronic runaway. Maj. Harry Hill, chief probation officer of the Juvenile court, said that the same was true of Sigmond Bukovitz. A brother, Walter Bukovitz, is another who will not stay locked up in Dixon. He, like Sigmond, walked away from the institution five times.

The Juvenile court records show that Sigmond Bukovitz first came to the attention of the Juvenile court in September, 1925. He was the fourth member of the family to come under the scrutiny of the court. His father and mother also have been in the Evanston Police courts repeatedly on disorderly conduct and liquor selling charges.

Record of Young Bukovitz.

Sigmond was first sent to the Polish Manual training school. He stayed there from September to December, 1926, before he ran away. His first offense was having stolen goods in his possession.

The next entries show that the juvenile authorities tried five times to keep him at the Cook county school for boys. These efforts failing, he was sent for his next offense to a training school called the Oakes. He could not be kept there and finally he was ordered to the St. Charles school for boys. One of his offenses was robbing another youth. Another time he stole blankets from an automobile.

In August, 1930, he was caught stealing an automobile. For this he was sent to the Dixon hospital from which he escaped five times.

Young Bukovitz has been under observation by the Institute of Juvenile Research from the first. The first report said he was easily led by his older brother. It said he was "somewhat mentally retarded although considerably above the feeble minded stage."

"A Border Line Case."

As he progressed through his Juvenile court course the institute classed him as "a border line case, but not great enough to warrant placing him in the feeble-minded class."

On July 30, 1930, the institute made this report on Bukovitz:

"The Stanford-Binet test shows a mental age of 8 years and 8 months. This would classify him as being a high grade mental defective intelligence. He impresses examiner as being a defective, adolescent boy, emotionally unstable and markedly egocentric. However, he has become more aggressive, thinks he is tough and hard boiled as a result of institutional placements with delinquent boys. He admits making threats."

Judge Prystalski will be asked for clemency for Varecha tomorrow morning by Attorney Clarence Darrow. Darrow, who did not participate in the trial, said he would base his plea on the fact that Varecha has only an 11 year old rating in mentality tests. This is a higher rating than was required by the army of its soldiers during the war, prosecutors said.

LINERS BATTLE STORM IN ATLANTIC; DAYS BEHIND SCHEDULES

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Ships among the world's largest and most powerful were caught today in a howling westerly gale in the North Atlantic and were battling slowly and with difficulty through mountainous seas, days behind schedule.

The Leviathan was somewhat to the east of midocean, her normal speed of 23 knots cut to a laborious four. She was due here tomorrow, but it will be Saturday before she can plow her way to port.

The Bremen, crack ship of the North German Lloyd, was in similar difficulties. She was due at her Brooklyn dock early this morning, but was forced to report that she cannot hope to make it before Thursday morning.

Two other smaller ships also were putting up a brave battle with the elements. The American Banker, due yesterday, is traveling at a rate which will delay her until tomorrow afternoon. The Duchess of Bedford, scheduled to arrive tomorrow, excepts to make port some time Thursday, if she can maintain her present speed.

The Mauretania of the Cunard line arrived today after a voyage described by her commander as passing through "every experience but an earthquake."

TRACE ROMANCE CLEW IN KILLING OF BANDMASTER

One Is Held After Maze of Contradictions.

money on Saturday nights. I called for Bradberry at 7 o'clock that night and drove him home about 11:30 o'clock."

Bradberry, who was in a cell while Collins was talking, was taken up to Stege's office to meet the Negro deputy sheriff.

"He called for me that night, but didn't drive me home," Bradberry said, thereby breaking what might have been an alibi.

Mrs. Schildhauer Faints.

Bradberry then was sent back to a cell for the night. When informed of this Mrs. Schildhauer fainted, as she had when Mrs. Showalter denied her statements and as she had at several other critical points in the questioning.

Mrs. Schildhauer expects to become a mother in four months and had pleaded illness on other occasions, so that until yesterday detectives had been unable to get more than a fragmentary statement from her.

Tearfully she denied that she had been involved in any affairs with men. Her married life had been unmarred by jealousies, she insisted.

"Many men told me they thought I was beautiful," she said to Capt. Stege, "but that never affected me. I loved only my husband. I never went out with any one without his full knowledge and consent and usually it was at his suggestion or encouragement."

Tells of Dance Meetings.

Bradberry had told of meeting the Schildhauers through Walton. He and his wife accompanied the Schildhauers to dances occasionally, he said, and once when his wife was out of town Mrs. Schildhauer brought a girl named Charlotte Holland as his dance companion, he said. He denied any private meetings with Mrs. Schildhauer.

Miss Jean Caravetta, a former partner of Mrs. Schildhauer in the Fran-Jean beauty shop in the Venetian building, told Sergts. Donohue and Reynolds that Mrs. Schildhauer had many telephone calls from men and frequently absented herself from the shop. She named Walton as one of Mrs. Schildhauer's admirers.

Another girl, Miss Roberta Lubbock, questioned at the home of her parents in Cedar Rapids, Ia., by Lieut. Thomas Duffy, also mentioned the name of Walton as one who was frequently in Mrs. Schildhauer's company, the police said.

Story of Lubbock Girl.

Miss Lubbock was studying music and Mrs. Schildhauer invited her to live at the Schildhauer home, according to the information obtained by Lieut. Duffy.

"Mrs. Schildhauer would tell her husband she and Miss Lubbock were going out to a show or some other place," Lieut. Duffy said. "Outside, according to Miss Lubbock, they would separate and by agreement would meet later in the night and go home together and say they had been together all the time.

"On one occasion, Miss Lubbock stated, Mrs. Schildhauer took her to the Devonshire hotel where they registered and stayed several days. Miss Lubbock said Walton called on them frequently."

Walton's Sister Quizzed.

Miss Aurelia Walton, 3846 North Avers avenue, sister of Walton, was called to Capt. Stege's office. She said she had met the Schildhauers through her brother and his wife and had visited with them at the Schildhauer home. Later, when her brother was in jail for six months, Miss Walton said, Mrs. Schildhauer accompanied her on three occasions to the jail to visit Walton. Mrs. Schildhauer admitted the visits, saying that Bradberry had procured jail passes from the sheriff's office.

Bradberry's statement was that he had Walton in custody for three days at a hotel after a judgment for $8,000 had been granted against Walton. It was in default of payment of this judgment that Walton was imprisoned six months, Bradberry said.

Miss Walton said her brother had been a lawyer, but she didn't know his present whereabouts.

Mrs. Schildhauer said Walton was her family's legal adviser; that he drew up the partnership agreement with Miss Caravetta and also passed on the lease, as well as handling several legal matters for her husband.

At midnight Capt. Stege allowed Mrs. Schildhauer, who had been accompanied to the station by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Birkinshaw, to go home with the understanding that she was to return again. Previously she had objected to being questioned outside the presence of her parents and their lawyer. She submitted to yesterday's quizzing only after Capt. Stege told her he would have to ask her personal questions publicly at the inquest when it is resumed.

Wilbur Glen Voliva Sued by Woman on $1,000 Debt

Wilbur Glen Voliva, overseer of Zion City, was sued for $1,000 in the Lake county court yesterday by Mrs. Emma Bislant, of Grand avenue, Waukegan. The bill charges that she invested $2,500 with Voliva and that he gave her a note for that amount. He paid back $1,500, but refuses to pay the balance, she charges.

CALL HOLDUP VICTIMS A 'LOT OF OLD WOMEN,' BUT SOON REGRET IT

Twelve women of the motherly type and five men went to the detective bureau last night and identified six men as members of the gang who entered the home of Carl Heim at 2621 Morse avenue on New Year's eve, broke up a bridge party and ransacked the house. About $100, several coats and the jewelry of the women were taken.

The women all said they were reluctant to sign complaints against the younger robbers, but did so after recalling that they had been called a "lot of old women" by the robbers.

While the robbers had possession of the Heim home a bootlegger called and was relieved of $80, his watch and five pints of liquor. Mrs. Heim, one of those who made identifications, explained that the bootlegger had come by mistake. The liquor peddler did not appear to view the bandits.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY IN STOLEN AUTO KILLED IN CRASH

James Simpson, 17 years old, 4556 South Union avenue, a junior at Tilden Technical High school, was killed last night when a stolen automobile he was driving swerved as he was passing a street car and crashed into a light post at 40th and Wallace streets. Three other men who were in the car were uninjured and fled on foot. The car had been stolen earlier in the evening from Edward E. Palmer, 5836 North Artesian avenue.

Simpson's body lay unidentified until early this morning, when his father, Charles, appeared at the morgue at 634 West 37th street and said it was that of his son. The father said an anonymous telephone call informed him of the boy's death. He declared the youth had never been in any trouble before.

George Collins, 50 years old, 6344 South Carpenter street, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was riding was struck by a Milwaukee road freight train on the Indiana Harbor Belt line tracks at 53d street and Kostner avenue. There are no gates at the Kostner avenue crossing and no watchman was on duty there at the time.

One other automobile death in Cook county yesterday increased the 1933 toll to 12. The victim:

June Moore, colored, 4 years old, 3204 Cottage Grove avenue. She was struck by the automobile of Bernard Block, 8258 Drexel avenue, in front of her home.

The body of a woman killed by an automobile Monday night was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Annie Mathiesen, 65 years old, 1030 North California avenue. She was struck by a car driven by William Gibson Wright, 39 years old, 1060 Ainslie street, in the outer drive in Lincoln park near Wellington avenue.

Quake Rocks Alaska Town; Residents Flee Into Street

Seward, Alaska, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A severe earth shock of 20 seconds' duration at 6 o'clock tonight sent people running into the streets as buildings were shaken and loose objects rattled.

Reports whether other larger Alaskan towns felt the shock had not reached here late tonight and most of the smaller points were without means of communication.

Slight Rock at Seattle.

COURTNEY AIDS ORDERED TO TAKE OVER TAX SUITS

Winston's Acts Attacked by County Commissioner.

The county commissioners yesterday directed State's Attorney Courtney's new tax division to take over the prosecution of more than 700 suits filed in the Circuit and Superior courts by Edward M. Winston, special attorney, who formerly held a contract with the board to force the collection of delinquent taxes. The contract expired on Nov. 30, but Winston continued to prosecute suits he had filed before that date.

The country board's resolution directed that the state's attorney's tax lawyers, headed by Attorney Hayden N. Bell, appear in the courts where the suits are pending and take charge of the prosecution as representatives of the board.

As the resolution was presented Commissioner Walter J. La Buy informed the board that he had received a report from Winston on every suit he filed during the 18 months he represented the board. The report disclosed, the commissioner said, that only 165 of the total of 756 suits instituted by Winston were actually begun in accordance with the terms of his contract.

Terms of His Contract.

The agreement with the board specified that Winston should file suits in foreclosure against property to collect the taxes. Commissioner La Buy said that this provision limited Winston's actions to properties which had been twice sold at tax sales by the county treasurer and precluded any action against individual owners.

In most of the suits, the commissioner said, Winston began actions in debt, which are against owners and not against property itself. In many other suits, La Buy said, Winston sought the appointment of receivers for properties which had been forfeited to the state in tax sales only once. The foreclosure laws of the state, the commissioner stated, call for two defaults in payment of liens before foreclosure action can be taken.

To Appear Before Board.

Commissioner La Buy informed the board that Winston would appear before the finance committee tomorrow morning to explain alleged tax adjustments.

In a letter which accompanied his report Winston asserted that he had not adjusted taxes in any of his suits. He added that he had forced the collection of $697,731 in taxes at a cost to the county of $27,332. He said that he had collected only $20,818 in fees to date. The board yesterday refused to approve a bill submitted by Winston for $1,300, referring it to the finance committee for further investigation.

CITY IS PAYING OFF $22,743,190 IN BOND MATURITIES

With considerably less confusion than is occasioned by paying off a minor city department, the office of City Treasurer Kearns yesterday began to make payments on $22,743,190 in city and school bond maturities and interest payments which fell due Jan. 1. Payments were also being made at the Guaranty Trust company in New York, fiscal agent for the city.

Few bondholders appeared in person, most of them having turned over their bonds to banks or brokers for collection. During the day the Chicago office paid out $7,943,000 to Chicago banks, which recently bought $15,036,000 worth of city refunding bonds and $1,700,000 in school board tax warrants to enable the city to avoid a default.

The payments are expected to continue for several days. The refunding arrangement will also take care of $746,000 in bond and interest payments which the school board must meet Feb. 1. The city and school board must make interest payments totaling several millions at midyear, but they have no more bond principal maturities until 1934.

VIRGINIA INVADES NILES CENTER AND STIRS UP TOWN

Excitement was caused in Niles Center last night when 11 year old Virginia Barrett was found lying gagged and tied at the side of the road near the intersection of Church street and Crawford avenue. She was taken to the Evanston police station and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Barrett, of 1856 Sherman avenue, Evanston, were notified.

"I was on my way to the Haven school at noon when four men drove up to me in a car," related Virginia, illustrating at the same time in dramatic pantomime. "They hit me on the head and took me away. That's all I remember."

Virginia's story impressed investigators until they thumbed the records. Then they guessed that she had been romancing again, for the records revealed that in July, 1931, Virginia ran away from home, and when found later on the Glencoe beach, had described herself as a "poor little waif" with four apartment buildings.

HIGHER INCOME TAX RATES ARE PUT IN EFFECT

275,000 Forms Go Out; Exemptions Lower.

The act of congress last June boosting income tax rates was brought forcibly to the attention of taxpayers yesterday as Gregory T. Van Meter, collector of internal revenue for the Chicago district, completed the mailing of 275,000 tax forms.

Not only are the tax rates higher but exemptions are lower. An unmarried person must pay tax on an income exceeding $1,000 instead of receiving an exemption on $1,500 as in 1932. The exemption for a married man or head of a family is now $2,500, as compared with $3,500 last year.

Increase in the Rates.

The tax on incomes under $4,000 is raised from 1½ per cent to 4 per cent. The normal tax on incomes above $4,000 is increased to 8 per cent. The normal tax last year was graded to a maximum of 5 per cent. The credit of 25 per cent formerly granted on earned income has been abolished.

The surtax previously levied on incomes of more than $20,000 is assessed this year on incomes of more than $10,000. The surtax last year ran in a graduated scale to a maximum of 20 per cent. This year the surtax reaches a maximum of 55 per cent.

Government officials declined yesterday to estimate the amount of tax to be taken out of the Chicago district under the new rates. They said that the decrease in incomes because of economic conditions made such an estimate impossible.

Returns Due on March 15.

Returns may be filed as soon as the forms are received by the taxpayers. March 15 is the deadline for the filing of returns and the payment of the first quarterly installment of the tax.

The penalty for willful failure to file a return is a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than a year or both. Willful filing of a false or fraudulent return is punishable by a maximum fine of $10,000, imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

Ex-Employe of Trust Co. Is Charged with Fraud

A warrant charging grand larceny was issued yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay for the arrest of Howard H. Schaefer, 3942 Rokeby street, former sales manager of the United Finance and Realty Trust company, 222 West Adams street. Maurice Weissman, a trustee of the company, charged that Schaefer has in his possession and refuses to return four certificates of deposit valued at $24,500 on four apartment buildings.

NIGHT BEFORE APPLYING NOXZEMA
MORNING AFTER USING, RED ROUGHNESS GONE
RED, CHAPPED HANDS healed—OVERNIGHT
—or your money back
THIS famous medicated formula—Noxzema, the cream that heals—has already worked wonders for the hands of over 6,000,000 women. In 8 hours—overnight—it has improved red, rough, chapped hands beyond recognition.
Let Noxzema beautify your hands the same easy way. Doctors prescribe it and even nurses use it themselves. Why? Because Noxzema's softening balm and soothing medication actually heal the tiny open wounds of chapped, broken skin. That's why it makes hands that are badly chapped, even cracking, so much whiter, smoother, softer—overnight.
See for yourself! Tonight apply Noxzema on your hands at bedtime. This feathery, white greaseless cream is stainless and quickly absorbed with very little rubbing . . . Tomorrow morning you'll feel the sore, rough redness healed away—your hands lovelier by far, white and girlish and appealing.
If not—return the jar and you'll get your money back. Fair enough? Then start the Noxzema beauty treatment for hands tonight. A blessing for housewives! They use Noxzema after washing dishes and exposure to cold, as well as at night. And remember, the hands that use Noxzema are the hands that men admire.

DEMOCRATS PICK ROE FOR SPEAKER IN HOUSE CAUCUS

Richey V. Graham Chosen to Preside in Senate.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Arthur Roe, Vandalia, was nominated for speaker of the house of representatives and State Senator Richey V. Graham of Chicago was chosen for president pro tem of the senate by Democrats in caucus here tonight.

Roe and Graham were chosen without opposition. Thomas P. Sinnett, Rock Island, who had been mentioned as a possible candidate for speaker, was named majority leader of the house.

G. O. P. Picks Shanahan.

Republicans in caucus nominated David E. Shanahan, veteran member and speaker during the last two terms, for speaker of the house. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago, was named minority floor leader. Schnackenberg's name was also placed in nomination for speaker. Leroy M. Green, Rockford, was a candidate for floor leader with Schnackenberg.

The Democratic caucuses were harmonious. Rumor of discord afloat before the gatherings came to order faded, and in each meeting the nominations of the principal places were made by acclamation. Representative Roe, a member of the house for twenty years and the choice of Governor Elect Horner for speaker, was placed in nomination by Representative Howard Doyle, Decatur. The nomination was seconded by Representative Schaefer O'Neill, Alton.

Horner Is Praised By Roe.

In addressing the caucus, Mr. Roe praised Governor Elect Horner and said that in his judgment the coming session of the legislature would do all in its power to keep the pledge of economy made by Judge Horner during the campaign. "We will carry out his policies to the letter," Roe declared.

Charles P. Casey, Carrollton, was nominated for clerk of the house by the Democrats, after Representative Sinnett, chairman of the caucus and mentioned for speaker, had been chosen Democratic floor leader. Mr. Sinnett also pledged support to the incoming administration. Capt. Hal Reading, Chicago, was named doorkeeper of the house, and Mrs. Naomi Fisher, Villa Grove, was chosen postmistress.

The Democratic caucus, held across the hall, was harmonious. Senator Graham, son-in-law of Mayor Cermak, had no opposition for president pro tem., and Senator Elect Rollo Shaw, Lawrenceville, was nominated for majority floor leader, a place held in the last regular and special sessions by State's Attorney Thomas Courtney, Chicago. A. E. Eden, Champaign, was selected as secretary of the senate to succeed James H. Paddock, Springfield.

Scouten for Sergeant-at-Arms.

T. D. Scouten, Chicago, who is past 80 years of age, although classed as Republican, was the choice of the caucus for sergeant-at-arms in the senate. Scouten has held the place for many years and party lines were cast aside in returning him for another session. Mrs. Anna Plasey, Fairfield, was the Democratic choice for senate postmistress.

Shanahan's name will be presented to the house tomorrow by the Republicans and in the event that he is not named speaker, Shanahan will withdraw and Schnackenberg will be placed in line for floor leader.

Representative Richard Lyons, Waukegan, placed Shanahan's name in nomination at the Republican house caucus, urging his election as the best move on the part of the Republican party in keeping harmony in the ranks. He lauded the veteran's work in the legislative body, saying that he "was without doubt the fairest speaker that ever presided over the house."

Horner Pleased by Caucuses.

Roger Little, Champaign, seconded Shanahan's nomination and urged that the choice be unanmious.

Representative John P. Devine, Dixon, who was a speakership possibility, was said to have declined the nomination for floor leader and it was said also that he would decline the chairmanship of any of the committees, which are to be elected soon.

Governor Elect Horner arrived in Springfield early today and favored the candidacy of Roe for speaker, later in the day he was joined by Mayor Cermak, Edward Kelly, president of the south park board, County Recorder Clayton F. Smith, and State's Attorney Thomas Courtney.

Governor Elect Horner expressed himself as pleased with the nominations for the organization of the house and senate, which meet at noon tomorrow.

Gets First Divorce

Mrs. Wanda Nowakowski, 27 years old, 5041 South Elizabeth street, got the first Cook county divorce of 1933 yesterday when she was granted a decree by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. She charged William Nowakowski, an insurance salesman, with cruelty. Later Judge Sabath granted Mrs. Barbara Zweiner, 4515 Magnolia avenue, who filed the last divorce bill of 1932, a divorce from Arthur Zweiner, superintendent of a Cicero steel company, whom she charged with desertion.

POLICE STATIONS MADE AGENCIES TO FIND ODD JOBS

Allman Puts Mayor's Plan Into Effect.

Commissioner of Police Allman yesterday put into effect the plan sponsored by Mayor Cermak to find odd jobs for reputable job seekers. The commissioner ordered the forty district police stations to act as agencies through which householders and business houses can obtain the services of such workers.

In his order the commissioner directed the captains of the stations to instruct all members of their commands to request residents and business houses to list at the stations any odd jobs they want done. A list of worthy applicants also will be kept at the station and these persons will be assigned to the jobs of which the police are notified.

Work Instead of Charity.

"This plan," said Mayor Cermak, "assures a few dollars to many of our worthy and needy citizens. They will receive money for performing useful work instead of charity.

"The plan also assures the householders of obtaining the services of men who can be trusted. The police have been instructed to give these odd jobs only to those men whom they know to be of good character, a precaution that will eliminate the criminal and professional vagrant."

By providing employment about their homes the householders will be helping, the mayor said, in a small way to restore normal conditions. He said they also would be helping to build up the morale of idle men by giving them an opportunity to earn money. He pointed out that among the tasks that can be given to these men are such as repairing fences, cleaning yards and alleys, washing windows, scrubbing floors, and cleaning basements.

Appeals for Clothing.

"I am also appealing to householders to take to the police stations all the old clothes, shoes, and toys that they can spare," said the mayor. "All these articles will be taken to the House of Correction and renovated. Then these articles will be distributed to the needy families.

"If all the householders in Chicago, who still have some income, can be brought to the realization that somebody must take care of our unemployed much will be done toward relieving an intolerable situation. Every one who can should pitch in and give every possible assistance toward providing some employment for the less fortunate in our midst."

ANDERSON, IND., MAYOR RETIRES; NAME SUCCESSOR

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The resignation of Jesse H. Mellett, mayor of Anderson, was presented to the city council at a special meeting today and was accepted unanimously. The council named Harry Baldwin, city controller, mayor.

Mellett, who became mayor Jan. 1, 1930, gave ill health as the reason for relinquishing the office.

LIMIT CHARITY COAL TO PRODUCT OF SO. ILLINOIS

Specifications Adopted by County Board.

Specifications that will restrict the charity coal supplied to families of the idle to coal produced in the southern Illinois fields were adopted by the county commissioners yesterday by a vote of 9 to 3. The board then voted to ask for bids under those specifications, to be submitted next Tuesday for the award of new contracts covering more than 300,000 tons.

The new specifications were prepared for the county board by Frank H. Chambers, supervisor of public service. They were requested after the board voted to disregard specifications submitted by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which restricted the charity coal sources to the central Illinois fields.

Ignore Indianan's Offer.

In adopting the specifications, the board also disregarded an offer made by W. J. O'Brien, Indiana mine owner, to supply coal of a quality equal to the southern Illinois coal for $5.45 a ton, which is lower than the price set by the Illinois operators. Mr. O'Brien offered to guarantee his coal as to quality. The commissioners argued that federal relief funds should be used to help Illinois industry.

The three specifications were as follows:

Moisture [pct.]	10	14	10
Ash [pct.]	8	12	10
Sulphur [pct.]	2.5	..	..
BTU [dry]	13,300	11,815	12,800

The adopted specifications will require prepared coal 3 by 2 inches in size delivered on the sidewalk in bags, according to Mr. Chambers, who is to write them.

Previous Contracts Canceled.

The new charity coal contracts are necessitated by the cancellation of seven contracts by the relief commission when the seven contractors admitted substituting a cheaper grade of fuel than was specified in their contracts. An investigation is being conducted by State's Attorney Courtney. An audit of the books of F. Bieschke & Sons, one of the contractors, is to be turned over to the state's attorney today by the commission.

The county board's action yesterday attracted more than 100 coal dealers and mine operators who at previous meetings had asked for part of the charity coal business, which amounts to more than 20 per cent of all domestic coal delivered in the county. Mrs. Grace Fleming argued for the restriction to Illinois coal. Commissioners Busse, Plumb, and Sears voted against that proposal and Commissioners Ryan and Kelly did not vote.

Probe Political Connections.

The county board's bureau of public welfare committee yesterday morning opened an inquiry into the political affiliations of employes of that bureau and the state relief commission's other agents in the county.

The question of allocations to local charities had been scheduled for discussion, but was not taken up. In the schedule of allocations for January proposed by the commission, the Catholic charities will receive much more this month, and other charities much less.

The Rev. Robert Clements, president of the Chicago Church federation, wrote to the county board protesting against this policy yesterday.

"As president of the Chicago Church federation, which represents nineteen Protestant denominations and over 800 churches in Chicago, I am writing to inquire as to the attitude to be taken by the Cook County Board of Commissioners in regard to the recent action of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in authorizing the Central Charity bureau of the Roman Catholic church to receive and administer state funds to needy Catholic families in Cook county," the letter read.

Evanston Support Promised.

Mrs. Rufus Dawes was the speaker in the afternoon at the meeting of the Evanston Woman's club, explaining the project by which it is hoped to provide the spectacular and appropriate musical programs in keeping with the 1933 World's Fair. The members present responded enthusiastically, and the presiding officer, Mrs. Bruce Scott, assured the speaker that Evanston would support the venture wholeheartedly.

The club distributed fifty subscription booklets, each containing twenty tickets to be sold for the cause.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank addressed two gatherings in the afternoon, speaking once before the Chicago Woman's Aid at its headquarters in the Medical Arts building, and later before the Junior Friends of Art at the Palmer house.

At its all day meeting in the Illinois Women's Athletic club, the Edgmere Women's club devoted a part of its time to the work of the Friends of Music, with Mrs. Franklin B. Miller as the guest speaker, detailing the plan under which the subscriptions are being handled. Mrs. H. B. Rudell is chairman of the club's music committee. Last night at 8 o'clock the League of American Pen Women was entertained at the home of Mrs. Miller, where a contribution was made by the group to the Friends of Music.

Will Explain Drive.

This morning at 10:30 o'clock a group of prominent south side women will gather at the home of Mrs. Arthur Compton to hear Mrs. Murry Nelson tell of the drive and its purpose. At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Bertha Baur will address the Albany Park Temple sisterhood of the Temple Beth Israel, with Mrs. Walter Ginsburg presiding. More than 300 members are expected to attend.

Mrs. Francis Johnson, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Friends of Music, is organizing meetings and providing speakers to spread information about the drive, which ends Feb. 1.

THE TRIBUNE last night received a check for $10 from Attorney Jacob J. Kern of 30 North La Salle street for the World Fair music project. The check will be forwarded to the committee in charge.

BIRTHDAY GIFTS TO LUNCH FUND ARE SUGGESTED

Honor Your Parents, Is Donor's Idea.

Do you have a birthday this month? If you do, perhaps you might like to follow the suggestion of one of yesterday's contributors to the Hungry School Children's fund. Sending $5, she begged that her own name not be mentioned, but she added:

"A good suggestion to help the fund grow might be for people on their own birthdays to send something in honor or in memory of their parents."

The fund finances hot noonday lunches for needy youngsters in the public schools, but so far there hasn't been enough money to feed them all. Hundreds more children need this luncheon service than can be provided with it at present.

Another gift yesterday shows a sacrifice for the sake of the needy school children. Employes of the Tide Water Oil Sales corporation sent $4.50. This represents "the amount we would have spent for Christmas cards and stamps."

$6—R. and E. Voelker. In memory of my parents.
$4.50—Tide Water employés.
$3—Lauretta Bosch. The Pot-Luckers.
$2.50—In memory of D. B. N.
$1—Tom Stein. "O." A. M. E. Ella Schuham.

Total	$ 87.45
Previously acknowledged	18,302.95
Grand total	$18,390.40

55% OF WELFARE FUND IS RAISED; DRIVE GOES ON

The total of subscriptions to the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook county stood at $4,150,778 yesterday, representing about 55 per cent of the full quota of the drive. Workers are seeking $7,500,000 for the families served by the city's private welfare agencies.

Joseph T. Ryerson, chairman of the trades and industries division of the campaign, said that he hopes to complete solicitation among the business organizations within the next two weeks.

"Four of our six subscription teams have crossed the halfway mark and the other two are not far behind," he said. "A more determined effort on the part of our workers in the next two weeks and complete coverage of the industrial field should put the general campaign on the last lap of the drive."

Gifts totaling $15,000 from employes of two large companies were recorded yesterday at the fund's campaign headquarters. Employés of the New York Central railroad pledged $5,000, and the staff of the Chicago Title and Trust company sent in subscriptions totaling $10,000. The latter came in addition to the $10,000 previously given by the company itself. Additional gifts to the women's division of the general drive brought this division's total to more than $57,000.

Think of the John R. Thompson Co. commissary as a wholesale house dealing in many millions of dollars' worth of food products. Without salesmen's salaries, travel and other expenses to pay, and without credit losses, it supplies all the requirements of 116 restaurants. You will readily see how "Thompson's" restaurants can and do sell large portions of foods of fine quality at very moderate prices. A delicious, substantial meal at any hour of day or night. No tips.

Young Men Going Back to School Should Also Look Into These

Clearances and January Sales

Where Values Are Running Rampant Among the Correct and Smart Wearables on the First Floor as Well as on the Second Floor, Where Every Suit and Overcoat in Stock Has Been Greatly Reduced in Price

Suits $33.50

THIS is probably the most extravagant collection of suits ever to take part in a clearance sale—at least unlike most clearances, the chance of getting exactly what you want is practically assured. There's British drapes as well as smartly cut single and double breasted jackets, and the quality of the fabrics, linings, tailoring and trimmings which characterizes these suits has never before been available at $33.50. Other suits at $23.50 and $43.50.

Overcoats $23.50

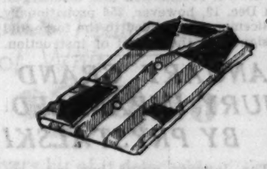
THE man who put off buying his overcoat until the January Clearance Sale here is certainly not going to be disappointed. In this very special group of overcoats that have been greatly reduced from higher priced lines to $23.50, there are silver toned fleeces, dark blues, and dark greys, excellently tailored Town Ulsters, Storm Ulsters and more conservative dress coats. Other overcoats at $33.50 and $43.50.

Oxfords In sturdy Scotch grains as well as smooth finish calfskin at $4.85 Pair

OUR most sought after styles, and there is not one pair of shoes in the entire lot that you will have to look at twice to tell that prior to this clearance was much higher priced. The only reason for pricing them at $4.85 a pair is that the size range is broken and we haven't at this time every size in every style.

Pajamas In a clearance of V-neck in coat or middy styles and the English collar style at $1.85

OUR idea of an interesting clearance sale is one like this clearance of pajamas that a man can attend confident that the choice of fabrics, patterns and styles is large and varied enough to assure him of getting just what he wants and in his size, for there are all sizes in this clearance from A to D, and the prices are remarkably low. Other pajamas at $2.65.



Hats The favorites in felts—snap brims and off-the-face styles—and derbies at $2.95

THIS is a sale—but the price tag on the hats is really the only clue you'll have in recognizing this as a clearance sale! Certainly the selection of styles to choose from is anything but like a sale, and you'll be just as amazed at the good color range of the felts as you will at their price—$2.95.

Hosiery In a clearance that sweeps from lisle to silks reduced to 45c Pair

HERE'S a clearance sale that puts its best foot forward in time for the new year by offering our kind of men's socks at the remarkably low price of 45c pair! And no matter whether you prefer checks, clocks, stripes or plain colors—we wager you'll find just what you want here. Not all sizes in every style, but all sizes are in the sale.

Featuring Fine White Broadcloth Shirts, The

January Shirt Sale

Has the floor due in part to the exceedingly low prices for the character of shirts shown—but mainly because every kind of smart shirt, including whites, is in the sale.

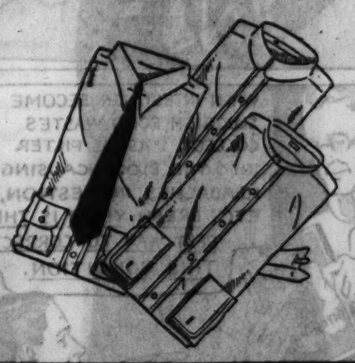
$1.25—$1.95—$2.55

● Collar-attached style in blue broadcloth, white broadcloth, white Oxford cloth and fine quality madrases.

● Neckband style in white broadcloth, effectively patterned madrases, blue madrases, and white jacquard patterned broadcloth.

● Tab collar shirts in small, neat British stripings, white Oxford cloth and white broadcloth.

All fabrics are not to be had at each price, but there are all sizes in the sale and all sizes at each price.



CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & Co

THEFT, COMMON, HAS A POOR YEAR; ONLY $4,115,156

Depression hit the burglary and holdup industry in Chicago in 1932.

The annual report, compiled by the police department and made public yesterday, showed that robbers and thieves in the last year got $4,115,156, while in 1931, which was better from the criminal standpoint than 1930, the amount stolen in the city was $6,444,517.

The 1932 figures show that the merchandise stolen, excluding automobiles, was valued at a total of $2,707,109. Cash that went to burglars and stickup men totaled $1,408,047. The corresponding totals in the previous year were $3,917,594 and $2,526,923.

Figures for Three Years.

Going back to the 1930 record it was shown that the merchandise stolen was about the equivalent of the 1932 figures, while the cash takings in 1930 were only $875,000. However, Police Commissioner Allman asserted early last year that the records were not accurately kept in 1930 and that statisticians in police districts had been able to withhold reports of many holdups and burglaries. Since the beginning of 1931, he declared, such doctoring of figures has been impossible.

March was the banner month for merchandise thefts and January for cash taken. Following is the monthly table:

	Merchandise.	Cash.
January	$ 228,427	$ 141,831
February	272,507	130,491
March	322,038	140,967
April	268,868	115,932
May	216,759	100,092
June	225,966	101,065
July	177,310	101,887
August	263,437	126,131
September	192,911	90,912
October	178,595	122,761
November	198,372	116,151
December	161,919	125,887
Totals	$2,707,109	$1,408,047

Merchandise recovered by the police during the year was listed at $579,016, and cash at $90,511. Commissioner Allman disclosed that there had been a decrease in most crimes, but that automobile thefts were greater last year than in 1931, the number of cars stolen being 32,036 in 1932 and 29,158 in 1931. A slightly larger percentage of stolen cars was recovered last year than in 1931.

Radio Calls Increase.

The commissioner's report showed that the number of calls sent to police over the department broadcasting system was 140,987, or 30,000 more than in 1931. Arrests attributed to these radio calls reached 12,153.

At the beginning of 1932 there were 5,399 patrolmen on the payrolls. On Dec. 19 there were 5,064, the decrease being attributed by the commissioner to deaths, resignation and discharges. On Dec. 19, however, 256 probationary policemen were added to the force and assigned to the school of instruction.

JANUARY GRAND JURY IMPANELED BY PRYSTALSKI

The January grand jury was impaneled yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal court. Warren B. Ogden, 6204 Sacramento avenue, a purchasing agent, was named foreman. Although the jurors were given no special instructions, they were apprised of the recommendations of the December grand jury that a thorough investigation be made of automobile thefts in the county.

LAUNDRY DRIVER IS ATTACKED AND BEATEN BY 3 MEN

Walter Berkowski, 28 years old, 3741 North Christiana avenue, was attacked and beaten by three men yesterday at 2048 West Superior street. Berkowski is a driver for the Walton Way laundry at 1521 West Walton street. Albert Sokol, manager of this firm, said that he employed nonunion drivers.

THREE CAPONE CHIEFS WARNED TO LEAVE CITY

Trio Seized as They Appear in Court.

Three leading members of the old Capone syndicate were seized by detectives yesterday after they had appeared in court to answer a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The three were taken before Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, who warned them to get out of the city.

"Your day is over and you had better recognize it," said the chief.

Humphries and Friends Protest.

"I'm just an honest dairyman," said Humphries. "I am associated with the Meadowmoor Dairy company, which is selling milk to the public at a low price. Why should I be pushed around this way?"

Officials of the Meadowmoor company have insisted that the Humphries-White gang combine has nothing to do with their business.

When Chief Schoemaker asked Humphries if he had ever threatened Steve Sumner, veteran business agent of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, one of whose bodyguards was shot last week, Humphries replied that he had met Sumner once and had asked him to let his union drivers work for Meadowmoor.

Win Jury Trials.

"You fellows will have to take it on the chin," Chief Schoemaker asserted. "You are going to be picked up and hauled into the bureau every time a policeman sees you. I shall call all my men together, and I'll see that they can find you, too."

Humphries, White and Fischetti, when they were arraigned before Judge Padden in the Felony court, demanded and were granted jury trials on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. After receiving the warning of the chief of detectives, they were allowed to leave.

STORE ROBBED 7 TIMES; CHARGES POLICE NEGLECT

Merchant's Building Shot Up in Latest Attack.

David Neuman, furniture store owner at 4014 South State street, ruefully contemplated more than a score of bullet holes in the windows and walls of his store yesterday and told the story of the seven burglaries of his shop in the last two years. He charged that the police have failed to pay any attention to the many complaints he has filed.

"This latest attack was the limit," said Neuman, pointing to the bullet holes. "It happened New Year's eve. It was undoubtedly a volley of shotgun and pistol bullets fired deliberately at my store. I don't know why the hoodlums pick on me. There are a number of other white tradesmen in this colored neighborhood and I try to get along as best I can with the Negro people.

Says Police Ignored Alarm.

"No one was in the store at the time but the bullets started the burglar alarm ringing. It rang continuously for more than 24 hours but not a policeman came around to investigate. And when I telephoned the Wabash avenue police station they hung up on me."

About two years ago, Neuman said, burglars backed up a truck in the alley behind his store and calmly carted away forty mattresses.

"You can imagine what a job that was and how long it took them," he said. "But they got away with it. A couple of months later they broke in again and carried away four bedroom suites. After that it became a regular thing. Every couple of months some one would break in and carry away furniture.

"No One Ever Caught."

"The police knew the burglars made a habit of breaking in here but they never caught anyone doing it. I don't expect them to catch all criminals but I did think I was entitled to the courtesy of an investigation, and when they hung up the telephone on me, I decided the public ought to know about it. If the burglars knew the police kept an eye on the store, they might visit me only once or twice a year instead of three or four times."

Capt. James L. Mooney of the Wabash avenue police said last night that he would investigate Neuman's assertions.

"He'll be treated with all the courtesy any citizen deserves," the captain said. "If I find that any of my men have neglected their duties, I'll deal with them."

JAIL'S ALIMONY CLUB GETS FIRST RECRUIT OF 1933

Clarence Stange, 90 North Huron street, Maywood, was ordered to join the county jail alimony club yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. Stange is the first 1933 member. He was $350 in arrears on temporary alimony payments to Mrs. Mae Stange, 1540 57th avenue, Cicero, who is suing for separate maintenance on charges of adultery. Her attorney, Norman Becker, charged that Stange is living with another woman at the Maywood address.

"How much board do you pay there?" asked Judge Sabath.

"I don't pay anything, just do odd jobs around the house," replied Stange.

"I'll have to send you to jail," ruled Judge Sabath.

COUPLE ADMIT TRYING TO BURN INSURED HOUSE

Joseph Jouhas, 47 years old, and his wife, Mary, 57 years old, 633 West 117th place, were held yesterday by Kensington police after they had confessed that they had attempted to burn a house they owned at 12246 South Union avenue, which was insured for $3,000.

Vincent Mitchell, who lives in the house with his wife and six children, discovered the blaze early yesterday. He extinguished a pile of blazing newspapers on the second floor, then found and extinguished a similar fire in the basement. The Jouhas are the parents of six children.

BERNARD CUMMINGS.

Bernard Cummings, 32 years old, 4608 Dover street, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in bond of $10,000 on a robbery charge. Cummings and a companion held up Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Johnson, 2435 Rosemont avenue, as they sat in their automobile at Franklin street and Wacker drive. Mrs. Johnson began to weep and Cummings stepped to the running board to console her. Mrs. Johnson knocked him from the running board just as a police squad came up and caught him. Cummings' companion escaped.

GIRL'S DEATH IS CALLED SUICIDE; FRIEND IS FREED

Walter Armstrong, 36 years old, 20 Rimback avenue, Hammond, was released from custody yesterday after a coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide at the inquest into the death of Miss Pearl Ross, 21 years old, 313 155th street, Calumet City. She was found shot to death in her home Monday night, a revolver belonging to Armstrong clasped in her right hand.

Miss Ross, a former maid in the home of Armstrong's parents, had gone out with him several times, police learned, and he had visited her Monday afternoon. A suicide note between two pictures of Armstrong directed the parents to bury the pictures with the body of Miss Ross.

Investigators at first expressed doubt that the fatal bullet was fired by Miss Ross. The bullet apparently had entered the head behind the left ear, they said, and the revolver was clasped in the right hand.

Physicians testified at the inquest that closer examination showed that the bullet entered the right side of the head, and said that powder burns were found on the right side of the head. Mrs. Juanita Doll, sister of the dead woman, said that Miss Ross recently took out a $500 insurance policy after first determining that it was payable in case of suicide.

PICK JURY TO TRY POLICE SLAYER; DEATH DEMANDED

Prosecution to Insist on Extreme Penalty.

The trial of Jerry Kane, alias King, 31 years old, for the murder of Policeman Frank J. Cunningham began yesterday before Judge Harry A. Lewis in the Criminal court. The policeman was shot to death on July 4 when he interrupted a robbery in the restaurant of Jerry Jynek at 2035 South Laflin street.

Cunningham, an acting sergeant, drew up in front of the restaurant with a squad. Unaware of the holdup, he went inside and left the other policemen in the squad car. Ordered to raise his hands by the bandits, Cunningham drew his revolver and was fatally wounded in the ensuing gun battle. Kane was captured as he ran out the front door. His companions escaped.

Refuse to Bargain.

Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis refused to bargain with the defense yesterday and selection of a jury qualified for the death penalty was started. It was said that Defense Attorneys James Burke and George Crane offered to advise their client to plead guilty in return for any sentence less than death in the electric chair.

There seemed to be a disposition among the veniremen to qualify for duty in a capital punishment case. The opposition of prospective jurors to sitting in a case in which the state asks the extreme penalty has disappeared during the depression years, officials said.

Delay Varner Corry Trial.

The start of the Kane trial caused another murder case growing out of the slaying of a policeman to be continued until Jan. 16 by Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court. Attorneys Crane and Burke, also retained as counsel for Varner Corry, 17 years old, asked a delay because of their appearance in the Kane trial.

Corry was scheduled to go to trial yesterday for the second time, charged with the murder of Policeman Edward Smith, who was shot and killed in the "wimmin" pool room of the John Marshall High school on Memorial day, 1931. Once sentenced to serve 18 years in the penitentiary for the murder, Corry obtained a reversal in the Supreme court on technical grounds.

REVIVE REPORTS BLACKSTONE IS TO CLOSE SOON

Judge Wilkerson Names Foreclosure Receiver.

Reports that the Blackstone hotel would soon be closed were revived yesterday as Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson appointed a foreclosure receiver under the first mortgage of $1,616,000 held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Edwin L. Brashears, treasurer of the Drake hotel, which was formerly owned by the one-time owners of the Blackstone, was named foreclosure receiver on the petition of the insurance company and was instructed to prepare an order of sale. Paul G. Evans has been equity receiver since July 7.

Hotel Operating at Loss.

Unconfirmed reports were that the hotel, which has been operating at a loss of $16,000 a month, would be closed within two weeks. Acquisition of the property by the first mortgagee or its sale to some other bidder, would not prevent its continued operation, but the insurance company officers, it is understood, believe that more would be lost by continued operation than by closing.

Under the customary procedure from one to three months would be allowed for the receiving of bids after entry of the decree of sale. During this time a court order would be required to close the hotel. After the purchase, however, the purchaser could close it at any time, although the owners and the general creditors would have one year in which to redeem the first mortgage and reacquire title.

The Continental Illinois Bank & Trust company has a claim of $275,000 against the hotel, which is secured by a second mortgage, and a chattel mortgage on the furniture and fixtures. The hotel also has been assessed taxes of $63,000 for 1929, part of which have been paid, $70,000 for 1930, and $52,000 for 1931.

Long a Leading Hotel.

The Blackstone has long been known as a leading, and perhaps the most fashionable, hotel in Chicago. It was built in 1910 by John B. and Tracy Drake, former owners of the Drake hotel. Tracy Drake, who was co-receiver of the Blackstone with Mr. Evans, resigned on Dec. 19.

Lawyers declared yesterday that the various creditors had been unable to agree on the question of continued operation of the hotel, or the funds necessary to keep it open. They said the insurance company wants it closed. They pointed out that an insurance company's funds are in the nature of a trust and that it would be unusual for such a company to operate a hotel, assuming that it acquires title.

THREE ROB BANK AT SOUTH BEND OF $12,188; FLEE

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Police of Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois were searching this afternoon for three men who robbed the Western State bank of $12,188 here early this morning. They escaped in an automobile.

Henry Niemiec, cashier; Irene Chlebowski, teller, and John Nowinski were in the bank when the bandits arrived. Nowinski was felled with a gun butt when he tried to get out.

While Niemiec and Miss Chlebowski lay on the floor covered by two gunmen, a third scooped the money in bills and change out of the cash drawers.

DIES AFTER ROBBER ATTACK.

William Daniel, 40 years old, of 220 North Campbell avenue, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries received when he was slugged by a Negro footpad near his home.

HALLORAN FIGHTS INDICTMENT AS RUTH JUDD AID

Grand Jury Illegal, Is One of Charges.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 3.—(AP)—John H. Halloran, wealthy lumberman, asked the Superior court today to free him of the charge of being an accessory in the Phoenix "trunk murders" for which Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd is condemned to be hanged Feb. 17.

A continuance until tomorrow on Halloran's motion to quash the indictment against him was granted by Judge Howard at the request of Rens L. Jennings, newly elected county attorney.

Calls Indictment Faulty.

Accused of having concealed from the proper authorities his alleged knowledge that murder had been committed, the Phoenix business man and sportsman contended the indictment was faulty and that the county grand jury that returned it was not properly qualified to act.

Halloran was indicted last week after the grand jury had listened to Mrs. Judd's recital of her alleged "whole truth" story of the slaying of her former friends, Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, whose bodies were sent in trunks to Los Angeles.

Charges Made By Defense.

The defense motion alleged:

That the list from which the grand jury was drawn had not been revised for two years, and omitted the names of 5,000 persons qualified to serve.

That the grand jury, in expressing itself in a public communication to the board of pardons and paroles as convinced Mrs. Judd acted in self-defense in the slaying of Mrs. Leroi, invalidated its own indictment, in that "proceedings of the grand jury therefore show upon their face that under no circumstances could the defendant be guilty of the crime attempted to be charged in the indictment."

BULLET PROOF VEST'S INVENTOR DIES AT 60 AS NEW YORK WAITER

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Albert W. Schwarz, 60, inventor of a bullet proof vest, compact machine gun and other devices, was found dead today from monoxide gas poisoning in his room on the east side.

His fortune once was estimated at $500,000. At his death he had 12 cents cash, and had been living for years on a small allowance, $10 a week, from two sons. He eked out that by waiting on table in Arthur Hubsch's restaurant below his lodgings.

Mr. Schwarz was last seen on Friday night. His body was discovered this morning. A gas heater, still burning feebly, had exhausted most of the oxygen in the room.

His friends believe he was born in Hungary. In 1900 he came to the United States, a master of six languages and a ballistics expert. Mr. Hubsch said that Mr. Schwarz was one of the founders of the American Federation of Labor. Just before his death Mr. Schwarz was tinkering on a tear gas gun attachment for his bullet proof vest.

SEEK MORE TIME FOR BUILDING NEW STATE ST. BRIDGE

Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, said yesterday that the city would seek a further extension of time from the war department for the construction of the new State street bridge over the Chicago river.

Last March the department granted one extension, providing at that time that the city should start work on the span by Jan. 28, 1933, and finish the job within two years.

The bridge is an integral part of the State street widening and subway construction projects, and the city will effect economies if it is built at the same time as the river section of the subway. The uncertainty of subway construction plans at present, the city's lack of funds, and delay in gaining easements of property for the approaches of the new bridge will all be related to the war department in asking the delay.

GUS WINKLER'S BANK ROBBERY TRIAL DROPPED

State Witnesses Retract Their Identifications.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank M. Slater, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Emanuel Mendos, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Robert Ellis and Henry Dorsey, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

Edwin Petroskey, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; John Meehan, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, by Judge P. L. Sullivan.

A charge of bank robbery against Gus Winkler, former companion of Fred (Killer) Burke, was nol prossed yesterday by Judge John K. Newhall in the Kendall county Circuit court at Yorkville. Winkler and Burke were alleged to have taken $5,000 in a robbery of the Plano State bank two years ago. Burke is now serving a life sentence in a Michigan prison for the murder of a policeman.

The court action yesterday was taken after Charles M. Jones, cashier of the Plano bank, and Melvin Henrikson, assistant cashier, had retracted former identifications of Winkler as one of the bandits.

"I am forced to ask for a nol pros," State's Attorney David Newhirter told the court. "There is no use spending $1,000 of the people's money in a case in which the witnesses have suffered a lapse of memory."

Judge Newhall entered the motion, remarking: "It is hard for the law enforcing agencies to be successful when the star witnesses undergo a change of heart before the trial."

Both Jones and Henriksen previously had identified photographs of Winkler and Burke as those of the bandits. The witnesses appeared later before the grand jury and repeated the identifications.

Winkler was alleged to have slugged Jones with a gun butt during the robbery. The cashier was so positive of his identification of the hoodlum, county officials pointed out, that he filed suit for $50,000 against Winkler for personal injuries. The suit is still awaiting trial.

A year ago on Jan. 5 Winkler, absolved by authorities of participation in the $2,870,000 holdup of the Lincoln, Neb., National Bank and Trust company, restored $583,000 worth of the stolen securities. He also submitted proof of loss of $2,217,000 in registered bonds taken from the Lincoln bank. He was arrested later for the Plano robbery.

FOUR MOST POPULAR CIGARET BRANDS CUT TO 2 FOR A QUARTER

New York, Jan. 3.—Cigarets of the "fifteen cents a package" kinds, fell to two for a quarter today when two more of the Big Four tobacco companies joined the other two in cutting wholesale prices. The wholesale price was slashed from $6.85 a thousand to $6.00, making the present price to the retailer 12 cents a package.

The American Tobacco company [Lucky Strikes] first announced the cut yesterday, quickly followed by R. J. Reynolds [Camels], and today by Liggett & Myers [Chesterfield] and P. Lorillard [Old Golds]. The reduction brings the wholesale price to the lowest point since April, 1917.

The cut has resulted in retail prices by chain stores of 13 cents a package and two packages for 25 cents. Most of the chains have been selling these brands at 14 cents and two for 27 cents. Among those who have made the cut are United Cigar stores, Schulte Retail stores and Liggett's Drug stores. The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company which has been selling these brands at two packages for 25 cents for several months, has not decided whether it will reduce prices, an executive said.

BANDITS SEIZE 3 REGISTERED MAIL POUCHES IN DEPOT

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3.—(AP)—A United States mail robbery in which six men are believed to have participated resulted in loss of three pouches of registered mail from the Milwaukee depot here tonight. The value of the contents was not ascertained immediately.

One man, armed with a sawed-off shotgun, was seen beside the office of the transfer clerk, George A. Lonquist, at the rear of the depot. The robber warned the few who saw him to get back, and a few moments later two automobiles, one carrying five men and the other one, sped away from the scene.

DIRECTORS CLOSE 3D NATION'L BANK OF MOUNTVERNON

Erroneous Report Blamed —Emmerson President.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Third National bank of Mount Vernon, the only one in the city, was closed today by order of the board of directors, who stated that the action was taken "to protect the interests of the depositors."

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson is president of the institution. It was said that a heavy run on the bank Saturday was caused by "erroneous reports" circulated following the closing of the Ridgley State Farmers bank of Springfield on Friday. Gov. Emmerson was one of the fifteen directors of the Springfield bank.

Conserve Bank's Assets.

Cashier E. A. Vonarb of the Third National bank of Mount Vernon asserted there was a quarter of a million dollars in cash in its vaults this morning, but that it had been decided to conserve all assets for the benefit of all depositors.

At the close of business on Saturday the Third National had deposits of $2,279,407 and resources of $2,781,000. Capital was $145,000 and surplus $150,000.

Declares Thirty Day Bank Holiday.

Gibson City, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Mayor Herman C. Krudup today proclaimed a thirty day bank holiday in Gibson City. It was announced the action was taken to prevent runs on the First National bank of Gibson City.

Last Thursday the Gibson City State bank was closed, and heavy withdrawals on the national bank followed. The state bank's retirement left only three banks in Ford county, which formerly had twelve.

Bank at Mechanicsburg Shuts.

Mechanicsburg, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The Mechanicsburg State bank failed to open for business today. The institution had deposits of $65,000 and capital of $25,000. S. A. Mendenhall is president and John E. Fullenwider cashier.

CITY RESTORES PERMIT OF AUTO PARTS COMPANY

Automobile Thefts.

Automobiles stolen, 64; recovered, 79; stripped, 20 [from police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Monday.] Automobile case defendants: Edward Coleman, Russell Jeans, Luther Brown, Sylvester Evans, Michael Boyle and Charles Gaddin, held to the grand jury for auto larceny by Judge Harold P. O'Connell.

Police Commissioner Allman last night issued instructions permitting the City Auto Parts company at 1716 South State street, which was closed by police last week, to operate until further orders.

The license of the concern was withdrawn last Friday at the request of Lieut. Philip Parodi, head of the stolen auto detail. Mitchell Gersh is owner of the place.

Lieut. Parodi acted because he said Gersh failed to comply with the registration regulations. Gersh, he charged, failed to register the purchase and disposal of an auto bumper, and also registered falsely another accessory purchase.

PUT CHICAGO COAST GUARD OFFICER IN COMMAND OF CUTTER

Warrant Officer Ralph Whitehouse, in charge of coast guard recruiting in Chicago for the last three years, was transferred yesterday to command of the coast guard cutter Crawford. He will be succeeded in his Chicago post by Warrant Officer John J. Judge, now stationed at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The Crawford, a 125 foot Diesel powered vessel, is now wintering at Two Harbors, Minn. It is assigned to protection of the fishing fleets on Lake Michigan.

Warrant Officer Whitehouse enlisted in the coast guard in 1910. He commanded a submarine chaser at Gibraltar during the war, when the coast guard was attached to the navy, and in 1926 was second in command of the cutter Marion, which steamed within 15 degrees of the north pole on a voyage to chart ocean currents and the course of icebergs which menace trans-Atlantic ships.

SCRIP DOLLARS WILL APPEAR IN EVANSTON TODAY

"Elrma dollars," which the Evanston Independent Retail Merchants' association and city officials of the suburb are issuing to stimulate trade and encourage the purchase of municipal tax warrants, will make their appearance today.

Members of the Evanston fire department will be given 1,000 of the $1 certificates today, paying for them in cash out of their recent pay. Acceptance of the certificates by city employes is voluntary, but the merchants and officials hope to persuade all employes to take them. Each fireman has agreed to take $30 worth in each month's pay.

The dollar certificate is backed by a dollar in gold, deposited in a bank. It will be redeemed when it has affixed to it 50 two cent stamps sold by the merchants' association. Each member of the association, who has agreed to accept the certificates in trade, will affix one of the stamps whenever he receives a certificate.

The merchants' association will use the money received for the stamps to purchase city tax warrants, which will be distributed to members in proportion to their stamp purchases. Thus the merchants will not be paying a two cent "tax" for handling the certificates, but will be investing two cents in the purchase of tax warrants for every dollar certificate they receive in trade.

LONDON SOCIETY LEADER SHARES IN BANKER'S ESTATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Dudley Ward, a leading figure in London society circles and a close friend of the prince of Wales, has been left a fortune by Michael George Herbert, 39 year old bachelor banker it was revealed today. She will receive one-fourth of his $2,500,000 estate which, allowing for death duties, brings the bequest to about $400,000.

Herbert's mother was the former Mrs. Wilson, daughter of an American banker, and a sister of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. His father was the late Sir Michael Herbert, youngest British ambassador ever sent to Washington. Michael Herbert attempted to follow his father in the diplomatic service but failed in the examinations.

"PRINCE MIKE," NEW YORK WAIF, BORN IN RUSSIA

But U.S. Can't Deport Him to Native Country.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—A good deal of mystery evaporated from the origins and early years of Harry F. Gerguson today when the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children turned up a packet of crumbling, time stained documents of the 1902-1907 period with the name "Harry Gaygussen" pencilled on the outside.

One document after another, starting with complaints and investigators' reports, custody receipts and still more complaints and reports of the weary agents whose job it was to keep an eye on the future "Prince Michael Romanoff," tell the story of his juvenile years and strip them of the last shred of glamour or mystery. Gerguson, or Gaygussen, as the earliest reports have it, was just plain, ordinary, street variety of incorrigible boy.

How He Gets Back to U. S.

Most important, from the standpoint of the immigration officials who have been entertaining him at Ellis island over the holiday while trying to find out how he got back to these shores two weeks ago and what his nationality actually is, the documents of the S. P. C. C. show that he was born in Russia.

They show that he came to this country in 1900. He was ten years old at the time. Some time before the spring of 1902 his parents died and the educational alliance took charge of him and put him in a class for new arrivals learning English.

"Prince Mike" would be 42 years old now. There is no record that before their deaths his parents became Americanized, or that anything was done to make him an American citizen. Granted that he had made himself pretty much of a cosmopolite in his adult years, it appears from the record that he was and is a Russian.

Does Not Speak Russian.

Fixing that fact definitely doesn't help the immigration people a great deal, however. They made up their minds several years ago that he was Russian, even though he doesn't speak a word of Russian now—the educational alliance did its work well—and when he was deported to France some months ago it was as an undesirable alien. Then as now Gerguson claimed American citizenship and insisted he was born in New York City—a claim that the S. P. C. C. documents refute. But even if Gerguson is Russian he can't be deported to Russia because this country has no arrangements with the soviets for such matters.

The records show that "Little Harry" gave the educational alliance, his first public custodian, a lot of trouble in the first few months it had charge of him and that he was later turned over to the Hebrew Orphan asylum. After about two weeks' fruitless efforts at discipline the asylum gave up and shipped him back to the alliance. The alliance refused to take him and he became a street waif.

U. S. Supreme Court Gets Appeal in Cisar Tax Case

An appeal in the Cisar tax case, attacking the validity of the 1928 and 1929 tax levies in Cook county, was filed yesterday with the United States Supreme court at Washington. The appeal was from the Illinois Supreme court, which some months ago sustained the levies and reversed the finding of County Judge Jarecki, who held them invalid because of alleged failure by assessing officers to schedule large amounts of personal property.

CALL EX-WIFE'S PARENTS IN NEW SUIT BY BRUNKER

An official summons was served yesterday on Mr. and Mrs. George S. Gaylord of Neenah, Wis., commanding them to appear for questioning on Jan. 16 in regard to an action for alienation of affections filed against them at Oshkosh by their former son-in-law, Albert R. Brunker, wealthy Lake Forest reformer.

Brunker's affidavit, filed on Saturday, alleged that the Gaylords and Frederick H. Ruppel of Pasadena, Cal., who is now married to the former Mrs. Brunker, conspired to persuade his wife to leave him. The questioning of the Gaylords will be conducted under the discovery statute of Wisconsin. It was explained that this formality is used to evoke information on which the suit for alienation of affections can be based.

The former Mrs. Brunker obtained a divorce in Reno on May 25, 1931. She and Mr. Ruppel, to whom she was married soon afterward, reside now in Pasadena.

5 RUSSIANS GET DEATH; SLEW BOY FOR 'BETRAYAL'

KOLESNIKOVO, U. S. S. R., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Five men were sentenced to death today for the murder of a 13 year old boy who had exposed them to the authorities as "class enemies."

The case was an almost exact parallel of the recent murder of two young brothers in the nearby village of Gerasimovka under similar circumstances.

Thirteen year old Nikolai Miakotin was waylaid and shot to death by kulaks, independent farmers, whom he had accused of stealing produce and property from the collective farms.

2 UNION AGENTS HELD FOR QUIZ ON 2 BOMBINGS

George William Nolan, 35 years old, 7930 South Paulina street, and Martin F. Daley, 46 years old, 7837 South Paulina street, business agents for the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Shipbuilders, were charged with disorderly conduct yesterday after witnesses had failed to identify them in connection with two bombings which occurred on Friday.

Those bombed were Frank J. Dennis, 1408 South Western avenue, and D. J. McAllister, 862 North Spaulding avenue. Dennis said that while he was a holder of a union card, his son sometimes worked with him and the union refused to admit him. Instead the business agents, he said, had insisted that the son remain idle.

McAllister said that his boiler plant had been bombed after he had trouble with the Chicago Boiler Manufacturers' association. He had refused to join this body, which demanded a fee of $1,000 from him. The police said they understood that the union and the association worked together and that union men were refused permission to work for contractors not approved by the association.

Nolan and Daley denied knowledge of the bombing.

Movie Usher Battles Taxi Driver and Lands in Jail

Arthur Nielson, 26 years old, 1734 West Madison street, a movie usher, was driving through the loop late yesterday and in front of 600 South Wabash avenue his car collided with a taxicab. According to the police, Nielson got out of his car and struck the cab driver, Henry McLaughlin, 7816 Cornell avenue, several times in the face. Nielson was taken to the Central station and booked on charges of reckless driving, assault, and driving without city or state licenses. He could not furnish bail and was locked up.

INJUNCTION PLEA AGAINST MOVIE UNION IS REFUSED

Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday refused to grant seven members of the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union an injunction to prevent officials of the organization from molesting them. The judge ruled that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that overt acts of intimidation had occurred but he granted the men ten days to file an amended bill.

The suit, naming Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the union, and 25 other officials, asks an accounting of $230,000 in the union funds. It asks a court order invalidating the election in May, 1932, on the grounds that methods of intimidation had been used to reëlect the officers who have retained their posts during the last five years.

There are two reasons why venereal disease quacks are more to be despised than the lowest type of thief. First, because they take advantage of fear and a false sense of shame to charge infected men outrageous fees which they can ill afford. Second, because by incompetent treatment they ruin the health of many a sufferer in addition to taking his money!

What is more, these quacks frequently are guilty of treating men who have no disease whatever. This was proved beyond question by the American Social Hygiene Association, who sent to them men known to be absolutely free from infection. Yet the quacks pronounced them to have venereal diseases that would require weeks or months of expensive treatment!

"But how," you ask, "can I escape such quacks . . . how can I be sure I am getting into the hands of a reliable physician?" The best way is to avoid doctors who advertise by means of alarming pamphlets passed out on the streets. While it is not necessarily true that all doctors who distribute pamphlets are quacks, the fact remains that practically every quack issues them.

The Public Health Institute is able to state these helpful truths in newspapers because it is known to be organized NOT FOR PROFIT but solely for the general welfare. Its officers and trustees are men of the highest integrity, not one of whom ever receives a penny in salary or dividends. Of it an investigating committee composed of nationally-recognized physicians said:

"The Public Health Institute appears to be run on an honest basis and has demonstrated the possibility of giving efficient treatment more economically than has been possible elsewhere. The service is superior to that of the average public clinic; privacy is well provided for, and the relation of physician to patient is a friendly one. Evidence of a desire to serve the patient and not merely carry him on for visit after visit is the large number classified as No Disease Found."

The importance of avoiding quack treatment becomes apparent when you consider the seriousness of venereal diseases. Improperly-treated syphilis, for example, may result in heart disease, apoplexy, blindness, deafness, paralysis or even insanity! And it is recognized as being the principal cause of stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded babies.

Gonorrhea, too, can prove very dangerous unless completely cured. It may lead to sterility, crippling rheumatism, or other serious complications. Worse still, it is the outstanding cause of infantile blindness, and is responsible for most of the pelvic operations on women.

Take no chances, therefore, but make certain of getting competent treatment by consulting a reliable private physician or a trustworthy public clinic like the Public Health Institute. Here a complete examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including Wassermann and Kahn blood tests, costs only $3.00, while six consecutive treatments for gonorrhea cost but $4.00. Even those pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those run for personal gain!

VAPEX GETS TO THE SEAT OF A COLD

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.

Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

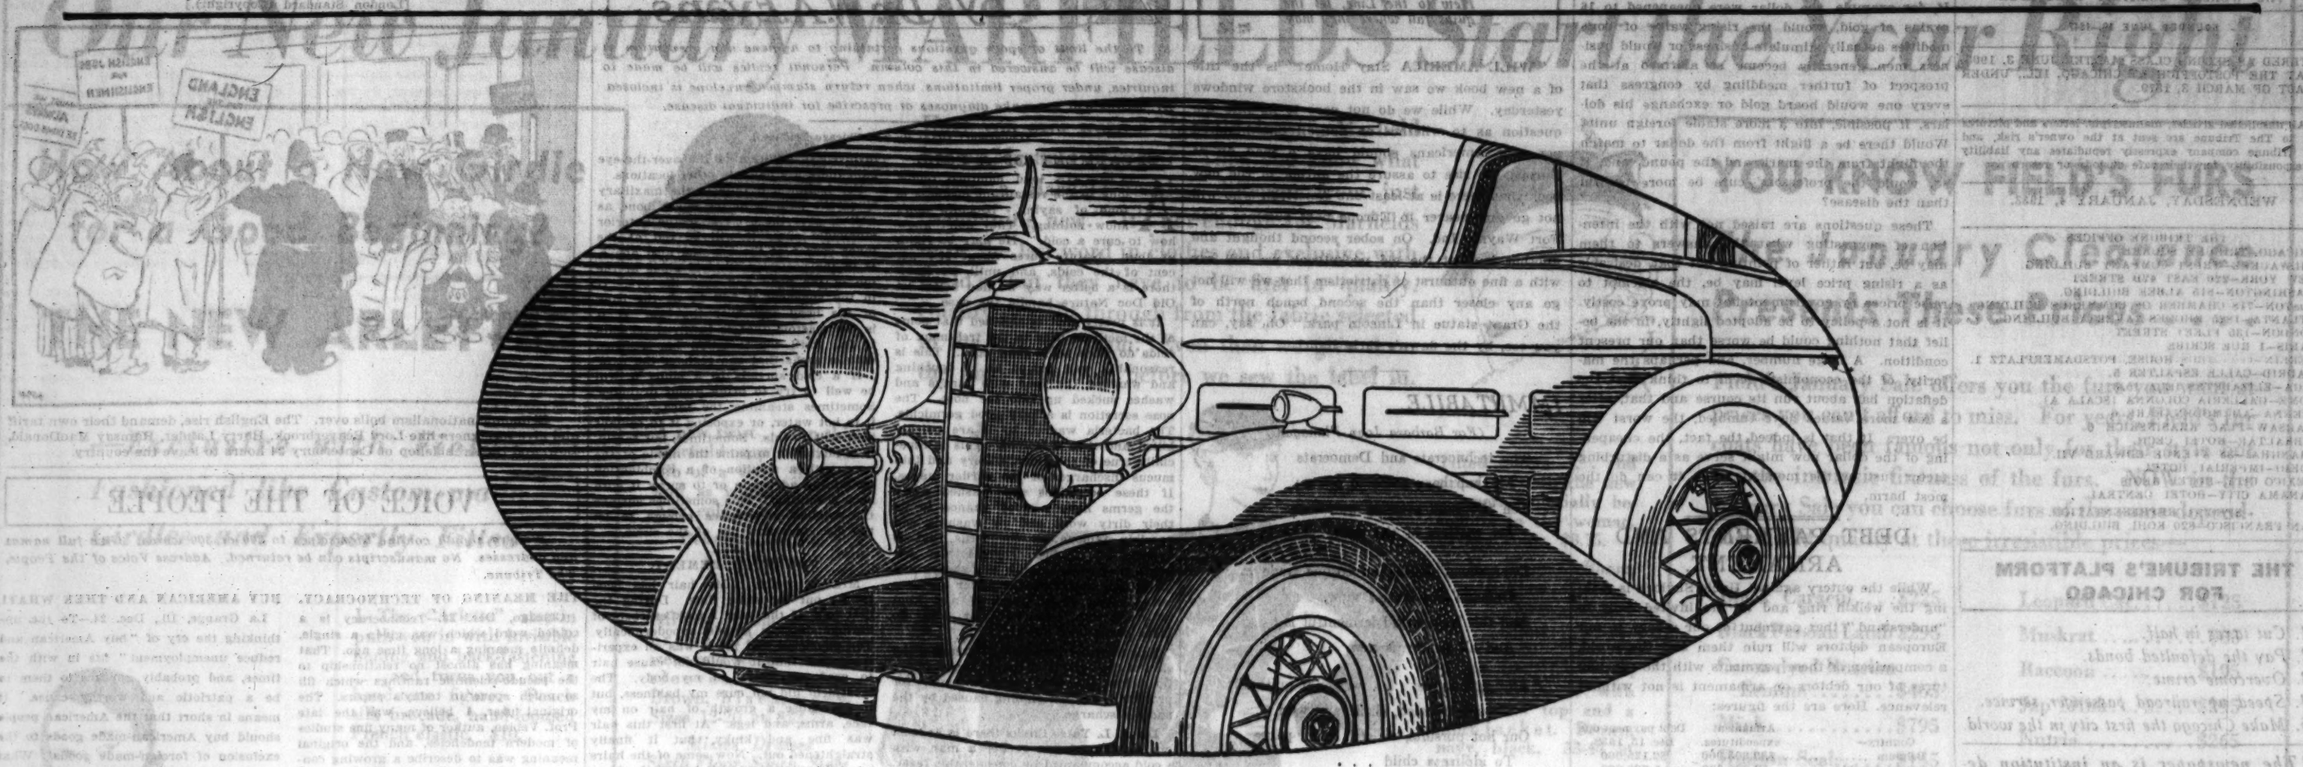
AN UNBIASED medical research laboratory favors Vapex as a safe, effective way to relieve the distress of a head-cold.

This decision is based on two important facts. First, that breathing the Vapex vapor penetrates to the seat of a cold — the hidden breathing-passages — where drops, sprays, gargles, and salves are less likely to reach. Second, because Vapex has remarkable germ-killing power.

Breathing Vapex is as refreshing as breathing mountain air. There's no muss . . . no fuss. Mothers say it's ideal for children because it's so safe and effective.

Now you'll find that Vapex is sold at a reduced price — only 75c a bottle. Keep one handy for all the family. At the first sign of a cold, sprinkle a few drops on the handkerchief and at the ends of the pillow. A few breaths bring prompt relief.

VAPEX Months of relief for only 75c



CADILLAC

presents a new V-8 * V-12 * and La Salle

AT DECIDED REDUCTIONS IN PRICE

Re-styled completely in a mode quite obviously their own . . . endowed with performance more brilliant and alluring from every standpoint . . . and enriched throughout in those fundamental qualities which set Cadillac-built cars apart from all others in the world—a new Cadillac V-8, a new Cadillac V-12 and a dashing new La Salle now make their bow to the American public. ☆ ☆ ☆ And they come not only as the finest cars that Cadillac has ever built, but as by far the greatest values—for every model in all three lines is offered at prices decidedly reduced. ☆ ☆ ☆ At no time in its history has Cadillac made a more significant step toward its goal of perfection than in these three distinguished cars. In everything that they are and do, they represent definite advancement over their distinguished predecessors. ☆ ☆ ☆ They are infinitely more beautiful—not only in the sweep of their lines, but in the contour of radiator, fenders and mouldings. And their beauty is individual, lending a distinction apart from all other cars on the highway—as you would expect of a Cadillac or La Salle. ☆ ☆ ☆ Every performance factor is decisively improved and refined. The engines are more alert and dynamic—not only in speed, but in response to the throttle as well. The over-all quietness is even more pronounced, actually approaching complete silence of operation. Comfort is the nearest approach to the ideal the motor car has ever known. And there is a quick, certain and unlabored response to brakes and steering wheel that removes from driving the last vestige of effort. ☆ ☆ ☆ And Cadillac is especially proud to provide, alone of all the cars in its price field, that vital health and comfort feature—Fisher No-Draft Ventilation, individually-controlled. It may be said definitely that, without this feature, no car can give you the satisfaction you now have a right to expect in a fine automobile. ☆ ☆ ☆ These three unusual cars are now on display at Cadillac-La Salle showrooms everywhere, and Cadillac joins with its dealers in extending a most cordial invitation to see and inspect them at any time.

As previously announced, the 1933 production of the Cadillac V-16 will be limited to four hundred cars, custom built to individual order—each car to be serially numbered and inscribed with the owner's name. The coachwork will be designed and executed by Fleetwood and will be mounted on an improved 16-cylinder chassis of even greater performance and mechanical excellence. For those who seek the acme in personalized transportation, the Cadillac V-16 comprises its highest interpretation.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A GOOD BEGINNING.

The American people could hardly expect a more welcome augury for the new year than the emphatic declarations in favor of government economy made by the President elect, by Alfred Smith, and by the new governor of New York. If the Democratic party, of which these men are outstanding leaders—one the titular leader, one the most influential unofficial leader, and one the executive of the great commonwealth of New York—obey and faithfully adhere to this advice, the main battle against the depression will be won. For retrenchment in the federal, state, and local expenditures of government is the key to victory. Resistance in political office, bureaucracy and special interest is powerful, but not so powerful as the will of the people under determined leadership. The fight for economy already is being waged throughout the country with steadily increasing extent and intensity. The declarations of Roosevelt, Smith, and Lehman, all leaders of first rank, two the most eminent in the party, will encourage every organization now working for public economy and every citizen now struggling forward under the burden of a destructive taxation. Economy must be the central objective of the whole national effort for recovery, and we may now hope that the strategy of the new administration will be solidly based on this principle.

With such an introduction the year 1933 begins hopefully and the American people will face its grave problems with a renewed courage and confidence.

CHEAPENING THE DOLLAR.

Profs. Warren and Pearson of Cornell university stated in a paper read before the recent convention of the American Statistical association in Cincinnati that the "price level must be raised to the debt and tax level or the debt level must be lowered to the price level."

To the farmer that means that the price of corn must rise to a point where he can pay the interest on his mortgage and his taxes or the mortgage owner must take the farm and write its value down to the point where he can make a profit on 20 cent corn. To the apartment owner it means that rents must rise to the point where they will permit him to meet his mortgage obligations and his taxes or the value of the property must be adjusted by foreclosure or otherwise to the present rent levels. And so on. Prices must rise or fixed obligations must be lowered.

The professors could see no other way out, and neither, we believe, can any one else. They properly hooted at those who believe that the turn will come through efforts to change popular psychology. There is no use in trying to instill a psychology of confidence as long as the conditions which destroy confidence remain, and the most important of those conditions, in the view of the professors, was a depressed and falling price level.

They also had small use for the doctrine that the government can bring about the restoration of good times by a policy of lending such as is embodied in the Reconstruction Finance corporation act. Merely postponing bankruptcy by lending government money for this or that purpose will not change the fundamentals, they said; it will only add to the burden of the government's debt or to the burden of taxes without accomplishing any real good.

With this analysis of the situation there will be relatively little quarrel. The remedy proposed by the professors, the reduction of the gold content of the dollar, will meet with much more objection, some of it silly and some of it worthy of serious consideration.

The silly objectors will be those who believe that the dollar is a work of the Creator and must not be tampered with. Of course, the dollar is as much a creation of mankind as is the foot rule. The dollar exists by virtue of an act of congress. The dollar as a measure of value is no more sacred than the foot as a measure of distance or the hour as a measure of time. We change the clock to suit our convenience in the spring and fall and we would be justified, if it would suit our convenience, in changing the dollar, too. It now contains 23.22 grains of gold. It might contain 16 or 60. Profs. Pearson and Warren think the depression would lift if the gold content were reduced to 16 grains, and the only question which this proposal raises is one of consequences. If by so simple a device we could put an end to the misery of the last three years we ought not to delay the decision for even a moment.

But it is at this point that objections worthy of serious considerations arise. Does it, in fact, suit our convenience to alter the gold content of the dollar? Even if contracts calling for payment of fixed debts in gold coin of the present standard could be changed to permit payment in cheaper dollars, would the devaluing of the dollar serve to increase prices correspondingly and at the same time bring no undesired consequences in its train? If, for example, the dollar were cheapened to 16 grains of gold, would the rising value of commodities actually stimulate business or would business men generally become so alarmed at the prospect of further meddling by congress that every one would hoard gold or exchange his dollars, if possible, into a more stable foreign unit? Would there be a flight from the dollar to match the flight from the mark and the pound, and, if so, would the professors' cure be more painful than the disease?

These questions are raised not with the intention of suggesting what the answers to them may be, but rather of pointing out that, desirable as a rising price level may be, the attempt to raise prices by government fiat may prove costly. It is not a policy to be adopted lightly, in the belief that nothing could be worse than our present condition. A large number, and perhaps the majority, of the economists seem to think that the defiation has about run its course and that, after a few more values have tumbled, the worst will be over. If that is indeed the fact, the cheapening of the dollar now might serve as a disturbing factor just at the moment when it can do the most harm.

DEBT PAYMENTS AND ARMAMENT.

While the outcry against Uncle Shylock is making the welkin ring and we are invited daily to "understand" that payment of our money to our European debtors will ruin them and the world, a comparison of these payments with the expenditures of our debtors on armament is not without relevance. Here are the figures:

Country—	Armament expenditures.	Debt payment due Dec. 15, 1932.
Belgium	$33,303,000	$2,125,000
Czechoslovakia	53,600,000	1,500,000
Estonia	5,520,000	266,370
Finland	16,457,000	186,235
France	541,300,000	19,261,438
Great Britain	527,500,000	95,550,000
Italy	331,600,000	1,245,437
Latvia	7,860,000	111,852
Lithuania	5,680,000	92,386
Poland	94,900,000	3,302,980

It will, of course, be said that the European states must have security at any cost. But it is security from one another that they demand, not from us. If they would cease to threaten one another they could reduce their expenditure on arms to an extent which would not only permit payment of their lawful and just obligations to us but substantially decrease their ability to ruin one another by the war they are even now predicting and preparing for.

We think Prof. Harry Elmer Barnes summarizes and expresses intelligent American opinion when he says:

"Statesmanlike receptivity to a reopening of the debt question in the interest of world recovery is certainly in order. But we should safeguard ourselves against making this the final and irrevocable step in our suckerdom at the hands of Europe since 1917."

Editorial of the Day

THE EARLIEST AMERICAN JOURNALIST.

[New York Times.]

The current Colophon, a book collector's quarterly, has brought to the notice of its clientele the lively career of Benjamin Harris, "printer, bookseller, and the first American journalist." He deserves a wider acquaintance. After various and picturesque adventures and vicissitudes [including exposure in the pillory in London] as a publisher of his own writings and those of others, he sought refuge in New England, arriving with his wife, children, and a stock of books in 1686 in Boston, where he opened a bookshop. There were seven other booksellers in his neighborhood, but he prospered and became "the leading publisher and bookseller of the seventeenth century in America." His shop was a social and intellectual center where "coffee, tea, and chucaletto" were sold as well as books. He published many books, pamphlets and broadsides, notably "The New England Primer," which has been termed "the most remarkable book ever published in America," borrowed in part from a work which he had himself earlier published in England to teach children spelling.

As the publisher of a newspaper in America his experience was very brief. It began with a small sheet, Sept. 25, 1690, carrying three pages of news, the fourth being blank. He called it "Publick Occurrences" [foreign and domestick] and planned to publish it monthly, or "if any Glut of occurrences happen, oftener." His purpose was threefold:

First, that memorable occurent of Divine Providence may not be neglected or forgotten as they too often are . . . secondly, that the people of Boston may better know public affairs, and, thirdly, that something may be done towards the curing, or at least the charming, of that spirit of lying, which prevails among us.

There were no advertisements. The news in the first number included reports of the kidnapings of two children by Indians, of certain Indian atrocities, of a Christianized Indian Thanksgiving service, of the suicide of a man who had lost his wife, of a murder at sea, of a disastrous fire, of the breaking out of smallpox, and of alleged incest by the French king. But this last named reflection of "a very high nature" and "sundry and doubtful reports," together with the publisher's failure to procure a license, led to the prompt suppression of this first number by the governor and council, who caused to be published a broadside proclaiming their "high Resentment and Disallowance." And a second number never appeared.

Harris returned to England some years later, where he published several papers successively, and also sold sermons, playing cards, almanacs, and patent medicines. One regrets with Mr. Frank Monaghan, who relates this engaging story, that Harris is no longer over at the Golden Boar's Head dispensing his "only Angelical Pills," for, as was claimed in his advertisement, they had potency to "rejoice the heart," to "revive the natural spirits," to "drive away melancholy," to "expel dejected thoughts," and to "preserve the whole frame of nature." It is not known how long he himself survived the "Cavils of This World," for the date of his death, as well as of his birth, is unknown. But he is lastingly remembered in the Dictionary of American Biography because of his priority, and might have had a place there for other reasons [since he had a marked sense of news value and a vigorous style in writing] if the official censor had not made the first number of his American newspaper the last.

PARDON ME!

The lights in the crowded bus had failed and it was rush hour.

"Can I help you find a strap?" a tall straphanger inquired of the young lady who had gotten on at the last stop.

"Thank you," she replied, "but I already have one."

"Then would you mind letting go of my necktie?"—Michigan Motor News.

KEPT HIS WORD.

"Say, doc, you sure kept your promise when you said you'd have me walking again in a month."

"Well, well, that's fine."

"Yes, I got your bill last week and went right out and sold my car."—Michigan Motor News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"WILL AMERICA Stay Home?" is the title of a new book we saw in the bookstore windows yesterday. While we do not care to go into the question as to whether or not all one hundred per cent Americans should have a mad on at Europe, we rise to assure the author of the new book that there is at least one American who will not go any nearer to Europe next summer than Fort Wayne, Ind. On sober second thought and another look at the old pocketbook we will say with a fine outburst of patriotism that we will not go any closer than the second bench north of the Grant statue in Lincoln park. Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn's early light!

IMMUTABILE.

(For Barbara Joan Flanagan.)

The technocrats and Democrats
Mayhap have come to power;
Ten thousand pressing questions
Are matters of the hour.

Depressions, debts, and cosmic trade
Demand our closest view,
And this huge world fermentful is
And all its cry is new.

"All," sayest one . . . well, not quite all;
Though frenzied, shrill, and wild
Our hot pursuits, we still make pause
To idolize a child . . .

To adulate wee beauty,
In this dull and sordid whirl
Of grab and counter-grab; still love
A precious baby girl!

GERMANY EXPLAINS the decrease of divorces in 1932 over other years by declaring the reason to be that so many husbands are broke and consequently stay home more than they used to do. That many be true in Germany, where der herr undt der frau while away the evenings playing skat and chess, both calm, philosophical, reflective games, but over here, if papa stayed home nights, he and mamma would probably play bridge and then there would be just more divorces. Unless mamma was a pretty fair shot.

ELECTORS, chosen by the people, will meet in their respective states today and solemnly choose a President and Vice President of these United States. Oh, we are all excited! Who will be given these high honors? But we will not know even after the electors make their choice. We must wait until Feb. 3, when congress meets to count the votes of the electors and decide that everything was done in order. It is rumored that a Mr. Roosevelt of New York and a Mr. Garner of Texas will be selected by the electors today, but it would be well to wait. Anyhow, aren't we a funny people?

LILIES OF THE POOR.

There are no red geraniums at the windows,
Nor fancy jars with hyacinths in bloom.
Long strands of garlic and of bright red peppers

WE ARE NOT especially stunned at the news of renewed hostilities between the Japanese and Chinese, but we are driven to melancholy by another epidemic of headlines and pictures in the newspapers referring to the "latest Sino-Japanese war." We've been in China three or four times and lived there once for two years, and never in all that time did we ever meet a Sino. It must be that the Sinos only come out when the Japanese invade the place.

Lord, I thank Thee for the night after the doubt of the day; for the thousand lighted altars in the sacred places of space where my troubled mind, on its wide search for peace, may pause to pray and then go on in its quest; I thank Thee for the timeless hills above the flood-plain of the mighty Missouri where the ancients sent up their signal fires; for the silver bars of the river rimmed with the gold of weaving willows; for the stately stillness of the cottonwoods, by the marsh, where the slender reeds become soft-playing flutes for all the feathered things asleep with their heads under their wings: . . .

TREATMENT OF A COLD.

A CERTAIN loud mouthed fellow long in the restaurant business is fond of saying, "Doctors don't know nothing. They don't know how to cure a cold." He may be right, at that. Nature cures about 99.9 per cent of the colds, and until we know there is a better way we had better let Old Doc Nature handle the case.

It is pretty well established that some of the methods used in the treatment of colds do more harm than good. This is reasonably well proved as to douching and washing the nose with sprays and washes sucked up into the nose. The nose secretion is a very good germicide. The bacteria washed by it are quickly killed and then dissolved. This is especially true of the clear, watery and thin mucus discharges of the earlier stages. If these secretions are washed away the germs have a good chance to do their dirty work and no washing can possibly remove all the virus that is causing the trouble. There is also evidence that washing with oily sprays and mists and anointing the lower surfaces with grease or ointment of any kind interfere with nature's way and do more harm than good.

This does not hold true of greasing the skin of the outside of the nose and upper lip below the nose as a measure for protection against chafing caused by the nasal discharge.

Dr. A. L. Yates thinks there is at least one service we can render a man with a cold accompanied by considerable fever. He advocates giving him several doses of bicarbonate of soda. The urine is tested with litmus paper before and during this treatment. As soon as it becomes alkaline in reaction the soda is stopped, though a light diet of fruit juices, vegetables, and vegetable soups is continued.

When the urine becomes alkaline the fever disappears and the temperature becomes normal at once.

When pain around the head develops in the course of an acute cold that means that the infection has spread to some sinus. The pain of an acute sinus infection is always felt above the eye. In the case of a frontal sinus trouble this is the only location of the pain. If some sinus other than the frontal is involved in addition to the over-the-eye pain there are pains in other locations.

For instance, if it is in the maxillary sinus the pain is in the cheek bone as well as over the eye. If in the anterior ethmoidal sinus it will be felt at the inner corner of the eye and also above. If in the posterior ethmoid sinus at the top of the head and over the eye. If in the sphenoid it will be at the back of the head and over the eye. If it is the mastoid that is involved no pain is felt until the infection has reached certain areas that can register the pain.

If a cold spreads to a sinus it will be well to try to bring about drainage. Sometimes steaming the face, washing it in hot water, or exposing it to radiant heat will do this. Sometimes, but rarely, it is advisable to paint the inside of the nose with a solution of a combination containing adrenalin or to spray it with such a solution. This sometimes shrinks the swollen membranes enough to let the discharge flow out of the sinus.

TOO MUCH REMEDY.

Mrs. B. writes: My hair has been falling out for some time. During the first half of the year I took extracts of various ductless glands hypodermically. The physician told me it was an experiment, but that it would not cause hair to grow elsewhere on my body. The treatment did not cure my baldness, but it did cause a growth of hair on my face, arms, and legs. At first this hair was fine and kinky, but it finally straightened out. Now some of the hairs are three-quarters of an inch long. Please let my experience be a warning to others.

FIAT MONEY.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Could fiat money be forced on a creditor in payment of debt? 2. Can any money except that which is designated as legal tender be forced on a creditor in payment of debt? 3. Is all of our present paper money legal tender? E. R. N.

1. Yes, unless the agreement expressly promised to pay in a specific type of money. Practically all real estate mortgages are payable "in gold of the present standard of weight and fineness."

2. No, but presumably fiat money would be designated as legal tender.

3. No. The ones that are legal tender expressly so state. We suggest that you examine the wording of various bills.

REAL ESTATE CONTRACT.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" buys real estate from "B" on what is known as a real estate contract, making an initial payment and monthly payments. "B" agrees in the contract not to mortgage the property in excess of 50 per cent of the purchase price. However, he violates this agreement by mortgaging it in excess of 50 per cent. Does "A" have any redress on this score? If so, what? S. C.

If the purchaser has credit for the amount of the mortgage we do not clearly understand how he is damaged, but presumably if he has sustained any damage he is entitled to relief.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 4, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—After the complete failure of the negotiations with Carranza had been reported to the President by the American commissioners it became known that Mr. Wilson has decided definitely to withdraw the Pershing army of 15,000 regulars from Mexico. This move will mark the termination of the punitive expedition dispatched by the President after the Columbus massacre last March to take Villa "dead or alive." The withdrawal will be based upon the recommendation of the army general staff, which, however, recommended the withdrawal only after the President had halted the pursuit of Villa and bowed to the mandate of Carranza, which resulted in the massacre of the Boyd command at Carrizal. The general staff holds that Pershing is in a dangerous position from a strategic point of view. Instead of taking Villa dead or alive, Pershing himself is in danger of being taken "dead or alive" by the bandit, whose army is now almost equal numerically to the American forces.

LONDON.—The Teutonic troops have virtually cleared all of the Dobrudja and have driven the Russians back on the last defenses of Focsani, key to the Sereth line on the southwest, in central Rumania. Gen. Sakaroff's resistance in the Dobrudja partially collapsed and the Bulgars and the Germans poured through the lines for big advances. The villages of Luncavitza, Jijila, and finally Matchin succumbed to the onslaughts. The Russians were hurled back to the extreme northwestern corner of the province, opposite Galatz, where they are trapped unless retreat is possible over the Danube. This successful movement virtually ends the tenacious struggle for Braila, the great Rumanian granary. The eastern end of the Matchin-Braila bridge is now in the hands of Mackensen's forces and the enemy's guns are shelling the town from two sides. Galatz is now exposed to the same peril from the east that has threatened Braila for days.

PARIS.—The usual cannonade took place at various points along the front today. A violent artillery action occurred in the region of Steenstraete. The Belgian batteries seriously damaged the German positions. The artillery was active north and south of the Somme in the regions of Rouvroy and of Verdun, around Dead Man hill and Bezon-Vaux, and also in the Champagne.

LONDON.—Since Dec. 26 operations on the Tigris front have been impeded by heavy rain, which has fallen almost daily and reduced the ground to a morass. In spite of these adverse conditions, further progress has been made on the right bank of the Tigris, east and northeast of Kut-El-Amara.

PETROGRAD.—Enemy airplanes have displayed considerable activity on the Russian western front and dropped bombs at various points. In the direction of Zalogev the enemy bombarded the villages of Batkuv, Manaiux, and Garbuzov, after which his infantry took the offensive. On the Dniester, in the region of Iezupol, Russian artillery successfully bombarded Iezupol.

CHICAGO.—Miss Betty Benson, conspicuous in Chicago as a movie actress and because of her connection with a sensational divorce exposé, died in Los Angeles, according to dispatches. Miss Benson had been liberated from the city prison in Los Angeles after imprisonment for engaging in the opium traffic. She had been known in Los Angeles as "the queen of the smugglers," and, despite her denials, was sentenced to 100 days' imprisonment for a previous offense. She contracted an illness while in prison and was removed to a hospital.

CHICAGO.—If the new standard and rates proposed by the gas company were accepted by the city it would cost the housewife more to do her cooking than it costs her now. In homely language, that is the verdict of the United States bureau of standards upon the proposal made to the city council by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. On its face the proposal offers a reduction in the rate. It names a reduction in the price per thousand feet of gas. But coupled with this offer is a proviso that a lower heating standard be approved by the city. Upon this proposition the federal scientists say the consumer would be the loser.

THE MEANING OF TECHNOCRACY.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Technocracy is a coined word which was given a single, definite meaning a long time ago. That meaning has almost no relationship to the pseudo-scientific rantings which fill so much space in today's papers. The original user, I believe, was the late Prof. Veblen, author of many fine studies of modern tendencies, and the original meaning was to describe a growing condition resulting from our modern corporate ownership.

Almost all large industries are owned by numerous scattered stockholders whose only voice in the management of the industries is an occasional vote for directors. Only when there comes up a battle like that between Stewart and Rockefeller over Standard Oil of Indiana, or the recent Cord affair, does the stockholder mean anything. The actual management, direction, control and government of industry is in the hands, to an ever increasing part, of men who have but little ownership, who are not workers risen from the ranks, but are technically trained in the scientific management and control of business. Their stewardship and their large salaries and bonuses depend in the long run, of course, upon their securing results for the stockholders, but even that is remote and indirect, and often other motives than the direct one of profit to the stockholders affect and govern the decisions of the managers of industries.

Into the hands of this group then, considered as a class, is coming more and more of the control of public affairs and of public opinion, and even the control of government. The name for such control by the technicians and experts who are the managers of big business today is technocracy, and these people, the Insulls and Budds, and even the Ketterings, who speak against technocracy, are the real technocrats.

The technocrats—the real ones—are, of course, not organized. Some are Democrats, some are Republicans; a few may be even Socialists, single taxers, or disbelievers in any political action. They have in common many ideas and ideals to which most subscribe, a background of a similar type of education, of standard of living, of club and social affiliations. They have no united program for the salvation of the country. If they had it would be in effect long since, for in the hands of the real technocrats there is power.

The ballyhoo about technocrats and technocracy has a foundation of fact in the existence and power of these men. Around that foundation an unimportant group of men have laid a heavy smoke screen of hazy words. Above the clouds appears a vague and indefinite program for the salvation of the world, which resembles a platterful of hash, compounded of socialism, various new economic theories descending from Bryan, a dash of the soviet of supermen, and the general unrest of a depression. If the smoke screen is blown away it will be clearly seen that there is no connection between the facts that constitute the foundation and the superstructure of the "program of technocracy."

Certainly no group of self-styled technocrats, who are in no way entitled to the name, is justified in flooding the world with propaganda supported by the obvious idea that it is backed by the technical administrators of industry. I hold no brief for or against their program, which is too vague and uncertain to be understood and discussed, but I must object to the misuse of a good, clear, and sharply defined word.

GEORGE GORDON.

BUY AMERICAN AND THEN WHAT?

La Grange, Ill., Dec. 24.—To the unthinking the cry of "buy American and reduce unemployment" fits in with the times, and probably appears to them to be a patriotic and worthy cause. It means in short that the American people should buy American-made goods to the exclusion of foreign-made goods. What all Americans should know is that our exports are greater than our imports. [See, for example, the table on the financial page of THE TRIBUNE for Dec. 21.] By exasperating a world already hostile toward us with a silly campaign of self-sufficiency we are jeopardizing an export business of larger volume than our import business. The logical result will be greater unemployment than we have now.

What the world needs is fewer, not more, trade barriers. A freer exchange of goods internationally will go further in relieving world distress than any fatuous dreams of self-sufficiency.

THE BITTER CRY OF THE DEBUTANTES.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—I am writing through a blur of tears and my heart is aching as I type this note. O, Miss Judith Cass, why do you appeal thus to our sympathies? The pen picture you have painted—poor, tired debutantes losing weight through the burden of their social duties and unable to sleep longer than noon—surely, something should be done about this!

I broached the subject to the girl from the stocking counter. She smiled brightly and said, "Well, misery loves company. Tossing and tumbling through the night, wondering how much longer I can keep the family together on my salary and pay my bills—and (wistfully) if I can ever afford those music lessons, I lose weight, too. But then it's smart to be slender and on Sundays I can sleep till noon—just like a debutante. Poor dears, they get so little out of life." Then she tucked her foot behind the other to hide the hole in her shoe and continued to peruse the society column.

The pictures showed the buds not nearly so pretty as the little stocking counter girl, and her midwestern accent was pleasing to the ears of one in whose country Oxford accents are easily acquired and are not at a premium.

No, I am not a communist. Nevertheless, some one has said that "society is the upper crust of the world frozen 10 degrees below fraternity." I believe them.

Mr. Editor, I dare you to print this. I double dare you!

MARY TRAILL CORMACK.

ROBBER, SPARE THAT TREE.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—This is just a warning to all property owners who have any pine or spruce trees planted in their yards to watch them very carefully. We had two beautiful North Dakota pines about 5 feet tall, and just a perfect match, planted in our yard, when, lo and behold! upon arising Monday, Dec. 26, we found some petty thief had come in and dug up our trees during the night. Whoever did it did not want to use them as Christmas trees because they were clever enough to dig them up with the ball at the bottom, so they could sell them or use them in their own yard.

It seems too bad one cannot have a garden without some one trying to damage it. IDA H. JACOBSON.

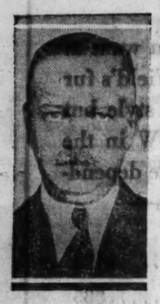
DR. CUNO, HEAD OF GERMAN SHIP LINE, DROPS DEAD

Ex-Chancellor Collapses in Wife's Arms.

HAMBURG, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Former Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno, 56, general manager of the Hamburg-American Steamship line, collapsed on the doorstep of his country home near Hamburg today and died in his wife's arms.



DR. WILHELM CUNO. [Acme Photo.]

They were just about to leave on a vacation ordered by his physician and their automobile was waiting for them, the motor running. Death was caused by a heart attack.

Dr. Cuno was the first German shipping official to attempt to reestablish shipping relations with the United States after the war. He succeeded in completing negotiations with United American lines for a joint trans-Atlantic service.

He became chancellor in November, 1922, and he was the organizer of "passive resistance" against the course of France in the Ruhr valley. Dr. Gustav Stresemann quickly discontinued this policy when he succeeded Dr. Cuno in 1923.

DR. C. A. STEVENS, 61, WAR VET AND SURGEON, IS DEAD

Dr. Charles A. Stevens, 61 years old, surgeon and veteran of the world war, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been ill since Dec. 3.

Dr. Stevens, who lived at 6346 Union avenue, was a member of the surgical staff of the German Deaconess hospital. Graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1899, he served as interne at the Mercy hospital and entered practice in Chicago in 1902.

He was appointed captain in the medical corps of the army in 1917, and was twice promoted, retiring from service in May, 1919, as a lieutenant colonel. During the war he was in charge of the surgical department of the hospital at Beaune, France.

Surviving Dr. Stevens are his wife and one son. Funeral services will be held at 6328 Cottage Grove avenue tomorrow at 4 p. m. Burial will be at Albion, Neb.

Dr. William Christy Dies; Practiced Here Forty Years

Dr. William Christy, 71 years old, 724 East 72d street, a practicing physician in the Woodlawn district for the last 40 years, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage in the Woodlawn hospital, where he was a member of the medical staff. He was a graduate of McGill university at Montreal, Canada. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow in the chapel at 851 East 75th street. The body will be taken to Quebec for burial.

Wm. McLaughlin, 52, Drops Dead in Glen Ellyn Home

William McLaughlin, 52 years old, died of heart disease last night in his home in Glen Ellyn. He was a partner in the Midwest Commissary in Chicago. Surviving Mr. McLaughlin are his widow, Margaret; a brother, and two sisters.

NEAL CALDWELL, FORMER ACTOR AT GOODMAN, IS DEAD

Neal W. Caldwell, former leading man in the Goodman theater here, died Monday night in the French hospital in New York City, according to word received here yesterday. Death was caused by an abscess of the larynx.

NEAL W. CALDWELL.

In 1930 Mr. Caldwell was among the Goodman players who sided with Thomas Wood Stevens, director of the theater, in a dispute with the board of directors over whether art or profits would be the ruling purpose of the theater. Mr. Stevens resigned, maintaining the theater should not be commercialized.

At that time Mr. Caldwell declared that if the Goodman was going to turn commercial he would take his chances on Broadway. During 1931 he appeared on Broadway in the Garrick Gayeties.

No arrangements for funeral services have been announced, but it was understood that the body would be shipped to Champaign, Ill., for interment.

Policeman, Long a Juvenile Officer, Dies Suddenly

Policeman Arthur Burglind, for the last 18 years juvenile officer in the Rogers Park and Summerdale districts, died suddenly of heart disease this morning in his home at 1435 Lunt avenue. He was 58 years old and had been a member of the force for 22 years. He is credited with having put hundreds of wayward boys on the straight path. Surviving Burglind are his widow and two children.

Always Dead Tired?

How sad! Sallow complexion, coated tongue, poor appetite, bad breath, pimply skin and always tired. What's wrong? Chances are you're poisoned by clogged bowels and inactive liver. Take this famous prescription used constantly in place of calomel by men and women for 20 years—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They are harmless yet very effective. A compound of vegetable ingredients. They act easily upon the bowels, help free the system of poison caused by faulty elimination, and tone up liver.

Rosy cheeks, clear eyes and youthful energy make a success of life. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.

Francis J. Kilkenny, aid de camp to Gen. Charles G. Dawes in France during the world war and later his assistant when Gen. Dawes was director of the budget, died yesterday at his home, 2226 Arthur avenue. Mr. Kilkenny was in his early fifties. For many years he had been active in the affairs of Irish-American organizations.

F. J. KILKENNY.

He was the originator of the Irish homegoing movement and president of the association formed to sponsor visits to Ireland by Irish-Americans. Following his association with Gen. Dawes, Mr. Kilkenny entered the investment business in Chicago. He was married in 1921 to Ellen Loretta Ryan of Chicago, who, with two daughters and two sons, survives.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 9:30 a. m. from St. Henry's church, 6404 Ridge boulevard. Burial will be in All Saints cemetery.

GEO. P. EARLING DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—George Peebles Earling, 58, member of one of Milwaukee's most prominent families, died suddenly of heart disease tonight in his home, 1224 North Prospect avenue. He was a son of A. J. Earling, president of the Milwaukee railroad from 1899 to 1917. He was a brother of Mrs. Frederick Thwaits, a social leader here.

Mr. Earling retired from business about two years ago. He maintained an office and staff in the Plankinton building, however, for conducting his personal affairs. He was long active with the Central Coal company of Milwaukee.

Mr. Earling is survived by his widow, Mrs. Winslow B. Van Devanter, Washington, D. C.; two sons, Albert J. Earling and George Peck Earling Jr., his sister, Mrs. Thwaits and a brother, Sherburne M. Earling, Chicago. Mr. Earling's widow is a daughter of the late George R. Peck, noted railroad lawyer.

The hour of the funeral will be decided upon later. Burial will be Thursday at the Forest Home cemetery.

Mr. Earling was a member of the Milwaukee club and the Milwaukee Country club.

H. M. HARRIMAN OF U. S. BANKING FAMILY IS DEAD

LONDONDERRY, Ireland, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Herbert M. Harriman, a member of the American banking family, died today at Bovagh house, Aghadowey, Londonderry county.

He was prominent in New York society, served in the American army during the world war, and shortly after the armistice was married to Miss S. J. Hunter of Aghadowey, who had nursed him through a serious illness. She was his third wife.

Harriman was the youngest son of the late Oliver Harriman and was a brother of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt. In his youth he worked in the west on railroads controlled by the late E. H. Harriman. In 1900 Harriman won the amateur golf championship of America.

An Intelligent Novel Praised as Rare Thing

Isabel Paterson Writes "Never Ask the End."

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Never Ask the End," by Isabel Paterson. [Morrow.] Published today.

HOW rarely a really intelligent novel is offered to readers is brought home to one when such a novel appears. Intelligence is as much a gift as any of the more obvious gifts of genius. And it is a talent rarely visible in literature. Writers oftener have a genius for intricate observation, or for delicate perception of human motives, or for sensing, with the finger tips of their minds beauty, as a blind person knows texture and even color through his seeing fingers.

ISABEL PATERSON

It is no uncommon thing to find a person with the power to tell a tale, to hold one enthralled by the mere spell of narrative. The world has come to associate intelligence with scientific research and integral calculi of the universe, and to take its literature as much of the world takes its music, wholly emotionally. It is against such wholesale acceptance of art as emotion that most of the modern schools of writing have shot out their procupine quills. Their protests are usually so radical that the ordinary reader (himself rarely gifted with real intelligence) gives them up as wholly incomprehensible. But they serve a cleansing mission even if they do not accomplish their end of eliminating emotion from art and substituting intelligence.

However, occasionally a book appears which makes no attempt at elliminating emotion, but which treats emotion intellectually. There is unquestionably a type of person to whom even the most intimate emotional experiences are intellectualized. When the characters in a book are of that type it is wholly out of accord artistically that their intellectual reactions be disregarded. Even in the exactly opposite type of person mental processes race on, accelerated rather than retarded by emotion. A true picture, in the round as opposed to the merely pictorial record of events and emotions, includes those intricate, unrelated, casual thoughts that spin so incongruously through the brain.

Some years ago Ford Madox Ford wrote as intelligent a book about writing novels as I have ever read. It was a book about Joseph Conrad—a sort of biography-memoir of their friendship and their literary collaboration. But in it Mr. Ford recalled the lengthy discussions which he and Conrad had had about conversation in novels. He pointed out that no actual conversation follows the logical sequence which conversations recorded in most novels follow, and that no real record of an exchange of ideas was complete without some indication of their associated mental images. Read "Joseph Conrad," by Ford Madox Ford. It will open your eyes to a great many faults and virtues in works of fictional art. I was convinced by that book that intelligence is a creative art.

Isabel Paterson, after writing historical novels, has turned to a modern background in "Never Ask the End" and she has done that rarest of all novels, a really intelligent one. She has written something of the kind of thing that Mr. Ford and Mr. Conrad debated so brilliantly. She has succeeded in that most difficult of artistic achievements, the intellectual treatment of emotion. She does it in a modification of the Joyce, Richardson, etc., technique, the insertion of thoughts in their casual intrusion into the main stream of thought.

On the surface "Never Ask the End" is the story of three middle aged people, two women and a man, who spend a few days in Paris together, a few days in Antwerp, take a little trip into the country, part as a trio, and go to Paris as a pair. Nothing of any dramatic detonation happens on the surface of their lives. But through the thoughts of each of them, three, six, one doesn't remember how many lives are re-created. Through association of ideas the whole life of each of them is brought to life, the lives of their husbands and the wife of the man, the men and women they have loved, their whole emotional background, and that background is intricately enmeshed with life in a small town in America, life in Chicago, in Pittsburgh, in Seattle.

When the book is finished the pattern is a unit. But there is no time before the end when even one corner of it has been wholly finished and disposed of. There is something vastly stimulating about Mrs. Paterson's well termed "modern" novel.

French Adapt Velvet to Chic Runabout Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Velvet dresses are being worn around Paris this winter as they have never been worn before; that is, for practical runabout wear.

Every woman who is a real woman loves velvet, and every woman who ever wore it knows how fragile this beautiful fabric is. It has always had, too, another barrier to general usefulness, and that is its extremely luxurious effect.

This winter the French velvet makers have contrived to give velvet a new surface, a peasant-like nap, which makes it possible as a material to wear in the morning. They have also made it uncrushable and sturdy. Vionnet has taken this new velvet and fashioned it into simple dresses which the smartest women in Paris are wearing for shopping and running around.

One of these dresses is shown in our sketch today. It has the usual Vionnet skirt of infinite grace, slightly flared from hipline to hem, but never over-wide. The blouse is plain with Vionnet's peasant sleeves that are caught in closely to the wrists without any cuffs. The neckline of this bodice is round and is filled in with two velvet scarfs that are part of the bodice back and that are crossed in front and folded high around the throat.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

ESCAPE.

Prof. Fordney paused at the page in his case-book headed PHILLIP PALMER. While he had been responsible for sending Palmer twice to prison and foiling his last attempt to escape, he recognized the unusual qualities of this remarkable man. His extraordinary capacity for patience, his dauntless courage, keen mind and great resourcefulness had twice enabled him to effect sensational escapes.

What a pity, thought Fordney, that such splendid capabilities should be so futilely employed.

Knowing Palmer's reputation the warden and keepers increased their vigilance and kept an unusually sharp watch on his correspondence. While there are classic instances of prison breaks without outside assistance, most escapes have been brought off with help from those at liberty.

After serving only six months of his twenty year term the warden learned, through a spy, that in some manner Palmer was enlisting outside help in planning a break. The closest examination of his correspondence failed to disclose anything irregular, however. His letters were even submitted to experts but they found no codes being employed. He wasn't using invisible ink and his stationery from regular prison stock, was untampered with. Yet, they knew he was secretly communicating with the outside through his letters. But how?

The warden, greatly perplexed, put the problem to Fordney who told him how Palmer must be doing it. He was right and the escape plot was nipped just in time.

HOW WAS PALMER COMMUNICATING WITH THE OUTSIDE WORLD THROUGH HIS LETTERS?

[See solution on page 27.]

'Lawyer Man' Is Good Story and Well Acted

Al Jolson Is Attraction of Stage Show.

"LAWYER MAN."

Produced by Warner Brothers.
Directed by William Dieterle.
Presented at the Chicago theater.

The Cast.

Anton	William Powell
Olga	Joan Blondell
Barbara	Helen Vinson
Bentley	Alan Dinehart
Issy Levine	Allen Jenkins
Gilmurry	David Landau
Virginia	Claire Dodd
Flo	Sheila Terry
Dr. Gresham	Kenneth Thompson
Spike	Jack La Rue
Kovak	Rockcliffe Fellows
Merritt	Roscoe Karns
Chorus girl	Dorothy Christy
Mrs. Levine	Ann Brody
Guiseppi	Curley Wright
Mogie	Edward McWade

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

You know how sort of funny and end-of-the-worldish it is in the loop on Sundays and holidays? Quiet? No traffic? Everybody home or out of sight? Well, even so was it Monday. UNTIL—you came within about half a block of the motion picture theater district. There things had about their customary, busy appearance. Apparently Chicagoans had decided to take advantage of low prices and good bills and spend their last yuletide holiday sightseeing at the movies.

What with Al Jolson on the stage—NOT mammying, by the way, but singing "Sonny Boy," that could-you-spare-me-a-dime thing and another piece I can't think of at the moment—and Joan Blondell and William Powell teaming on the screen, the Chicago theater was rejoicing and bringing in the sheaves. Mr. Jolson doesn't give all of him as per when it costs $4.40 to see him do it, but he does afford a good, round thirt' fort' fif' cents' worth for which he gets $4.40 worth of applause.

Miss Blondell and Mr. Powell prove intriguing. He's a lawyer. She's the lawyer's secretary. She loves him from the start and he loves her at the finish. As well he may, for——

Though other dames have played him false,
Ne'er, ne'er has his Olga led him a waltz.

[First couplet of 1933. Wish I could promise it would be the last. Can't.]

When the story opens, Anton is the beloved counselor and friend of the East Side. A jury spellbinder, too. His masterly defense of one Levine so intrigues the uptown attorney for the prosecution that Anton is asked to join the Bently firm of high class solicitors.

He does—and runs into such a barbed wire forest of politics and one thing and another as he'd never dreamed of. . . .

He is "framed" and indicted. How he works his way back to the respect of his fellow men and himself makes an interesting screen chronicle. And right by Anton's side all the way is the pert, loyal little secretary who is so often compelled to step aside for some other blonde—for Anton has just no sense at all where women are concerned, until—well—until . . .!

Joan Blondell—she has the proudest little head in films, I think—does her usual snappy, sympathetic, believable work. Mr. Powell is pleasing, though he's had rôles which I though suited him better. Supporting players were well chosen and the film is nicely staged and directed.

If you're not paging a world beater, but just yoo-hooing for a nice, engaging little program number, "Lawyer Man's" the piece to date up.

New Operetta Company Will Open Jan. 15

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Chicago Operetta company will make its debut at the Civic Opera house Sunday night, Jan. 15, with a revival of Reginald de Koven's and Harry B. Smith's famous work of the late 1890s, "Robin Hood." This piece has a respected place in the repertory of light operas of American authorship; it had an enormous vogue when first staged and has been frequently revived. Its last performance in Chicago dates back to the war period.

Plans for the formation of the Chicago Operetta company were announced last fall by Daniel Erwin Russell, who was for twelve years general manager of the St. Louis Municipal Opera company. He aims at lyric entertainment on a high musical plane at popular prices.

A chorus of eighty is being recruited from Chicago singers and dancers. An orchestra of symphonic size is now in rehearsal. The principals will form a stock company, prepared for weekly changes of bill, but the leading rôles in each production will be assigned to operetta players of national reputation who have already been identified with the characters.

The cast for "Robin Hood" will be announced later in the week.

Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne and Noel Coward are now giving the first performances of the latter's new comedy, "Design for Living," in Cleveland, O. Mr. Coward defines his play as the story of "three persons who love each other very much." The Cleveland Plain Dealer calls the piece "an ingenious, bold and witty play, sometimes slow, over-talkative and dramatically ineffective, but at its top the best Coward has ever done."

Katharine Cornell's production of "Lucrece," translated from the French by Thornton Wilder, appears to be rated as unsatisfactory in New York, in spite of its star's gifts and personal appeal. It will probably be withdrawn from performance two weeks hence. The text of the play will be published this month.

Add Four Rare Prints to Art Institute List

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Four rare prints have recently been added to the print department of the Art institute. They consist of two copper plate engravings and two woodcuts purchased from the John H. Wrenn fund. One of the engravings is by an anonymous artist who is recognized by the symbol on his plates, supposed to have been a weaver's shuttle. He is called "The Master of the Navette," or "Master I. A. of Zwoll," and lived at the end of the fifteenth century. His engraving is "Christ on the Cross Between Two Thieves."

The other copper engraving is "The Kermess of St. George's Day" by Hieronymus Cock, and it represents a gay scene at a country festival, where all sorts of capers are being cut by the hilarious groups who have gathered for the celebration. The two woodcuts are by Holbein and Dürer. Holbein's "The Duchess" is one of his famous series entitled "The Dance of Death." This particular print is extremely effective. The Dürer woodcut is called "The Schoolmaster"; it was cut in 1510 and is one of three broadsides the artist made that year.

Two interesting exhibitions opened with the new year in the large print department galleries at the museum. One is a brilliant showing of Japanese Surimono, attractive cards printed for special occasions, from the Clarence Buckingham collection. The other is of etchings and lithographs by James McNeill Whistler.

Leaving City

Not a wampus star, just a Chicago debutante, Miss Betty Whatley, who photographs "like a million dollars." Chicago friends have been saying good-by to Miss Whatley, for she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seaborn T. Whatley of 229 Lake Shore drive, are leaving on Friday for a month's trip to Florida and Havana, and shortly after their return to Chicago the family will move to Hartford, Conn.

The Whatleys moved to Chicago from the south just a few years ago, but they have made many friends here, and Miss Whatley has been a popular figure among the younger set. She was introduced to society at a tea last fall. Her brother, Seaborn Whatley Jr., is to leave this week for Harrisburg academy.

Poet Laureate of England in U. S. for Visit

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—John Masefield, poet laureate of England, arrived today with Mrs. Masefield on the Cunard liner Mauretania, and to set the record straight once and for all told the story of his employment in a saloon here on his first visit forty years ago as a boy of 16.

"I was in New York and a boy at the time," Mr. Masefield said. "I had tried working on a farm in up state New York, but the work was not conducive to writing. I wanted to write and decided to come on to New York. It was hard getting a job. One day I met Luke O'Connor, whom I had met once or twice before. He said, 'Do you want a good job?' and I said, 'I do.' Then he said, 'Well, go over to John Wright's and get a hair cut and then come back and see me.' I did this and went back.

"The job was washing glasses and fetching up bottles from the cellar, polishing the brass and keeping things tidy, bringing drinks to people living in the hotel rooms above. I was never a bartender. There was nothing so splendid as that.

"My main object at that time was to become a writer. It was afterwards, when I began working in the carpet factory at Yonkers, that I began writing, though there were times when my mind went toward medicine. I had always liked medicine and thought I'd like to follow it."

The poet and Mrs. Masefield will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont for some days and then will go to Chandler, Ariz. Mr. Masefield plans to spend ten weeks in America on this, his fifth visit here, and will give readings from his poems.

Plan Women's Congress for Fair at Tea Friday

Mrs. Gertrude Hoffman will be the hostess for a tea musical at the Palmer house on Friday afternoon in connection with the women's congress of A Century of Progress. Invitations have been issued to presidents of scores of women's clubs intending to participate, and plans for the congress, under auspices of the National Council of Women, will be discussed. Wadeeha Atiyeh, Syrian soprano who made her Chicago début this fall, will give a program of Arabic folk songs.

Public School Art Society.

In a little note asking a mention of the fact that the Walter S. Brewsters' residence at 2704 Lake View avenue is to be opened for the benefit of the Chicago Public School Art society later this month Mrs. Brewster says: "I think my husband is very good to let me ruin three days of his home life in this way," and I think she is right.

In fact, I think they're both very good to be willing to open their charming home in this manner and I know they wouldn't do it for anything in which they were a mite less interested than they are in the Chicago Public School Art society.

Mrs. Brewster has been president of it for years and it is something to which she devotes much time out of her busy life. The public has a great treat in store when it visits the house on Jan. 20, 21, or 22, for the Brewsters' collection of modern paintings is so well known that people come from all over the world to see the pictures, and the house itself is one of the most attractive in the city. It was built by David Adler for Abram Poole and, as Mrs. Brewster says in her note, "as I had nothing to do with the plan I can say without conceit that it is a lovely house and that the pictures

Junior League Opens New Year with Work for Enchanted Island

Class Held for Speakers Who Will Explain Children's Feature of A Century of Progress.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Junior league began the new year yesterday morning by getting to work at the business of publicizing the Enchanted Island which is to be a glorified playground for children at A Century of Progress.

After the exposition opens next summer the league's part in the Enchanted Island will be limited to the production of children's plays, but between now and the first of June its members will be busy telling parents and children why every youngster should be taken to see the marvels of the island.

Before the holidays a program for publicity was mapped out and among other things the league pledged itself to send a speaker to every school in Chicago and to every Parent-Teacher association. Nine of the league's best speakers took a short course of instruction and started out visiting the schools. They were well received everywhere and now these nine girls are preparing other league members to go out and make the same sort of talks.

The first of three classes in public speaking was held yesterday morning and two more will be held tomorrow and Friday. About 80 members attended the class yesterday, so Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon, chairman of the league speakers' bureau, is not worrying any more about getting volunteers to help out.

The young women who have been visiting the schools and who now are instructing their fellow members are Miss Bentrice Borland, who has become known as an accomplished talker since she started a short while ago to give lectures accompanying the movies she and her sister, Harriet, took on their trip around the world; Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams, a soft voiced, appealing speaker; Mrs. Stanley Morrill, who had plenty of experience in speech making when she was president of the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids; Mrs. Willard N. Boyden, who's been at home on the speakers' platform ever since she began serving on Junior league committees several years ago; Miss Marjorie Kimball, a newcomer to Chicago and a former president of the Junior league of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Gordon Laing, a former director of the league Children's theater; and Mrs. J. Waller Marshall, Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr., and Mrs. Carleton Scribner, all of whom have played prominent parts in the league's plays.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Around the holiday season many electrical additions are frequently made to a house and without the home owner's knowledge some of these additions to the electrical system may not meet the regulations of the local building bureau or of the National Electric code. It is a good plan to employ an electrician to go over the entire system to make sure that it is in compliance with insurance requirements—and the home owner's safety. If any improvements are necessary don't delay. Action means your own protection.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four masted ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a south sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, an unemployed French chauffeur named Raoul, Roberta Milbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed, and Peter was his trustee employed Benny, a cook, hired up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. Henery makes profitable trades at Cape Town, Sydney, Australia, and Japan. Then the ship sails to the island where the sunken treasure craft is located. Capt. Hiram Adam and Peter take turns diving for the oysters. They have them all aboard when they are beset by a ruffianly crew of a strange yacht, headed by Capt. Derring, who turns out to be Ladybird's husband and aware of the sunken treasure. He demands the oysters and diving rig. Peter, knowing the oysters contain no pearls and that the girls must be protected, advises giving them up, which Roberta interprets as yellowness. Capt. Hiram agrees with Peter. Derring boards the four master and orders his yacht to tow it out to sea, where the shell is to be transferred.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

TRAPPED.

The big four master towed along slowly and easily. Capt. Hiram's heart began to lift as it always did on getting out to sea again. He disliked lying in any port, even a home one. Their sojourn in the hot, lonely lagoon had not only been one of wearing toil but also of nervous tension. He now told himself that he was a fool to be irked at getting out by the slight value of a diving rig and a ton or two of old pearl shell.

There was actually more of a swell running than he had though.. Still, by keeping head on to it the yacht would have to be mere punk to suffer damage.

It did not matter. He had made his bargain and would stick to it. He wanted never to put on diving armor again. He could not see how they could have any further use for it.

The first of the breeze was already ruffling the water. When they had got a mile out Capt. Hiram ordered sail to be made. The donkey was started and the mizzen halyards led to the drum. The mainsail was next hoisted. Adam, Peter, Raoul, and Benny made easy work of it. The breeze coming on the port bow, the sheets were trimmed and the towing eased. They could already clear the island, but Capt. Hiram wanted more of a windward berth.

They brought out some of their extra barrels of water, three hundred gallons of it that they could spare without deprivation. Then, judging the offing to be enough, for Derring had not given any signs of begrudging them full measure in their tow, Capt. Hiram said:

"As you say," Derring answered indifferently.

He went forward to signal the yacht.

The Abigail was forereaching slowly in the light breeze under the close hauled main and mizzen sails. Out here in the deep water the swell, though big, was so long that the Abigail merely rose and fell without motion. Capt. Hiram said to Derring: "You've got a bigger boat. Better send her alongside to load the shell."

Derring gave the order to bring the larger of his small boats alongside. This was something between a small whaleboat and a sea skiff.

Capt. Hiram called Raoul and Peter aft. The hoist was manned, the shell shoveled into the hamper, and lowered into the pearler's boat, where it was dumped.

Several trips were needed to tranship the contents of the bin. Derring walked over to inspect the last of it.

He said ironically to Capt. Hiram, "Kindly accept my apologies. I see it all runs the same."

Capt. Hiram did not answer. As the last load of shell was sculled over to the pearler he said to Peter:

"Drop this diving gear into their dinghy." This small boat had been towing at the foot of the sea ladder since Derring had come over in her and his sailor was still aboard her.

A strap was passed round the air pump, which was swung up and over the side. The armor and hoses were lowered afterward when the native rowed over to the pearler. The larger boat that had been emptied of shell returned alongside the Abigail.

"Hurry up now with those water casks," Capt. Hiram called.

The Abigail was still forging slowly ahead with barely steerage way. Capt. Hiram went aft and took the wheel from Ladybird. "Get inside," he said to her.

"What for?"

"Do as I say."

She loosed her hold on the wheel and started for the cabin house, then turned. "Why don't you order Roger back aboard his boat?"

"He's safer here until we get his water over. I'll send him with the last load. Go inside."

The Abigail's men were lowering the water casks. Derring had remained leaning on the rail at the head of the ladder. His attitude was that of a man thoroughly disgusted by the way things had turned out.

Capt. Hiram saw that the pearler was slowly breasting over toward the Abigail. This might have been through careless handling or it might have been through design. He said sharply to Derring:

"Tell your vessel to keep off."

There was no question of the man's bold, contemptuous daring. He was alone aboard the schooner and unarmed. There was nothing to prevent his being shot down for disobedience of a captain's order. But Derring knew that he would not be shot down. He had correctly sized up his man. He did not believe that Capt. Hiram had ever killed a man or could be brought to kill one except in active self-defense.

He was right. Not only had Capt. Hiram never killed a man but he had very rarely even struck a man. Such need seldom arose aboard the vessels he had sailed and with such hands as he had selected.

Then suddenly Capt. Hiram had one of those flashes of intuition that come to men who live in contact with elemental things and lacking which they have often lost their lives, lost their right of leadership. It became as clear to him as if some warning voice had shouted "You're trapped. They're going to fire on you."

The crew of the pearler, five of them, were all on deck, but did not appear to be armed. Capt. Hiram knew that their weapons were not far away.

The situation at this moment was of a sort that might pass with no more friction or suddenly fulminate violently. It was now less a stalemate than that of waiting for the pearler's next move. With Derring aboard as a tacit hostage and one of the big half castes alongside in the sea skiff, Capt. Hiram did not look for any overt move. That might or might not come after Derring had gone back aboard, but it did not seem likely. There was not enough to be gained by such an attempt. Derring's partners were not interested in Derring's wife.

BY MARY MEADE.

"And mother, Aunt Helen's chickens aren't anything but drumsticks!"

At least, such was the case according to a small friend of mine who recently burst in upon her family with the above bit of startling news. For Margery had run across a new boon to the hostess which many quite grownup food hounds haven't discovered yet—that it is no longer necessary to buy whole chickens if your particular family has a weakness only for drumsticks, thighs or breasts.

In any number of cities, including Chicago, many progressive meat dealers are today selling roasting chickens in parts, and Madame may now select her chicken cuts just as she has long selected her pork, beef, and mutton pieces—the kind determined by the purpose for which they are to be used.

Baked chicken drumsticks, for instance, flanked by baked potatoes, buttered string beans, a crisp cabbage and pepper salad, and baked apples stuffed with raisins, nuts and chopped orange peel—there you have an epic of tastiness and at the same time you have rung in economy and a minimum of effort in the preparation.

BAKED DRUMSTICKS.

Drumsticks, thighs or breasts may be cooked in this way, or an assortment may be cooked together.

Dip each piece in sweet milk, then dredge thoroughly with flour or cornmeal to which a little salt has been added. Melt four tablespoons of fat in a metal handled heavy skillet or a roasting pan, place the pieces in the hot fat, and cook uncovered in a hot oven [450 degrees F.] for fifteen minutes. At the end of this time, add one-fourth cup boiling water, cover the pan, and turn the heat down to 300 to 350 degrees [slow oven]. Cook about one hour or until tender.

Another newish trick with chicken has proved a money saver for many couples as well as for larger families who don't desire to eat their bird all at one sitting. For this, instead of buying chicken sections, purchase the whole bird, but have the dealer cut it up for you just as he would cut up a stewing chicken. Or if you prefer this may be done in your own kitchen with the help of a sharp knife and some knowledge of chicken anatomy. Cook only those portions of the bird which you wish to serve at once, put the other portions into the freezing tray in your refrigerator, and freeze solid. They may be kept this way for a week, or even two, and are just as delicious as ever when thawed for use. Then when you find the family again eager for chicken wings, cornmeal mush and gravy, you have the makings on hand.

Still better is the chance this home freezing gives us for adopting the hotel chefs' theory of using the leftovers before they become leftovers. A chicken bought on Tuesday may supply soup and croquettes from the wings, neck and the rest of the carcass several days before Sunday arrives with its treat of roasted drumsticks, thighs, and breast which have been all this time in the freezing trays.

And now for a final Sunday treat explained to me by a friend who knows all about the tricks which make chickens the last word in aristocratic eating. It's a variation of the old stew method—but what a change!

CASSEROLED CHICKEN.

2 teaspoons salt.
¼ cup flour.
Dash of pepper.
4 tablespoons fat.
2 cups chopped celery.
1 cup liquid from cooked giblets.
2 cups sweet milk
1 cup evaporated [unsweetened] milk.
2-3 cup seedless raisins.
6 medium sized carrots, cleaned.
5 potatoes.
1 cup [1 can] mushrooms.

Prepare the chicken as for frying, parboiling the giblets for twenty minutes. Save the giblet water. While the giblets are cooking, rub the pieces of chicken with salt and pepper and then roll in flour. Drop into the fat which is sizzling in a frying pan, and let brown lightly. Place the pieces in a baking dish together with the remaining fat, and add the celery, giblets, milk, evaporated milk, and the liquid from the giblets. Bake in a moderate oven [300 to 330 degrees F.]. About an hour before serving, add the potatoes, mushrooms, raisins [previously washed], and the carrots, and continue baking until the potatoes prick tender. Allow about two and one-half hours for the total baking, depending upon the tenderness of the chicken.

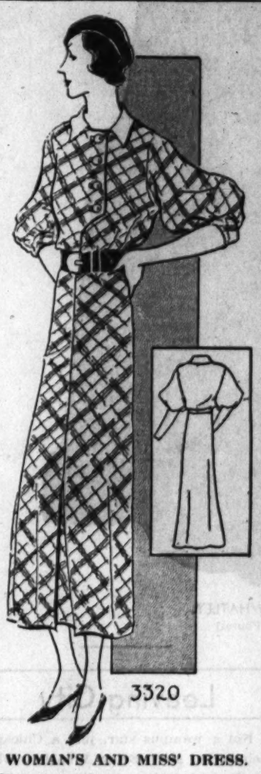
Smartly Simple Dress Will Give Lots of Wear



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Here is a simple sports type dress as smart as it can be, with the newest sleeves that widen towards the elbow and the bodice that buttons to the neckline. An antique gold wool crepe with brown crêpe, on a plaided woolen in tones of gray from pale to mouse gray, with the suede belt in fuchsia, are two pleasing suggestions.

The pattern, No. 3320, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Marjorie, aged 4, had got her face besmeared with mud while playing. She came running in, "Mother will you please wash my face?"

"With pleasure, dear," answered the mother.

"No, not with pleasure, with water," pouted Marjorie. C. H. B.

Little Mary, aged 4, was looking over her gifts from Santa Claus on Christmas morning. After a few minutes' silence she piped up, "I didn't get so many things from Santa this time, but I didn't expect much, because all the Santa Clauses I saw this year were much thinner." M. B. M.

look very well in their setting." They do, and there undoubtedly will be crowds of persons anxious to visit it and see the pictures on those three days from 11 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. John Alden Spoor of 1526 State parkway is to give a luncheon today at the Casino for Miss Marjorie Goodman and Miss Nancy Traylor. The guests, all of them debutantes, will all go to a matinée after luncheon. Mrs. Spoor is recovering from an attack of the grip and if she isn't well enough to be out today she will have a chaperon for her young guests in her place.

Musical at Fairbanks' Home.

The smart place to be on Sunday evening, Jan. 15, will be at the Kellogg Fairbanks' hospitable home on North State parkway, for Mrs. Fairbank and a group of eight of her friends have aranged a musical for that evening at which the artist will be the Fairbanks' great friend, Rudolph Reuter.

The committee in charge hopes to have a capacity audience to hear Mr. Reuter play and practically every one on the committee will entertain at dinner before the musical, which will start at 9 o'clock. Assisting Mrs. Fairbank are Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. William A. Nitze, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair, Mrs. Otto Schmidt and Mrs. Frederic C. Upham.

Will Hartwell Lyford and Mrs. Saidee D. MacComas announce their marriage on Saturday, Dec. 31, in Chicago. They will be at home after Feb. 1 at 222 East Chestnut street. The wedding took place at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian church, the Rev. Asa Ferry officiating. Only the members of the immediate families were present. The bride is the widow of Eugene MacComas, who was the first Mrs. Lyford's brother. Mr. Lyford is a prominent railroad man and he and his bride have gone south in his private car on their honeymoon.

The engagement of Miss Jane Black, daughter of Dean Arthur D. Black of Northwestern university and Mrs. Black, to Gerald Ray Van Doren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Newton Van Doren of Evanston, was announced at a tea on New Year's day at the Blacks' residence, 1250 Asbury avenue. Young Mr. Van Doren is a senior in the Northwestern University law school.

Jane Carey Is Engaged.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Carey of Cedar Rapids, Ia., of the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Gordon De Lay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold De Lay of 878 Oak street, Winnetka. Miss Carey is a graduate of the Emma Willard school and of Vassar college, and Mr. De Lay is a Wabash man.

The president and directors of the Arts club announce a tea to open two exhibitions on Friday from 4 to 6 o'clock. The exhibitions are paintings by Claude Monet and the Isabel Carleton Wilde collection of early American folk painting. In the same envelope is a card announcing an illustrated lecture by Walter Pach on "An Evolving View of Modern Art," for next Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

Miss Audrey Campbell, who went to Aiken to spend the holidays with her aunt, Mrs. Joseph Leiter, returned to Chicago yesterday.

The Howell Howards, who arrived from abroad in time to help their three little ones hang up their stockings on Christmas eve at the residence of their grandmother, Mrs. Edward Hines, with whom the children were while their parents were away, have returned to their home in Dayton. They will go to Aiken for the rest of the winter on Feb. 1 and Mrs. Hines plans to be with them there for part of the season.

Mrs. Livingston Fairbank has left for New York, and her daughter, Miss Jane Boyce, for whose debut Mrs. Fairbank came from Paris in the autumn, has her grandmother, Mrs. William D. Boyce, chaperoning her at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Mrs. Boyce and Jane will leave fairly soon for California.

Wallers Rent Home in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr. have rented their Palm Beach house and do not intend to go south this winter. Mrs. Waller may go to Palm Beach in the spring to spend the Easter school vacation with her son, William Waller III.

Mrs. Lewis Henry Risser and her daughter, Miss Jean Risser, of Hoopeston, Ill., have arrived at the Drake hotel and are to remain for several weeks. Miss Risser has just returned from the Risser school in Rome, which is conducted by her aunt. She has numerous friends in Chicago among the girls who attended the same academy.

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson is expected to return tomorrow from a brief trip to New York.

The marriage of Miss Mary Lee Logan, daughter of Mrs. Howard Frank Noble of Shreveport, La., and the late Joshua Lockwood Logan of El Paso and Texarkana, Tex., to Charles Crane Leatherbee, son of Mrs. Frances A. Crane of New York and Robert W. Leatherbee of Hatchville, Mass., took place yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas' church in New York. The Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, rector of the church, performed the ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan of Baltimore, Md.

The bride was escorted by her stepfather, Col. Howard Frank Noble, who gave her in marriage. Miss Melissa Wadley of Indianapolis was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Bruce Crane of Westover, Va., and Katherine Leatherbee of West Newton, Mass., cousins of the bridegroom; Suzanne Elliott of Lafayette, Ind.; Jane Herrman of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Sylvia Smith of East Orange, N. J., and Anais Kalterborn of Brooklyn. Robert Crane Leatherbee of New York and Woods Hole, Mass., was best man for his brother.

"A reception for members of the immediate families and a few close friends at the home of the bridegroom's grandparents, former United States minister to China and Mrs. Charles R. Crane at 655 Park avenue, followed the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to the West Indies Mr. Leatherbee and his bride will live in New York and Woods Hole, Mass.

Stylish Belts Get Attention of Wise Buyers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The thrills of "just shopping around" are daily thrills . . . just now you may wander around with a rather skeptical manner, sort of daring people to display appetizing new things that will cause you to cheer, but you'll see plenty of exciting new things even though you belong to the doubters.

You can't help but stumble into the belt collections . . . not so long ago a belt was a belt and no more, usually an affair of fabric or leather that merely crossed the anatomical equator without any fuss or frenzy . . . but now the waistlines are the eyelines of all spectators and sister shoppers.

Belts are decorative, practical, startling, interesting, and unusual . . . every frock and gown in your wardrobe is belted . . . most of them go in for detachable belts, so that you may tax all your flair for the unusual by substituting others to change the entire appearance of the dress.

Metal belts in the newest collections are ruddy with copper metals; some of the clinking models go in for two or three metals, silver, copper, and gold or brass. Lots of them are intricate combinations of circles, squares, four or five inches of mesh or small links, and then more hooks and gadgets to make up the trick harness to reach around the center of a woolen frock or suit.

New yarn belts are going gay . . . vividly colored yarns have been woven or braided together. All the colors imaginable have been used in combination, and the result—some of the most stunning belts for sports clothes and knitted dresses that any shopper could rave about.

Cord in various colors is hitched to metal clasps and knotted into rings for good looking metal contrast for daytime clothes. Huge dressmaker hooks and eyes, glorified with glittering rows of brilliants, hold black and colored velvet belts together around the slender waistlines of dull silk and velvet dresses.

You are going to see plenty of patent leather belts this coming new season—wide, wide affairs—and you will wear them with practically any and every dress you have.

Hauntingly lovely candy striped pastel and organdy dance frocks were featured in one collection and wide patent leather belts covered a great portion of the slender waist. Some of the new patent leather evening belts: that is, the decorative patent belts that are crushed around filmy evening gowns without buckles, are tied carelessly but effectively with two long perky ends . . . the every narrow patent leather belts that are scarcely a half inch wide are tied just as casually around the tailored tweeds and suits that the spring shopper will slide into as soon as possible.

Belts can be initialed. You can find fat squatty letters for a moderate sum. You can discover the lower case letters that are disconcertingly different and a bit difficult to read after the plain capitals that have deluged the handbag collections, or you can be very ladylike and feminine with graceful script letters . . . the best thing about the initialing frenzy is the fact that you can change them about as easily as you change your mind . . . lead them a merry life from handbag to belt and back to bag or baggage again. And, of course, you will find plenty of copper, gold, chromium or silver metal letters, or combinations of all four, that will do grand things for dull belts or handbags.

WEDDING

Mrs. Owen Wells Agee of St. Joseph, Mo., announces the marriage on Dec. 26 of her daughter, Ruth, to M. Lewis Goodkind Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Goodkind of 230 East Delaware place. Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt to Write 40,000 Word Book Before March

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been one of the most active women in the country since her husband was elected President, is going to write a 40,000 word book between now and the March inauguration. Frederick A. Stokes company, publishers, announced tonight that the title will be "It's Up to the Women;" that the subject matter "deals with the American woman of today, her position in the nation and what she can do in a practical way to bring about better conditions;" and that "there will be no collaborator; every word will be written by Mrs. Roosevelt herself."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Girl's Reliance on Self Puzzles HerStepmother

Youngster Resents Being Treated Like Doll.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Did you ever watch little girls play with dolls? Some play so differently from others. One little girl will dress and undress her dolls, wash their faces, brush their hair and curl it over her finger and constantly do things for them. Another little girl will make them play games, have them carry on conversations, take journeys, go to parties, and so on.

A recent letter from a young stepmother sounded just like a puzzled little girl whose dolls rose up and refused her ministrations! This young wife has never had a child and she writes:

"My new little daughter is so difficult for me to handle. She won't let me do things for her. I want to dress her and give her her bath and keep her lovely hair washed and brushed and curled over my finger. But she pulls away. She is most independent and wants to do things herself. She always did with her grandma and she wants to keep on. What shall I do?"

Let her, of course. She doesn't want to be your little doll. And while I understand your yearning to do things for her, to lavish your time and attention on her, she can't understand it and doesn't want it. It is better for her to be self-reliant and it is something you will be glad of later on when you want her to stand on her own feet.

As a rule an only child is used to having to much done for her and we have consciously to lead her to do things for herself. This young mother is fortunate in not having this trouble to hurdle.

What, then, shall she do? She must expres her desire to "do" for her little stepdaughter in another way. She must study her with as much care as she studies the personality and interests of her husband. For she has not had the opportunity to gain her knowledge of the child day by day for years as a mother has who has borne her child. She must listen with real interest to her conversation and share her successes in play and let her help about the house. There's scarcely anything that brings people of any age closer than doing things together. And a certainty of responsiveness.

Sometimes just a little reading will give a person a picture of childhood that is helpful. There are suggestions of this sort in both our leaflets on child management, one called the "Brief Child Management List" and the other called the "Longer Child Management List." Either will be sent on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope.

"Limp Doll" Exercise

Beauty Secret of Importance: Learn to Relax

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Here's something we must pause in this series to call your attention to. It is learning to relax. If there's one thing the majority of our women do not know how to do it is to relax.

The consequence is not only a strained, anxious looking face—but a strained, tight muscled body with stiffish, graceless movements. Life today provides occasion enough for nervous tension, I know. But all the more reason for battling it. No matter what the trouble being suffered, it is better met with composure. When you're feeling irritable or snappish do the "limp doll" act. This is an energy saver and it puts you in better control of yourself.

Also, it teaches you the habit of relaxing at other intervals during the day. Try it next time the nerves are getting you, just by way of demonstrating its value. Or, when you're up against a critical decision. Or, when you're trying to get your wits together. Or, better still, don't wait for occasions of emotional strain. Practice it daily.

The idea is to go as limp of mind and body as you can. Don't have a thought in your head. Then, stand with feet apart and let the body drop forward from the waist. Let every muscle be relaxed utterly—neck, shoulders, arms, back, fingers, wrists. Now, amble around the room, going slowly, your only concern not to knock over any furniture as you pursue your ambling gait.

Get the relaxing habit so perfected that you can "turn off the tension switch" at any moment of the day. Just before you eat, especially. During a business morning. During a hectic household morning. When you're riding. Anytime and every time. It's not only going to save your face for you, but it's all in the game of creating or recreating a lovelier figure for you. For you know as well as I do that there is no grace of movement or gesture without a relaxed feeling behind it.

USE THE

NEW QUICK RELIEF FOR COLDS

The quickest way to break a cold is to start fighting it at once. With some people the warning sign is sneezing, with others it is a sore throat, and still others just feel depressed with a congested feeling in the head and throat. Whatever the sign, Mistol now offers you the 2-way treatment that will help you break these colds before more serious conditions result.

1 Drop Mistol in Your Nose Night and Morning

The first step in the Mistol 2-way treatment is to put a few drops of Mistol in your nose when you get up in the morning and before you go to bed at night, and if convenient, during the day. See how quickly the burning, tickling sensation disappears. The inflamed membranes respond at once to the healing oils in Mistol, and you can breathe freely. The handy dropper makes Mistol easy to use.

2 Put New Essence of Mistol on Your Handkerchief and Pillow

The second step is to use the new Essence of Mistol. Put a few drops on your handkerchief and breathe in its healing vapors all day long. At night put a few drops on your pillow and you will get the needed relief for restful sleep. Essence of Mistol contains the same healing ingredients as Mistol but in a form that enables you to obtain its full benefit while you work and while you sleep.

Girl, 27, Doesn't Like Her Place on the Shelf

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She's 27 now. And wishes she hadn't been so high-handed with the marriage offers that used to come her way. For the last year no one has volunteered to provide in the good old marriage way. Her job isn't what it used to be when she turned down offers in order to be free, and enjoy herself for a few more years. Now, she'd be happy with one good marriage prospect—but it doesn't appear.

She has joined a couple of clubs—but the younger girl rivalry is too keen. Up to 25 the world was her apple. It was hers to pick and choose from a number of suitors. During her twenty-sixth year the writing began to appear on the wall. In her twenty-seventh no one but an illiterate sort of foreigner whose speech she can hardly make out is left of her former popular glory.

"I feel now I would like to meet some one nice and settle down," she cries.

Well, 27 is not such a terribly advanced age today for marriage. Time was when 25 was the deadline for romance. Even yet it is true, according to some well thought out statistics, that up to 25 is love's most fruitful period. Each year after that the marriage chances become fewer 'n fewer.

While there's no use grieving over lost opportunities, it might not be out of place to remark that there are no doubt a number of young women in the same boat with "Kit." Girls who wished they'd married when they had the chance. Today their reduced pay envelopes or no pay envelop at all, make mockery of yesterday's independence and marriage postponement. It's a lot nicer to share reduced circumstances, even, than to suffer one's own, alone.

BUT—there's some comfort in the thought that that foolish bubble of "independent" living is blown up. And with it blew up many crazy ideas women had about their place in the sun.

COSGRAVE SEEKS ELECTION ALLY TO BEAT DE VALERA

Free State Plunges Into 3 Week Campaign.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 3.—President de Valera's sudden dissolution of the dail eireann and his call for a general election on Jan. 24 staggered the Free State public today.

While the Labor party's threat to withdraw its support of the government in the dail over the question of salary cuts for civil servants undoubtedly had something to do with De Valera's decision, it is believed that he was frightened by Lord Mayor Byrne's scheme to organize all anti-government groups in one big movement. Also, a series of other difficulties which have been accumulating made it impossible for him to proceed without an indorsement by the people.

All party headquarters were busy tonight preparing to launch the campaign, which promises to be a whirlwind affair.

Cosgrave Seeks Allies.

Frank McDermott's Farmers' party is still the biggest question mark in the approaching election. Its idea is to maintain complete independence of the other parties, but a conference took place today between former President William T. Cosgrave and MacDermott, out of which, it is believed, will develop a working arrangement as to the pooling of votes.

Cosgrave, in a statement tonight at a meeting of supporters, said:

"The Fianna Fail [De Valera party] is on the run for shirking its responsibilities in negotiations with the British on land annuities, the budget and the tariff muddle. They are flying also from the idea of a republic."

Cosgrave said his party is prepared. He hoped that the election will be conducted properly and temperately. He declared the belief that the case for financial revision with Britain is strong and if presented properly will obtain an honorable advantage with peace and insure markets which will lead ultimately to a united Ireland as against De Valera's "pernicious policy." Cosgrave expressed thanks that the opportunity has now arrived to close "a black chapter in Irish history."

Await Republican Army's Stand.

The candidates in the coming election must be nominated next Wednesday. The attitude of the Irish republican army is important, but as yet it has issued no statement. Intimidation of the voters is feared by some from this source and from other bodies which were suppressed by Cosgrave's safety act during his tenure of office, but the "white" army, recently formed under the auspices of Cosgrave, promises to obtain freedom in voting and freedom of speech for all parties. Commandant Cronin, leader of the white army, will probably be Cosgrave's candidate for East Cork.

Political observers believe the Labor party will be altogether wiped out, as it was already in the process of disintegration. Labor managers, however, claim the party is financially stronger than either of the big parties and they propose to run as many candidates as in the last election.

Fire Attorney to Open Inquiry Into 2 Deaths

The inquest yesterday into the deaths of John Keenan, 51 years old, and his wife, Elizabeth, 50, who were trapped by flames and burned to death Monday in their fourth story apartment in an old building at 4018 Drexel boulevard, was continued until tomorrow. The continuance was granted to permit an investigation of the building by the fire attorney.

DELIVER RUSSIA FROM REDS! GRAND DUKE APPEALS TO ARMY

PARIS, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Grand Duke Cyril, claimant to the throne of the czars, has issued an appeal to the soviet army and navy to stand ready to deliver Russia from the communists which, he said, could be accomplished only with their aid.

"The national conscience gaining strength in Russia is a sign of early deliverance," his appeal read. "National sentiment has deeply penetrated the army and navy which still bear the name of Reds. They form the sole Russian force able to save Russia from Communist invasions, disintegration, and oppression.

"Russian soldiers, I address you! Your power is the guarantee of the inviolability and security of the Russian state.

"When by the mercy of God, in agreement with the people, you put an end to communist despotism, the hour of the Russian state's rebirth will sound and it will be incumbent upon you then to preserve your ranks from disintegration and to defend the unity of the empire and the free development of the people who compose it."

Judge Kerner Returns to His Work in Court

Judge Otto Kerner, Illinois attorney general elect, returned to work yesterday in the Appellate court after an illness of four days. He became ill in his chambers last Friday and was taken to the West Suburban hospital. He left there Sunday after an examination revealed that an operation would not be necessary.

CYPRIOTE LEADER SHOT IN LONDON MURDER MYSTERY

Slain Doctor Was Friend of England.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Hatred aroused either through political intrigues or a vendetta among Cypriotes in London resulted in the killing of Dr. Angelos Zemenides early today. Zemenides was shot to death after a quarrel with an assailant whose identity tonight was giving Scotland Yard its biggest murder mystery in months.

Zemenides was the president of the Cypriote brotherhood of London and active in the British colony's politics. He subsisted by teaching languages and acting as court interpreter. He received a death threat a year ago while participating in the trial of a young compatriot who was later hanged for murder.

Two Shots Fired.

These facts are all the police possess in their hunt to capture the murderer, except a meager description of a man who was seen near Zemenides' rooming house late last night. At midnight roomers heard Zemenides quarreling in a foreign language. Later two shots were fired.

Supt. Cornish of Scotland Yard's "big five" took over the case and today began probing for clews in the Soho quarter, which is a haunt for Greeks and Cypriotes. Many were rounded up for questioning, but the man the police are hunting eluded them.

Had Many Enemies.

"He had many enemies and knew it," a friend of Zemenides said. "He was cautious in political matters, but was a good friend of England as far as Cyprus was concerned. He had been erroneously suspected of being in the pay of the British government. Some of his letters from Cyprus were censored by authorities there after the recent disturbances."

Zemenides represented the Cypriote colony here when Sir Ronald Storrs, then governor of the islands, left London last year after a visit. A mob later burned down the governor's mansion in Cyprus during the agitation for a union between Cyprus and Greece.

WOMAN'S SUIT ASKING $500,000 SET FOR JAN. 11

Judge Paul McWilliams in the superior court yesterday set Jan. 11 for a hearing of the $500,000 suit of Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson against Ernest R. Graham, architect, and Thomas McGuire. The suit, on a charge of conspiracy, will be heard by a jury. Mrs. Anderson, an author of several books, lives at the Croydon hotel, 616 Rush street. She filed her suit in May, 1931, charging that she and Mr. Graham were friends a number of years ago the friendship having been ended before Mr. Graham's marriage. Since 1929, she asserts, he has harassed her by having her observed by McGuire and other private detectives.

MOLLISON, WIFE PLAN ROUND TRIP ATLANTIC FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Capt. James A. Mollison and his flying wife, Amy Johnson, announced today they will attempt a round trip Atlantic flight together this spring. Capt. Mollison is the first person to accomplish the east to west hop, and he and his wife now aspire to be not only the first family to fly across the ocean, but to complete a round trip.

The start will probably be made in April. Before the takeoff, Capt. Mollison will attempt a South Atlantic flight from Dakar, West Africa, to Rio de Janeiro.

For the double attempt the flying couple will use a new type of plane. It will be a twin engined biplane with a cruising range of more than 3,000 miles.

SILVER SKATES DERBIES TO BE HELD JAN. 21, 22

Garfield Park Site of Tribune Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The sixteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will be held Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 21 and 22, at Garfield park. The Silver Skates Derby was inaugurated in 1917 and Art Staff won the championship from a field of 300. Since then the meet has expanded until 4,829 boys and girls, an all time record, entered the fifteenth of the series in 1931. The derbies were not held last year because of unseasonable weather.

In 1931 the derbies also had been expanded to seven races, five of which were for boys and men. The number of contestants makes it impossible to hold the meet indoors, and last winter Garfield park was not frozen to a sufficient depth at any time to insure the safety of the hundreds of contestants. It was the only time that any of the derbies had been postponed since the late Walter Eckersall inaugurated the meet.

Five Prizes in Each Class.

There are five prizes offered in each of the seven age classifications. First, second, and third place winners will receive pairs of skates. First place skates are silver. Fourth and fifth place winners in each age division are rewarded with silver and bronze medals. Each contestant who reports for his preliminary heat will receive a souvenir gold button.

In 1931 a team trophy was offered in memory of Walter Eckersall. This trophy, a silver shaft, on which is mounted the figure of a skater, will become the permanent possession of the club or organization which wins it three times. It was won two years ago by the Norwegian-American A. A. after a close fight with the Walton Athletic club.

Men's senior [18 years of age and over]—2 miles; qualifying, 1 mile.

Boys' intermediate [16 and 17 years of age]—1 mile; qualifying, one-half mile.

Boys' junior [14 and 15 years of age]—One-half mile; qualifying, quarter mile.

Boys' juvenile [12 and 13 years of age]—Quarter mile; qualifying, 220 yards.

Boys' midget [under 12 years of age]—220 yards; qualifying, 110 yards.

Sanctioned by I. W. S. A.

The Silver Skates Derbies have been sanctioned by the Illinois Western Skating association and the dates approved by that association. All skaters 16 years of age and over must be registered with the association. This also is true of all ice meets held in Chicago and registration permits competition in these races as well as in the Silver Skates Derbies. The West Parks commissioners have granted the use of Garfield park for the days of the Derbies.

An entry blank is printed in these columns which may be used for individual entries. Entries by organizations or clubs may be made in a group provided the names are sent in by divisions and the ages of the contestants are vouched for by an official of the organization.

Entries will be accepted until midnight, Monday, Jan. 16. Racing numbers of all contestants will be printed in the program and in THE TRIBUNE on the days of the preliminary races. Preliminaries in the boys' midget, juvenile and junior divisions will be held on Jan. 21. Other qualifying races and the semifinals and finals in all Derbies are scheduled for Jan. 22.

HOME COACH

Packey McFarland, former lightweight star, will coach the Chicago team in the C. Y. O. boxing meet Friday at the Stadium.

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

CHICAGO newspapers have been printing pictures of the Los Angeles and San Francisco amateur boxers who are here to fight the Catholic Youth champions at the Stadium Friday night, and frankly I don't like their faces. They don't look friendly. Theoretically they are here as guests of the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, head of the C. Y. O., but they give every indication of contemplating assault and battery on 16 young Chicagoans.

It's all right to be nice to them, I suppose, but they are not here for fun. They crossed the mountains and deserts to prove they grow men on the coast who know how to use their dukes better than we do in Chicago. Until our boys have put them in their place I think they should be treated as public enemies.

When it comes to wielding padded gloves it's Chicago versus the world. Shortly after we get through with the fighters from California we must prepare our Golden Glovers for New York, where they have more fighting men than the rest of the country put together. Then we will pit our bravest against an international opponent.

So while we are at the ringside pulling for the home boys we shall be looking ahead to New York and Europe. Chicagoans who are strong enough and clever enough to whip the toughest men in their weight from the coast will make good material for Golden Gloves.

There are two members of the Chicago C. Y. O. squad who have stood up under the severest competition the sport provides. I refer to Max Marek, light heavyweight, and Henry Rothier, welterweight. Marek was a runner-up in 1932 Golden Gloves and was one of Chicago's four winners against New York. Rothier, a Golden Gloves title holder, lost to his New York opponent but he put up one of the most brilliant exhibitions Chicago has seen when he whipped the lightweight champion of Germany at Soldiers' field.

The fierce expressions on the faces of the California scrappers won't scare our C. Y. O. representatives. Any fellow who wins a big boxing tournament must have nerve. This is particularly true in competition like the C. Y. O., which involves more than 1500 contestants. No weakling survives that kind of a test.

If your sporting tastes run to the primitive, you will enjoy Friday night's bouts. The boxers have been developed systematically under competent supervision. They have nothing to hold back, no reputations to protect. They are in there to fight.

The show climaxes a tournament which leaders of the Catholic Youth organization believe has been well worth while.

University of Southern California's 20 consecutive victories speak for the class of football they play out there. It will be hard to convince the average fan that the Trojans were not the stongest team of the season. Prof. Dickinson's award notwithstanding. They won the Rockne trophy, which goes to the school Prof. Dickinson considers to have the best claim to national honors, in 1931 and whipped every team they met in 1932. Nobody could ask for more.

The only other team in modern football history to roll up such an extended victory string against major teams was Notre Dame. The Irish won 20 straight in 1929-'30 and carried on in 1931 to make it 26 without defect. Their 21st game, however, was a scoreless tie with Northwestern.

WHITE SOX LEGS TO SPORT GOOD OLD WHITE SOX

That Red Stripe Is Out, Mr. Comiskey Rules.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox in the 1933 American league season will wear white socks and nothing else but, in so far as hosiery is concerned.

Last year, in mid-season, President Lou Comiskey put aside all precedent by ordering socks with single red stripes running about a foot from the ground and parallel thereto when the wearer was on his feet.

At the time it was intimated that the change had been ordered because pure white socks made the players look straight legged and awkward. Baseball psychologists hinted that the players, denied the privilege of making the most of trim athletic ankles and muscular calves, just worried and worried. The optical illusion of awkwardness, caused by the colorless hose, gave the Sox an inferiority complex, it was contended.

Was It Worry?

Realizing that they did not look like athletes, so the theory ran, the matter preyed on the minds of the White Sox so that, alas, they got in a state of mind where they weren't athletes, in the highest sense of the term.

Upon receipt of a photograph of Al Simmons in a Sox uniform, with the stripeless socks, Mr. Comiskey yesterday revealed there will be no stripe after the spring training season.

"All that psychology stuff was the bunk and had nothing to do with the change last year," said Mr. Comiskey at his room in St. Luke's hospital. "It was a matter of superstition and nothing else. I wanted to make some kind of a change in the hope that it would change our luck. The stripe was ordered and our luck changed—it got worse. So off comes the stripe."

To Wear Gray on Road.

The suits will be white for Chicago wear, as usual, and gray will prevail for road wear. A year ago the Sox abandoned the solid blue travel unies, which come in vogue with the Sox every few years, also for luck changing purposes. Mr. Comiskey said, however, that his team probably will never adopt the dark blue outfits again. And if he ever goes for stripes again, Mr. Comiskey said, he'll order seven, eleven, or thirteen stripes.

The Sox president is in St. Luke's for his usual pre-spring reducing program. Yesterday he was jubilant about the success of his present campaign—he's lost 27 pounds since entering the hospital upon his return from the major league meetings in New York.

Simmons received the Sox uniform, which he donned for the first time, at his home in Milwaukee. He plans to leave soon for Hot Springs for preliminary training before proceeding to the Sox camp in Pasadena. Last year Simmons did all his spring work in Hot Springs, working out with American association teams.

MICHIGAN STATE BEATS SYRACUSE QUINTET, 23 TO 16

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Michigan State college's basketball team defeated Syracuse, 23 to 16, tonight, leading throughout the game. It was State's third victory in four starts.

Michigan State started impressively by amassing an eight point lead, and had a seven point lead at the half, 18 to 11.

In the second half, State did not score a single field goal, but five successful free throws helped maintain the winning margin. Summary:

Stagg Shows Gain in War with Illness

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Amos Alonzo Stagg, 71 year old retiring University of Chicago football coach, is progressing satisfactorily against influenza and bronchial pneumonia, according to his physician, Dr. Max Rohde. If Stagg continues to improve he will be out of danger within the next two or three days, Dr. Rohde, former University of Chicago athlete, said.

"He doesn't seem to realize that he is a very sick man and instructed his nurses that they were to put through all telephone calls directly to his bedside," said Dr. Rohde. "Of course, we can't do that, nor have I allowed any visitors, although Fred Nichols, who played football and baseball for Stagg back in 1900, did manage to get in and see him for a few minutes.

Still Very Sick.

"He has continued to hold up very well, has retained his strength, and the congestion in his lower chest is clearing up nicely. He is still very sick, but not dangerously so, and so I'm sure we'll put him through all right."

Stagg, who was forced to retire as athletic director at the University of Chicago because of the age limit, came to New York to attend the annual coaches' meeting suffering from a heavy cold. The cold grew worse and he was taken from his hotel room to the Medical Arts hospital.

GETS DAILY REPORT.

Daily reports on the condition of Mr. Stagg are being received by Mrs. Stagg. Sitting in her home on the south side, Mrs. Stagg revealed that she wanted to be at the bedside of the veteran coach, but Stagg urged her to remain in Chicago and promised to send a report on his condition daily.

The report received by Mrs. Stagg yesterday follows:

LOS ANGELES TO HONOR TROJAN ELEVEN TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 3.—A civic luncheon, under the auspices of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, will be tendered the undefeated University of Southern California football team at the Biltmore tomorrow.

At the banquet the Trojans will hear themselves referred to as "college football champions of the nation," a title which the team did not receive under the Dickinson rating system of awarding the Knute Rocke trophy and which neither the players themselves nor their coaches have claimed, but which nearly all others in these parts, including Coach Jock Sutherland of Pittsburgh, are trying to award them by loud and insistent praise.

Stanford Scores 21 to 17 Victory Over Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Stanford scored a 21 to 17 basketball victory over Nebraska tonight. Cordry, chunky little forward, led the Stanford attack and with Edelen, center, tied for the winners' scoring honors, although he made only one basket. It was Hub Boswell, substitute Cornhusker, however, who topped the scoring with three baskets and a free throw. The score was 8 to 8 at the half.

IOWA RULES TWO STARS ELIGIBLE, BUT LOSES, 21-17

Break, Blackmer Halted by North Dakota.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 3.—[Special]—The University of Iowa basketball team was defeated by North Dakota State here tonight, 21 to 17, despite the presence of the veterans Ivan Blackmer and Edward Break, who were ruled eligible five minutes before the game started. It was Iowa's first defeat of the season.

Both teams played listless ball, marked by poor passing and the missing of setup shots. North Dakota State, however, came out of its lethargy in the last three minutes to overcome a one point Iowa lead.

Don Arthur, visiting forward, who made seven of his team's ten baskets, scored two field baskets in rapid succession in the last two minutes. Both were one handed shots from the side of the court.

Iowa led 8 to 4 at half time and with five minutes to play was in front 15 to 12.

Long Council Session.

Break and Blackmer were ruled eligible pending further investigation of their cases. The university athletic board was in session three and a half hours.

The statement by the board read: "In view of the difference of opinion as to the conference rules involved and the conference rulings made, the board has voted that Ivan Blackmer and Edward Break retain their eligibility pending a decision of the conference."

The ruling in effect rescinded the action of the board's eligibility committee last Friday in disbarring them for playing outside basketball. Lineup:

ILLINI WIN, 39-28

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois defeated the University of Detroit quintet tonight, 39 to 28. It was Detroit's first meeting with a Big Ten team.

The Illini attack was led by Froschauer, Bennett and Theobald, with Capt. Red Owen playing only part of the game. Skryczki, Aitchison and Cicotte contributed the chief scoring for the Titans.

Although the Illini got off to a 10 to 1 lead at the outset, Detroit scored 14 points before the Illini could make another point and led briefly, but the first half ended 21 to 15 in favor of Illinois. Lineup:

COLLEGE LETTER BOX.

DEAR WAKE: Fritz Crisler and his coaches awarded only 17 major football letters at Princeton last fall. Two of them went to Peter Fortune and John Smithies, well known in Chicago and the north shore suburbs. Fortune prepped at Chicago Latin school and Smithies at Lake Forest academy.

Fortune was a line bulwark, shifting from one side to the other as circumstances required, and also was known for his fine blocking. He was called upon to kick the extra point after touchdown and succeeded on every occasion when he was in the game. That extra point loomed large in the Yale contest. He will be graduated next June.

Smithies was converted hastily from a guard to an end and saved the situation by his fine work against Columbia, Cornell, and Navy. He has another year of football. In track he specializes in the hurdles. Both boys are members of Tiger Inn club.

Old Timer.

In recent comment on Noble Kizer's coaching record at Purdue the summary was stated as 27 victories, 10 defeats and 3 ties. Those figures were while he was assistant coach. While head coach, Kizer's elevens have won 22, lost 3 and tied 1. Bully for old Purdue! O. M. B.

Your Helper telling about Chicago boys on the University of Washington eleven didn't help much so far as accuracy concerning their prep school origin was concerned. Ort Wells, veteran sportsman, was resting with others in the bath department of the C. A. A., recounts Helper Matty. With only a sheet wrapped around him he was listening to the discussion of prohibition and the possible return of the saloon. He did not take part, but at one stage of the argument his big voice arose above all others with, "Well, I'd like to see the saloon return; I haven't been introduced to anybody since it went out."

GETS RELEASE TO COACH N. Y. ELEVEN 3 YEARS

Starred with Notre Dame's 4 Horsemen.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Jimmy Crowley, one of the famous four horsemen of Notre Dame and for the last three years football coach at Michigan State college, has been signed as head coach of Fordham university, succeeding Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, who had held the post since 1927.

The term of Crowley's contract is for three years and the salary, it is understood, will be $11,000. He has been drawing $8,000 at Michigan State.

State Grants Release.

Announcement of the signing came first from Crowley himself when he told over the telephone from Lansing, Mich., that he had been granted his release from the Michigan State contract, which has a year to run. It was confirmed later in an official statement issued by John F. Coffey, Fordham graduate manager of athletics. The statement named Glen Carberry, 1922 captain of the Notre Dame football team, as Crowley's first assistant, but added that all other aides would be named later by Crowley.

Crowley's 1932 team at Michigan State had one of the best records in the history of the institution. It included a 19 to 13 triumph over the Fordham eleven, which he will coach this year and was the Spartans' best record in 17 years.

It was learned unofficially that early last spring Crowley had been in conference with Fordham officials in New York and that at that time he had been approached as a successor to Maj. Cavanaugh.

Further indication that Crowley was a strong candidate for the Fordham post was given when the 1933 schedule announcement revealed that Michigan State, which played the Rams in 1932, had been dropped for the next year.

Michigan State Reluctant.

The release of Crowley by Michigan State followed swiftly on the heels of a statement by Dr. Robert Shaw, president of Michigan State, expressing reluctance to sanction such a step. He said no coach ever had been relieved of a contract before its expiration, although in certain instances contracts had been broken.

"However," Dr. Shaw added, "we are reluctant here at Michigan State to sanction such a release, and in order to effect a severing of contract it is necessary to secure the approval of all six members of the state board of agriculture."

Crowley, speaking from his home in Lansing, Mich., appeared to be greatly pleased with his coming transfer, but a trifle reluctant to make any lengthy statement.

Crowley will face a difficult schedule with his new charges when the Fordham gridiron campaign opens next autumn. The Rams' opponents, in the order in which they will be met, are Albright, Muhlenberg, West Virginia, Boston college, Alabama, St. Mary's of California, N. Y. U., and Oregon State.

To Introduce Rockne System.

When Crowley comes to Fordham he will be the first to equip a major New York team with the Rockne system of attack and defense.

Not since John F. [Chick] Meehan came down from Syracuse to transplant his military shift and his showmanship to N. Y. U. has so interesting a figure in the coaching world headed for Gotham as the young Hoosier who played football with his tongue in his cheek, his mop of hair in his eye and with more press clippings in his pocket than Rockne deemed helpful.

He may have been sleepy of eye and threaded his way through a line as softly as the answer that turneth away wrath, but he was the life of the party and a character around whom one of the game's greatest lores of humor has been centered.

He was a ball carrier whose fame was perhaps a little bit greater than that of any of the other horsemen, Stuhldreher, Layden, and Miller, though Stuhldreher's generalship won him lasting reputation.

As a coach at Michigan State Crowley has established himself in the front rank of the scores of South Bend graduates who have carried the precepts of Rockne to the far corners of the country.

SORRY TO GO

East Lansing, Mich., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Coach Jimmy Crowley expressed regret at leaving Michigan State college in a statement made public tonight:

"I am sorry to have to leave Michigan State college, as I have formed many fine contacts throughout the state. The work at Michigan State has been pleasant and I would feel constrained to remain here were it not for the fact that a very tempting salary has been offered me at Fordham. I am very grateful to the board of agriculture and to President Shaw for their many courtesies to me, not only in releasing me from my contract, but also for their courtesy and consideration during the last three years."

'WHAT WILL RUTH GET?' ACT NEAR 1933 PREMIERE

Yanks Mum on Rumor of Big Reduction.

New York, Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Baseball's largest single financial manipulation, involving the annual adjustment of Babe Ruth's salary, will embark upon its initial negotiating stage this week.

This was disclosed today by Secretary Edward G. Barrow, who said that within the next few days the Babe, as well as all the other players on the Yankee roster, would receive his 1933 contract. This is much later than has usually been the case, but there has been a delay, Barrow said, due to the fact that the major leagues have drawn up a new form of contract this winter and there was some tardiness in distributing them.

Silent on Ruth Terms.

But when it came to discussing the nature of the terms the Yankees would offer their distinguished home run clouter, Barrow at once became more silent than a tomb. He did say, however, that up to now neither he nor Col. Ruppert have had any discussion whatever with Ruth on salary figures for the coming year.

The fact that the Babe will be asked to accept another reduction seems inevitable, but whether the amputation will be as severe as some believe, remains to be seen. According to one report, the Yankee chieftains have decided to slash all of $25,000 from the Bambino's 1932 salary, leaving him a paltry residue of $50,000.

Ruth, who has earned close to $1,000,000 from his baseball activities since 1914—$785,000 in salary and the remainder in royalties from various sideline enterprises—has so far received only one reduction. He reached his peak in 1930 and 1931, when he received $80,000 for each season on a two year contract, and this was whittled down to $75,000 last spring.

Had Good Year in 1932.

Just how much of a slice the coming season will bring only the next few weeks can tell. Left to his own dictates it is quite likely Col. Ruppert would not be too severe. The Babe had a pretty good season last year, winding up the world's series with a grand flourish, and until he has really had a bad one no one can forecast when his career of greatness on the playing field may be considered definitely concluded.

On the other hand, it is understood that considerable pressure has been brought to bear on the Yankee owner from other major league magnates. They, while frankly admitting the Babe's value, nevertheless see in his continued high salary a severe barrier in curtailing their own salary limits. As one owner expressed it during the league meetings here last month:

Hard to Convince Player.

"It's pretty hard convincing a player conditions demand his salary being cut from $12,000 to $10,000, while the Babe is pulling down $75,000; still, none of us will deny that Ruth has earned every cent that baseball has paid him."

It is quite a vexing problem and one that is likely to give Ruppert and his business adviser, Barrow, many a sleepless night if any drastic reduction is contemplated.

Ruth himself has so far declined to be drawn into any discussion in the matter, saying, "There'll be plenty of time to talk after I've seen the figures."

CLASSIC LEAGUE LEADERS BOWL DE BARRY FIVE

The leading Lorenz Knitting team will meet the DeBarrys tonight at the H. B. Kaad alleys in a Classic Bowling league match. The race has tightened in the last three weeks and the Lorenz Knitting team is only two games in front of the Baby Ruths, who are four games ahead of De Barry and Wass & Schroeder. Tonight's schedule:

[All games at 9 o'clock.]
Moulding-Brownell vs. Green Rivers at Harding, 2703 Milwaukee.
Baby Ruth vs. Olive Can at Madison-Kedzie, 3127 Madison.
A. J. Cermaks vs. Edelweiss at Milwaukee, 2047 Milwaukee.
Wass and Sch'r vs. S. & L. Motors at Chatham, 7854 Cottage Grove.

STARS OF EAST QUIT COAST FOR HOMEWARD TRIP

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Football stars who hit the touchdown trail for charity here yesterday were headed homeward today leaving behind the memories of one of the most thrilling games ever played for the benefit fund of the Shriners' Crippled Children's hospital.

Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, who with Dick Hanley of Northwestern coached the eastern squad, said today: "Our hats are doffed to the west. They had it. We had six scoring chances and capitalized on only two. But it was the west's magnificient defense that stopped us. West had three scoring chances and made all of them good."

Ross Signs for Bout Jan. 27; Seek Petrolle

Barney Ross, Chicago lightweight, and Billy Petrolle of Duluth, Minn., will meet in a ten round bout at the Chicago Stadium on Jan. 27, it was indicated yesterday. Ross has accepted the match, and if terms are satisfactory Petrolle will sign.

Petrolle was slated to box Jack (Kid) Berg at New York Jan. 20, but when Bep Van Klaveren was substituted the contest was canceled by Billy.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday refused to sanction Joey Palazzola, Detroit, Mich., featherweight, as a suitable opponent for Varias Milling of California for an eight round bout at the Stadium on Jan. 13. The commission contends that their records indicate Milling is too experienced for Palazzola. Their 1932 records follow:

MILLING.		PALAZZOLA.
Opponent—	Result.	Opponent—	Result
Fidel La Barba	Lost	Paul Dazzo	Lost
Earl Mastro	Won	Jimmy Vaughn	Lost
Fidel La Barba	Lost	Red Stephens	Lost
Fidel La Barba	Lost	Roy Slice	Won
Mickey Cohen	Won
Baby Arizmendi	Draw
Babe Colima	Won

Johnny Pena, New York featherweight, may replace Palazzola against Milling.

Tommy Paul, featherweight champion, will arrive from Buffalo Friday for his title fight with Freddie Miller in the 10 round windup on the card.

Charley Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, has accepted terms for three bouts. Late this month he is scheduled to meet either José Santa or Jimmy Maloney at Boston. Tommy Loughran probably will be his opponent at Philadelphia next month. Charley will face Art Laskey at St. Paul early in March.

In the future wrestlers who appear in exhibitions in Chicago will be warned by the state athletic commission to refrain from violating the rules or face suspension and fines, or both. The commission has found that too much unnecessary roughness for the purpose of exciting the public has occurred in bouts the last few months. Lou Plummer, who wrestled in a recent show at the Rainbo Fronton, has been notified to appear before the commission next Monday to defend himself on these charges.

Five bouts have been arranged for the interscholastic amateur boxing meet between St. Philip High school boxers and a team from St. Patrick of South Chicago at St. Philip's gymnasium, 3151 Jackson boulevard, Friday night. Art Palladino, St. Philip featherweight, clashes with Barney Slize in the windup. Another featherweight match will bring together Babe Adams, St. Patrick, and Bob Harps. Other contests are: Bill Herlihy, St. Philip, vs. Barney Buff; Young Casey, St. Patrick, vs. Ed. Garvey, and Art Winneback, St. Philip, vs. Mike Krizmas.

Mickey Patrick, East Chicago, Ind., light heavyweight, resumed training yesterday at Kid Howard's gymnasium after a layoff of several months. . . . Billy Cepak has postponed his next card at the Cicero stadium from Jan. 13 to Jan. 20. He is attempting to match Johnny Phagan with Harry Schuman and Kid Irish with Charley Cerminaro in six round bouts. . . . Mrs. Lena Levy's contract as manager of Tony Cancela, Florida heavyweight, was upheld yesterday by the Illinois boxing commission. Cancela was suspended in N. B. A. territory last September for refusing to go through with a bout at Atlanta, Ga., contracted for by a previous representative. . . . Young Joe Wolcott, south side junior welterweight, and Tracy Cox have signed to meet in a 10 round bout at Indianapolis next Tuesday. . . . Link Hollenbeck and Tommy Richards battle in a supporting bout on the Paul Pantaleo-Patsy Perroni card at Terre Haute, Ind., Monday. Clyde Pifer, Chester Menk, and Pat Murphy also will appear.

KAMPFER AIMS TO BEAT STECHER FOR LONDOS BOUT

Promoter Joe Coffey, who originally had Joe Stecher matched with Jim Londos at the Coliseum on Jan. 9, which date was moved back ten days, is going ahead with plans to pit Stecher against the champion at the south side arena on Jan. 19.

Coffey believes that Stecher will be able to remove Kampfer from his path when they meet Monday night at the Rainbo Fronton, but that is where the German comes into the picture.

Kampfer says that if he beats Stecher he will demand the match with Londos. If this happens Coffey's plans would be upset.

Engebretsen, Bears' Tackle, Fined for Reckless Driving

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—Paul Engebretsen, 22 year old tackle on the Chicago Bears professional football team, was fined $15 and costs for reckless driving in the Municipal court today. His was the first arrest made by police here in 1933. Engebretsen came to Kenosha with friends for a party to celebrate the new year.

C. Y. O. Splits Champions for Coast Bouts

Pairings for the national Catholic inter-city bouts between teams representing the archdiocese of San Francisco and Los Angeles and the Catholic Youth Organization of Chicago were made yesterday by the C. Y. O. boxing board. The fights are scheduled for Friday night at the Chicago Stadium.

Originally it was the plan of the C. Y. O. board to have its eight title holders meet Los Angeles and the eight runnersup in the recent C. Y. O. tournament fight the San Francisco team. Now the Chicago champions will be divided against the two visiting teams. Four title holders are paired against the Los Angeles team and four against San Francisco. The C. Y. O. runnersup have been paired in the same manner.

Will Use Eight Ounce Gloves.

The boxing board adopted the recommendation of the team leaders that eight ounce gloves be used in the fights and that the three round bouts be limited to two minutes of fighting instead of three, per round.

Under the new plan Oscar O'Hanlon, C. Y. O. flyweight champion, will meet Mat Cortez of San Francisco. Cortez is one of the outstanding flyweights in northern California, and holds both the junior and senior titles of the Pacific association of the A. A. U. He is a hard puncher. Henry Fuscaldo, C. Y. O. runnerup, will be matched in the same weight class with Joe Gallardo of Los Angeles.

Booker Will Face Marston.

Harry Booker, who won his featherweight crown by beating Jimmy Christy in the C. Y. O. finals, will meet Lester Marston of San Francisco in the 126 pound class. Marston is a San Francisco Golden Gloves champion and was a runnerup in the national A. A. U. tournament in New York last June. In this same class Steve Feary of Los Angeles will fight against Jimmy Christy.

In the lightweight division Joe Montello, one of the Chicago team captains, is paired against Norbert Meehan of San Francisco. Meehan holds the Pacific association junior title in the 135 pound class, and two weeks ago won the San Francisco Golden Gloves title. Montello was a runnerup in the recent C. Y. O. tourney. In this same division the Chicago titleholder, James O'Connell, will meet William Trillo of Los Angeles.

Rothier Will Meet Petralia.

Henry Rothier, who holds the Chicago welterweight crown, is matched against Nick Petralia of Los Angeles. Petralia is the 147 pound champion of the Holy Name union of Los Angeles, and rates high as a fighter in southern California. Rothier is an international Golden Gloves champion and one of the outstanding amateurs of the country. In this division Thomas Trueman will meet Valentine Penko.

In the middleweight bouts William Nurczyk meets Larry Vaughn, San Francisco. Nurczyk is a protégé of Packey McFarland, director and trainer of the Chicago C. Y. O. boxers. Vaughn represents the Young Men's institute of San Francisco and although he is not a titleholder he has shown ability. Blaine Huddle, middleweight titleholder of Los Angeles, will be paired against Charles Wozniak.

Marek to Battle Greenhalgh.

In the light heavyweight division team Capt. Max Marek, C. Y. O. champion, and Leo Greenhalgh of Los Angeles are paired. Like Marek, Greenhalgh is an all-around athletic star and is the diocesan light heavyweight champion of Los Angeles. Jack Crowley of San Francisco is paired against Thomas Pacetti of Chicago.

In the heavyweight bouts Joe Morro of Los Angeles and a protégé of Jim Jeffries is matched against the Chicago titleholder, Chester Bukowski. Frank Connelly, senior Pacific association heavyweight and San Francisco Golden Gloves titleholder, will fight Frank Ketter.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

The first call of the new year to owners of springer spaniels in Chicagoland announcing that another field trial will be held next autumn and inviting owners of hunting springers to join in this sporting event has been sounded. Plans already are under way to make this outdoor exhibition of great interest to Chicagoland hunters and dog owners.

A small group of springer spaniel enthusiasts made a modest beginning in holding a spaniel field trial last November, when a few dogs were put through their paces on a large estate near St. Charles, Ill. Certain phases of the dog work and details of the trial were imperfect because of unfamiliarity on the part of the sponsoring club with field trial practices.

However, this fall it is hoped to run the trials under perfect conditions so that sportsmen can see springer spaniels at work against a setting that approximates actual upland hunting in the central states. A. P. Moecher, Oakcrest, North Farnsworth, Aurora, Ill., is one of the sportsmen working on the 1933 trial. Dog owners who are interested in the event should get in touch with him regarding details.

During the last 10 years hundreds of springer and cocker spaniels have been added to the dog population of Chicagoland. Not all of these are used in hunting upland game or in retrieving. Undoubtedly, two causes have retarded the use of the spaniels for hunting purposes. These are lack of good trainers in the central states, men who specialize on springers, and unfamiliarity with how the springer works. In spite of these drawbacks the cockers and springers have forged ahead in popularity until now Chicagoland is ready to hold a field trial which should rank with the best in the country.

Today New York holds the best spaniel trials in the country. A certain group of sportsmen in the east who have the leisure, the money, the interest and the acreage to breed dogs have promoted the interests of the springer and cocker. Some organizations go to England to obtained judges for their trials, thus maintaining the link between the nation which has produced the springer and cocker and the nation which now imports dogs of these breeds in large numbers.

The success of the east with cockers and springers is a challenge to sportsmen in the central states. The proposed trials for next fall is the first sign among Chicagoland dog owners that the challenge will be accepted.

Baseball Men Mourn Death of Gleason

Baseball men, young and old, yesterday joined in public expression of sorrow over the death of William [Kid] Gleason, former White Sox manager, coach and scout and for the last seven years coach of the Philadelphia Athletics. Gleason died in Philadelphia late Monday night.

Gleason's acquaintance with all ages of baseball folk was especially wide because he had been active in the game for 46 years and made friends wherever he went.

Though an easterner, Gleason spent 12 of his baseball years in Chicago, in his several capacities, which included the managership from the start of the season of 1919 through the season of 1923.

He Liked That 1919 Club.

Gleason considered his 1919 team the greatest that ever wore baseball spikes and was quick to sense that something was wrong in the world series with the Cincinnati Reds, although he was reluctant to believe any hints of the scandal that later was revealed.

Some of the men developed by Gleason—Cicotte, Williams, Risberg, Felsch and several others—went down in the scandal, but there never was any blame placed on Gleason for their disgrace and he was retained as manager for four years after the scandalous series had been played.

Schalk Misses His Sponsor.

Among those in Chicago who yesterday expressed themselves concerning Gleason's passing were President Lou Comiskey and Vice President Harry Grabiner of the Sox. Ray Schalk was especially moved, for it was Gleason who scouted Schalk when he was a puny kid with little prospects of becoming a great catcher.

Wilmington College Board Votes to Drop Football

Wilmington, O., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The board of trustees of Wilmington college voted today to abolish football from the school's 1933 sports program. The action was recommended by Dr. Walter L. Collins, president, who indicated it may be revived "after the depression." Cancellation of eight games tentatively scheduled was ordered. Substitution of a program of intra-mural sports with more emphasis on basketball was recommended by Dr. Collins.

Wilmington has an enrollment of about 300.

Big Ed Walsh Gets an Ace on Texas Golf Course

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 3.—[Special.]—The 13th hole on the Club Forest golf course proved no jinx to Big Ed Walsh, more than two decades ago a pitcher with the Chicago White Sox. Walsh, who is spending the winter here with his son, Ed Walsh Jr., scored an ace yesterday.

Dickinson Replies to Trojans; Extra Tilts Don't Count

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Prof. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois, whose system of picking the national football champion has aroused a storm of controversy on the Pacific coast because the University of Southern California was not chosen titleholder, today explained why he could not change his decision giving the undefeated, untied Michigan eleven the 1932 championship.

Prof. Dickinson declared that postseason games are never figured in his ratings.

"If I lived on the Pacific coast it would be difficult for any one to convince me that the 1932 football season ended several weeks ago, even before Thanksgiving for some colleges.

"Being a football fan, I would enjoy a good football game, no matter when or where it was played. Because postseason competition is denied most colleges by tradition and climate it obviously is unfair to allow colleges in mild weather areas to win national honors. A Michigan-Colgate-Purdue series would have been interesting.

"Having witnessed the 1929 and the 1932 Rose Bowl games I am convinced that teams do not play November football in January."

Butler Whips Grinnell for 2d Conference Victory

Grinnell, Ia., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Butler university basketball team defeated Grinnell tonight, 58 to 22, in the first conference game of the season for Grinnell. It was Butler's second Missouri valley victory. At the intermission Butler led, 22 to 13.

Crane Heavies Beat McKinley Quintet, 26-19

Prep Basketball

GAMES TODAY.
[Heavyweight.]
Hyde Park at Englewood, 3:30 p. m.
Tilden Tech at Lindblom, 3:30 p. m.

[Heavyweight.]
Crane Tech, 26; McKinley, 19.
Tuley, 33; Austin, 23.
Harrison, 20; Marshall, 15.

[Lightweight.]
Lake View, 29; Schurz, 22.
Bowen, 36; Lindblom, 26.
Roosevelt, 34; Senn, 24.
Lane Tech, 39; Waller, 11.

Crane Tech and Tuley continued marches toward the Chicago Public High school league heavyweight basketball quarter-final round by scoring their third consecutive victories in the west section yesterday. Crane Tech, despite the absence of two star players, Dembo, guard, and Possner, center, defeated McKinley, 26 to 19, on the latter's court and Tuley triumphed over Austin, 33 to 23, on the Tuley floor.

Capt. Harold Swee led Tuley's attack. He scored four baskets and four free throws. Krischiver and Tuzoff also starred, the former collecting three field goals and Tuzoff contributing three baskets and one free throw.

Harrison Tech Wins, 20-15.

Lake View, Roosevelt and Lane Tech were victors in north section lightweight games. Lake View won from Schurz, 29 to 22, at Schurz. Roosevelt handed Senn a 34 to 24 defeat on the Roosevelt floor, and Lane Tech overwhelmed Waller, 39 to 11, at the latter's gym.

Bowen Lights Beat Lindblom.

Jimmy McKirchy, scoring 12 points, led Bowen's lightweights to a 36 to 26 victory over Lindblom on Bowen's floor. Pragit was Lindblom's high point scorer with four baskets and five penalty tosses. The lineups:

Lenard Gets Decision Over Maker in Six Round Bout

Henry Lenard, Chicago featherweight boxer, defeated Max Maker, Milwaukee, in the six round windup bout of the weekly professional boxing show at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, last night. Roosevelt Haines was awarded the decision over Johnny Terry in the five round semi-windup. Other results:

Johnny Fitzpatrick beat Buddy Kearns [4].
Art Mitchell beat Tony Viscito [4].
Elmer Hodquist beat Wilfred Honenschar [4].

Kieckhefer, Scoville Open 400 Point Cue Series Today

Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, world's three cushion billiard champion, and Frank Scoville of Buffalo, N. Y., will open a special 400 point series at the Kieckhefer Recreation rooms this afternoon. The series will continue for four days, with morning and afternoon blocks of 50 points each. Scoville is here for the world's championship tournament, which opens Jan. 16.

Teddy Graham Named Captain of Blackhawks

Edward Dixon Graham, better known to followers of the Chicago Blackhawks as Teddy, yesterday was named captain of the local hockey team, replacing Helge Bostrom, recently sent to the St. Paul team of the American association. The blond defense star's first statement upon being made the Hawks' playing leader was that the old superstition of being a Blackhawk captain had no terror for him. Among the former captains for whom the job was a jinx are Dick Irvin, Duke Dutkowski, Cyclone Wentworth, and Bostrom.

Graham's first official appearance in his new job will take place tomorrow night, when he leads the Hawks against the Boston Bruins at the Stadium, both he and his mates having every intention of obtaining revenge for the boisterous Bruins' last game here when the Bostonians broke the Hawks' record of no defeats at home with a 1 to 0 trimming.

Included in the Hawk battle array for the evening is the youthful Art Wiebe, the former amateur defense star, who was recalled from St. Paul when Bostrom was sent there. Wiebe worked out with the Hawks with his own skates, which had been tardy in arriving from St. Paul, for the first time yesterday. He is expected to be given an opportunity to display his talents in the Bruin game.

Graham, a resident of Owen Sound, Ont., made his debut in Chicago hockey with the old Chicago Cardinals, and when the organization was disbanded the Hawks took up Teddy's contract among others. Except for one year with the Tulsa Oilers, Graham has spent all of his career since then with the Hawks.

N. U. Five to Meet Two of Big Ten's Best

Northwestern's basketball team will waste little time in getting into real competition once it opens the Big Ten season at Illinois Saturday night. Following the battle with the Illini the Wildcats return to Evanston, where they tackle Purdue Monday night.

If the Wildcats can get by these two hurdles they will be in a position to make it hard for future adversaries. The Illini got off to a slow start, due to the illness of several stars, but in recent games have begun to live up to advance notices which figured them as the outstanding dark horse of the conference season.

Purdue Still Contender.

Despite a surprising setback by Pittsburgh last week, Purdue still ranks as the strongest contender in the forthcoming scramble. Consequently next Monday's game between Northwestern and Purdue will go a long way toward sizing up the relative strength of these two quintets.

Both teams lost one of their five practice games, Northwestern dropping a 23 to 25 encounter to Notre Dame and Purdue succumbing to Pitt. One of Purdue's victories was a win over Notre Dame, while the Wildcats upset the Irish in a return engagement New Year's eve.

Stick to One Lineup.

In all games to date Coach Dutch Lonborg has stuck to his one starting lineup of Capt. Joe Reiff and Don Brewer at the forward positions, Elmer Johnson at center, and Nelson Culver and Marvin Moonshower, guards.

This combination has not only started all games, but has played most of them from start to finish. In his performances to date Reiff has outdone his work of the last two years. Against Notre Dame last Saturday night he accounted for 17 of his team's 33 points.

Chevigny Admits He Was Speeding; Pays $5 Fine

Jack Chevigny, coach of the Chicago Cardinals' professional football team and former Notre Dame player, yesterday was fined $5 and costs after he pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding before Judge George V. McIntyre in the South Chicago court.

DETROIT BEATS OTTAWA, 1 TO 0; PASSES HAWKS

Red Wings Take 3d Place in Hockey Standing.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings nosed out Ottawa's Senators tonight, 1 to 0, and moved into third place in the American section of the National Hockey league. They displaced the idle Chicago Blackhawks.

The teams fought through two periods of scoreless hockey and battled nearly seventeen more minutes before Happy Emms took an assist from Ebbie Goodfellow and scored the only goal. Lineup:

BRUINS, AMERICANS TIE

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins and the New York Americans played a scoreless tie tonight. The continuous sallies of the forward lines became monotonous as they found it impossible to pierce the opposing lines. The goalies, Thompson and Worters, also had their say about keeping down the score, although the number of shots stopped was comparatively low. Thompson stopped 28 and Worters 26. Lineup:

BRUINS [0].		AMERICANS [0].

CARTHAGE RALLY DEFEATS IOWA WESLEYAN, 36-31

Carthage, Ill., Jan. 3.—(AP)—A rally in the closing minutes tonight gave Carthage college a 36 to 31 victory over Iowa Wesleyan in a hard fought basketball game.

A long shot by Jones in the last second of play in the first half gave the Iowans a 17-all tie at recess and as the second half opened, they went ahead, 19 to 17. Carthage rallied from that point on to win. Morrison led the winners with four field goals and six free throws for 14 points. Jones scored four field goals and two free throws for Iowa Wesleyan.

Ponzi Beats Greenleaf in 4th Block; Leads, 505-437

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person

LASSIE STAKES ASKS ANOTHER ANTE BY JAN. 16

Arlington Race May Carry Purse of $30,000.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Another great horse race for Chicago in 1933 will develop out of the Arlington Lassie stakes. This was indicated yesterday when notices were mailed out to the owners of the 222 original entries advising them that the second payment of $20 for each entry is due on Jan. 16.

Otto W. Lehmann, president of the Arlington Jockey club, was of the opinion that the race will have a gross value of $30,000, making it the richest 2 year old filly contest decided in America.

It will be the third running of the Lassie, which was first won in 1931 by the champion, Top Flight, and was captured last season by the Audley Farm stable's Hilena. A third payment of $50 will be due on May 15, and starters must pay $1,000 when the event is run during the early part of the Arlington Jockey club's summer season.

Whitney Names Sixteen.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, whose silks were carried to victory in the Lassie by Top Flight, is the most liberal patron of the race. He nominated 16 fillies from the famous Whitney breeding places in New Jersey and Kentucky. William R. Coe and Samuel D. Riddle each nominated 14; Willis Sharpe Kilmer named 13, and Mrs. Payne Whitney made the eight most stylish lassies in her noted stable eligible.

Other turf folks with a half dozen or more entries are Mrs. John Hertz, William Woodward's Belair stud, George D. Widener, Edward R. Bradley, Arthur B. Hancock, and the Nash Brothers' Shandon Farm stable.

Warren Wright of Chicago has nominated Mucia, a daughter of Pompey-Lady Belle. She is a full sister to Ladysman, the 2 year old champion of last year, and her performances early in the season will be followed with much interest. If she can run like her big brother did on Futurity day at Arlington last season the Arlington officials might as well make out the Lassie Stakes check in Mr. Wright's name any time now.

Stars' Relatives to Run.

Little sisters of Broadway Jones, Blossom Time, Flying Gal, St. James, Tick On, Chestnut Oak, Gusto, Clock Tower, and other fast steppers of their day are among the eligibles. Daughters of such famous mares as Lady Madcap, Miss Jemima, Chacolet, Mother Goose, Careful, and Maid-at-Arms will be striving for the gold and glory.

The prize will be so rich that it is very doubtful if many of the 222 eligibles drop out on either the second or third payments and there may be more than twenty owners willing to gamble the $1,000 starting fee against a $30,000 prize on the day the Lassie is run, which will mean an enormous field. The race is at 6 furlongs.

Australia Evens Cricket Match with England

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 3.—Australia triumphed over England today to square the series for the world's cricket championship. Australia scored 228 and 191, while England had 169 and 139.

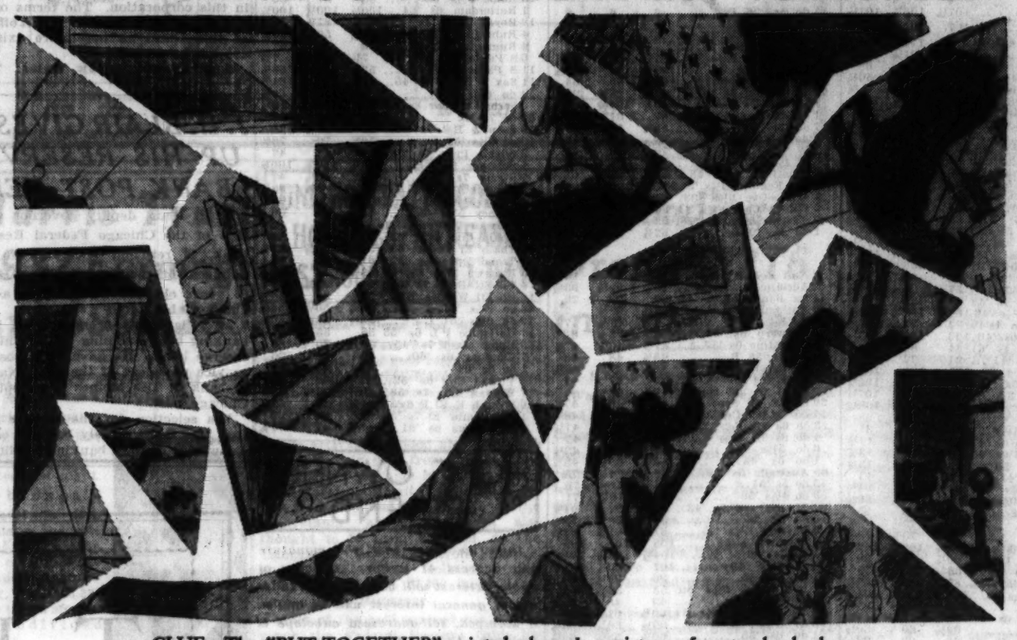
Great Fun! "PUT-TOGETHERS"

Solve CHICAGO TRIBUNE PICTURES OF STORYBOOK DAYS

$5,000 IN CASH PRIZES!

NO. 3—CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S "PUT-TOGETHERS"



CLUE: The "PUT-TOGETHER" printed above is a picture of a storybook character who was unable to provide food for her four-footed pet.

NO. 2—CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S "PUT-TOGETHERS"

NO. 1—CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S "PUT-TOGETHERS"

Just "Put These Pictures Together" and Name Them

Robinson Crusoe
Little Jack Horner
Hie! Diddle Diddle
Old Mother Hubbard
Jack and the Beanstalk
Humpty Dumpty
Hickory Dickory Dock
Jack and Jill
Little Red Riding Hood
Old King Cole
Little Boy Blue
Cinderella

Every one is invited to participate. It costs you nothing. There is no hard work to do! No strings—no catches! No subscriptions to solicit.

430 big cash prizes totaling $5,000.00 will be paid by the Chicago Tribune to the persons who send in the best answers. It is pleasant amusement and a test of your memory and skill.

THE RULES

1. Eligibility: Every man, woman, boy, and girl is eligible except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. It costs nothing.

2. What to Do: "Put-Together" and name the pictures of storybook days printed in the Chicago Daily Tribune. A new picture will be printed each day for 42 consecutive days except Sundays. Each entry must consist of answers to the 42 pictures. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set. It is not necessary to buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. The pictures may be copied or traced. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at Public Libraries or at its offices free of charge. The pictures may be pasted on paper, cardboard, in scrap books or in any other form.

3. Radio Dramatizations: Each night W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune Radio Station, will broadcast a dramatization of the "Put-Together" Picture to be printed in the Tribune the following day. Tune in. These dramatizations will help you.

4. Where to Send Entries: When you have the complete set of 42 pictures, mail them by First Class Mail, Postage Prepaid, to "Put-Togethers," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Picture No. 42 has been printed. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department.

5. The Judges: A committee of judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept their decision as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

6. The Prizes: 430 Cash Prizes totaling $5,000.00 will be paid by the Chicago Tribune to the persons who send in the most nearly correct and neatest entries. (See prize list below.) Elaborate entries are not necessary and will receive no greater consideration than simple ones.

430 BIG CASH PRIZES!

1st Prize	$1,000.00
2nd Prize	500.00
3rd Prize	250.00
Next 2 Prizes $100.00 each	200.00

FOREIGN BONDS RISE, DOMESTIC ISSUES SOFTEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—Bond market trading today was featured by marked strength in foreign issues, in contrast to a faltering tendency in the domestic list.

German issues set the pace in the upswing among foreign obligations, several of them attaining new peaks for the present recovery. Reich 5½s and 7s crossed 60 and 80, respectively. Reich and other foreign securities were bolstered by large scale buying from abroad.

Austrian bonds scored gains of up to 8 points, reflecting the granting of a loan to the country by France. Other foreign bonds were improved, with Argentines leading the South American list.

Domestic Liens Easier.

The domestic bond market was unable to maintain the rally which set in at the close of December. Although tax selling had ceased to be a market factor, speculative railroad bonds were easier on profit taking, inspired by the uncertain outlook for some of the weaker roads. A relatively favorable car loadings report had little effect upon sentiment.

Besides the German government issues, Reich bonds to advance included Berlin Electric Elevated 6½s, Electric Power of Central Germany 6½s, German General Electric 6s, issues of Rhine Westphalia, Unterelbe Power and Light 6s, and others.

Sharpest gains in Austrian bonds were in the government 7s, due 1957. The Bank for International Settlements announced today that the Austrian government has made arrangements to supply the necessary funds in the respective foreign currencies for the payment of Jan. 1 interest on this loan.

Fear Rail Refunding.

The easier tone in speculative rail bonds emphasized Wall street's view that a sustained advance in this group will be difficult of realization until the fate of such roads as the Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, and others is known.

With the success of its refunding plan still in some doubt, bonds of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad were generally easy today, losses extending to more than 2 points in some issues.

American Gas and Electric.

Please give me your investment rating of American Gas and Electric common. Any other information on this company will be appreciated.—B. H.

American Gas and Electric company is a holding corporation. Subsidiaries furnish electricity to a population of about 2,902,000 in 1,238 communities in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, New Jersey, Michigan, Kentucky, Virginia, and Tennessee.

Gross revenues for the twelve months to Oct. 31, 1932, were $59,151,000 and net income was $12,711,000. This was 5.96 times preferred dividends and equal to $2.55 per common share. For the preceding twelve months gross was $65,778,000 and net was $17,696,000. This was 8.29 times preferred dividends and equal to $3.90 per common share on a smaller number of shares.

Gross operating revenues for 1931 were $64,914,000, against $68,601,000 for 1930 and $68,022,000 for 1929. Net income in 1931 was $16,671,000, or $3.58 per common share, against net of $19,238,000, or $4.38 per common share on a smaller number of shares, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $20,898,000.

A leading statistical agency stated that on July 31, 1932, current assets were about $44,500,000 and current liabilities were $13,800,000. Cash assets were about $30,000,00. On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $41,498,000 and current liabilities were $13,735,000.

Parent company funded debt totals $50,000,000 and subsidiary funded debt amounts to $146,202,000. Minority interest of subsidiaries totals $49,173,000.

There are outstanding 355,623 shares of no par $6 preferred and 4,146,168 shares of no par common. The common pays dividends of $1 a year in cash and 4 per cent in common stock.

The preferred is rather high grade. The common deserves a fairly good rating.

Montana-Dakota Power.

I am interested in Montana-Dakota Power company 5½s and would like your opinion on this issue.—A. A. W.

Montana-Dakota Power company is controlled by Minnesota Northern Power company. The company furnishes electricity to 15,300 customers in 95 communities and gas to 3,452 customers in 14 communities.

Gross revenues for 1931 were $1,677,000, against $1,700,000 for 1930, $1,676,000 for 1929, and $1,408,000 for 1928. Fixed charges, before depreciation, were earned 1.4 times in 1931, 2.39 times in 1930, 2.41 times in 1929, 2.53 times in 1928, and 2.14 times in 1927.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $937,000 and current liabilities were $1,137,000. The $8,000,000 first 5½s, due 1934, are a business man's risk.

BANKERS COOL TOWARD PLANS FOR INFLATION

Assert Course Would End Confidence.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Various current proposals for "mild" inflation have met with a chilly welcome in the financial district. The latest, which was advanced by two Cornell professors, G. F. Warren and F. A. Pearson, at the annual meeting of economic and statistical associations at Cincinnati last week, has been no exception.

Professors Warren and Pearson advanced the specific suggestion that moderate inflation, or "reflation," be accomplished by reducing the amount of gold in the dollar.

A number of bank officials interviewed yesterday indicated that they were as definitely opposed to this plan as they have been toward other similar suggestions.

See Demoralizing Effect.

"The Warren-Pearson plan," said one, "is without doubt more sound than a lot of other recent proposals for inflation, but all of them have one great flaw. They underestimate the demoralizing effect on the economic structure that would follow any tampering with the nation's money.

"Never has a nation started to inflate its currency a little to boost prices without later going farther than it at first intended. Having found that the thing can be done, the public demands more and more inflation. The realization that the first attempt has not had the promised result only prompts the inflationists to try a little stronger dose.

"If we could inflate our currency moderately — say 50 per cent — just once, and everybody was certain that was all and that no further attempt would be made to tamper with the currency, then inflation would probably be a good thing.

Would Cause Hoarding.

"But, human nature being what it is, everybody knows what would happen once we should start to cheapen money. Nobody would want to enter into purchase contracts or sign leases. There would be hoarding of gold. Uncertainty would prevail until the people were assured that legislators were through changing the value of money.

"Instead of uncertainty in two dimensions there would be uncertainty in three."

Another banker interviewed pointed to the legal uncertainties inherent in proposals for inflation.

"Assuming that congress could cheapen money by cutting down the gold content of the dollar," he said, "what assurance have we that creditors could be made to accept the new lower gold content dollars? The constitution seeks to safeguard the inviolability of contract. A large part of our contracts call for payment in gold of standard weight and fineness.

Might Be Solution.

"Possibly there would be some way out of these legal questions, but the people could not be sure of a solution until the Supreme court could have acted. That would require months. What would happen to business in the meantime?"

Professors Warren and Pearson in their paper presented at Cincinnati said:

"No country likes to change its monetary system, nor does any country like to go through wholesale bankruptcies and continue to have millions unemployed. Our choice is not between two desirable things. It is between two undesirable things. The question is, which is worse?"

The almost universal opinion of the banking profession is that inflation would be worse, because the financial men are firmly convinced that it would lead to greater uncertainty by increasing the number of unknown and variable factors.

Today Is "L's" 45th Birthday; Bond Suit Filed

Cornelius C. Crane, bond holder, filed a bill in the Superior court yesterday seeking the appointment of another trustee for the $5,000,000 bond issue of the Union Elevated Railroad company, now a consolidated part of the rapid transit lines.

The bond issue was floated in 1896, eight years after the incorporation of Chicago's first elevated road company. Today will mark the 45th anniversary of that incorporation. The company was the Chicago and South Side Rapid Transit company.

Trustees' Interest Conflict.

Yesterday's court action by Mr. Crane charges that the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company as trustee for this and two later mortgage issues, which are partly based on the Union company property, would have conflicting interests if one of the three issues is defaulted. For that reason, Mr. Crane, who owns $10,000 in bonds of the Union Elevated Railroad company, asks another trustee.

The bill touches upon the history of the transit lines and asserts in regard to the Union company that the interest payment of $250,000 on the bonds was defaulted last October. It also alleges that this default will continue until April when foreclosure proceedings may be instituted by the bank as trustee.

Mr. Crane points out in his bill that in such foreclosure proceedings the bank would be in the position of both plaintiff and defendant.

First "L" Service in 1892.

Today's anniversary of the "L" first incorporation recalled that ground for the structure was broken in 1889, and that service was inaugurated in 1892. At that time the Chicago and South Side Rapid Transit company extended from Congress street to 39th street. It was soon afterward extended to 55th street, and built out to 63d street for the opening of the World's Fair.

Chicago's loop came into being in 1897, when the Union Loop company built the present encircling steel band and rented its tracks to the various companies. In those early days a smoke nuisance was no novelty, the first south side "L" trains being drawn by small coal burning locomotives. The electrified intramural railway at the World's Fair convinced engineers of the practicability of third rail power, and electrical operation was begun April 20, 1898.

CHANGE NAME OF STRAUS NATIONAL BANK & TRUST CO.

The name of the Straus National Bank and Trust company has been changed to the American National Bank and Trust company, according to announcement made last night by M. L. Straus, vice president. The change is effective immediately.

"At the American National Bank and Trust company the same management will direct the institution and maintain the same policies," the announcement said. "Customers will continue to transact their business with all departments without any change in arrangements."

Harris Trust 1932 Earnings Are $903,283

Net earnings of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, including the N. W. Harris company, were $903,283 last year, it was reported last night. The bank paid $780,000 in dividends at the rate of 13 per cent on the capital. The balance amounting to $123,283 was transferred to undivided profits.

Earnings from operations were $2,376,405. "Out of this," A. W. Harris, chairman, says in his report, "the dividend of $780,000 was paid for the year, and following our custom of maintaining adequate reserves, all but $123,283 of the balance was appropriated for the absorption of losses or added to reserves."

Total deposits at the close of the year are listed at $110,045,737. Cash on hand and due from banks was $33,093,071, demand loans, $8,171,095, and time loans and discounts, $33,409,369. Total resources were $127,347,625.

The Chicago Title and Trust company last night issued its formal report for 1932. Net earnings for the year were $2,058,935, slightly above the amount shown in the preliminary report. In 1931 the company earned $2,756,913 net. The report reflects the setting up of reserves of $7,500,000 which was announced several days ago.

UNITED STATES GOLD HOLDINGS INCREASE $25,000,000 IN 1 DAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—More than 25 million dollars of gold reached here today consigned from Europe and India to the Federal Reserve bank and various commercial banks and trust companies.

The arrivals included about 7½ million dollars in gold from Bombay and England which came in on the President Harrison, about eight million dollars from England and France on the Mauretania, about $5,400,000, also thought to be from England, on the Lancastria, $4,916,290 from France, and $1,632,834 from Holland on the Albert Ballin, and $2,300 from Venezuela on the Munamar.

Most of the gold arrived too late to reach the Federal Reserve bank before 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the daily report on gold transactions is made up, and consequently the amounts involved were somewhat uncertain. The reserve bank's report listed imports of $4,128,000 and a net gain through decrease in gold earmarked for foreign account of $401,000, making a total gain of $4,529,100.

LOANS OF BANKS OFF SEASONALLY; DEPOSITS GAIN

Loans of reserve banks in the principal cities of the country dropped seasonally in the week ended last Wednesday, according to the weekly report released yesterday.

Loans and discounts fell off $71,000,000 to current total of $10,297,000,000. Loans on securities were down $16,000,000, and other loans were off $55,000,000. Total investments of the reporting banks were practically unchanged.

Carloadings Drop 22,216 in Last Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—Railroad car loadings in the United States dropped 22,216 cars in the week ended Dec. 24, as compared with the preceding week, according to figures released by the American Railway association today.

Total loadings were 494,580 cars. This was an increase of 53,681 cars over 1931, but the rise has no significance, since the corresponding week in 1931 contained practically two holidays.

Forest products were the only group to show an increase over the Dec. 24 week. Coal, coke and grain held up well.

The 12,656 cars of lumber were up 667 cars. Miscellaneous shipments of 138,329 cars were down 10,053 cars. Coal came to 140,836 cars, off 3,922; coke, 6,609, off 62; less than carload merchandise, 154,613, off 5,499; live stock, 14,264, off 2,909; grain and its products, 25,370, off 219; ore, 1,903, off 219. All groups except miscellaneous, forest products and ore topped 1931, but coal accounted for the greater part of the increase.

During the period Dec. 1 to 31, revenue cars loaded on the Milwaukee road and received from connections totaled 88,879 compared with 105,587 in the same period 1931 and 93,665 in November. During the period Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1932, revenue cars loaded on the Milwaukee road and received from connections totaled 1,149,763, compared with 1,504,109 in 1931.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR SUBSIDIARY OF MIDDLE WEST

Commonwealth Light, Power Named

Suit for the appointment of a receiver for the $10,000,000 Commonwealth Light and Power company, public utility holding concern which is a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities, parent company in the Insull group, was filed in federal court yesterday by Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCullock, receivers of Middle West.

The petition, which Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley permitted to be filed, states that Commonwealth Light and Power owns outright the Inland Power and Light corporation, which is in receivership, and the Missouri Edison company, which is not. It also has investments in various other utility companies.

Owns Defaulted Bonds.

Middle West Utilities, according to the petition, owns 56,447 shares of Commonwealth's outstanding 84,715 shares of $100 par value common stock and $974,000 of the company's $1,651,217 outstanding refunding bonds. These bonds have defaulted.

The bill states that the company, although unable to meet the interest payments, is nevertheless solvent and has substantial equities which will be of great value for Middle West under the operation of an equity receiver Judge Lindley, before whom all the Insull litigations are pending, is expected to be in Chicago on Friday for a hearing on the appointment of a receiver for the company.

Banks' Answers Due Today.

Chicago banks, holding assets of the Insull Utility Investments company as collateral for loans, have until tomorrow to file answers to suits started by the company's debenture holders. The debenture holders, in a hearing to discover assets before Judge Lindley, contended that the company violated a covenant with them in pledging its assets to the banks without equally securing the debentures. Similar hearings, to lay the foundation for suits against New York banks and the General Electric company, are to be resumed in New York today, with Attorneys Lewis F. Jacobson and Harold F. White examining the bankers before a referee in bankruptcy.

The receivers yesterday announced that creditors of Middle West Utilities had been granted an extension on the time limit for filing claims to April 1. The original date was Jan. 1. Notices have been given in all states where creditors of the company reside that their claims must be filed with the receivers by April 1.

Standard Oil Cuts Gasoline Prices 1 Cent

Prices of all grades of gasoline were reduced one cent a gallon throughout the middle west yesterday by the Standard Oil company of Indiana. The reductions apply to both tank wagon and service station gasoline.

The Standard Oil company stated that the reductions were made to meet a competitive situation. Previously, reductions were announced by the Sinclair Refining company and the Pure Oil company.

As a result of the reduction by Standard Oil motorists will pay 12.6 cents a gallon for third grade gasoline, 14.1 cents for the second, or standard grade, and 17.1 cents for ethyl gasoline.

The highest price paid for the middle grade gasoline—that usually used in comparisons—last year was 17.1 cents a gallon. At the beginning of 1932 this grade was selling at 16 cents a gallon. When the federal taxes were put into effect the price was raised to 17.1 cents. In September a local competitive situation arose and the price was dropped to 15.1 cents. It stood at this figure until yesterday's reduction.

Announcement also was made from New York that the Standard Oil company of New York reduced prices one cent a gallon on all grades effective in New York and New England. The Standard Oil company of Ohio likewise reduced prices in its territory which include Ohio, West Virginia and parts of New York and Pennsylvania.

The Sinclair company's reduction covered practically all the territory it serves east of the Rocky mountains. The company stated it had reduced its prices to meet sporadic reductions made in its territory by other organizations.

POTTER PALMER CASTLE SOLD BY VINCENT BENDIX

Famed Home Bought by Syndicate.

BY AL CHASE.

Vincent Bendix, millionaire head of the Bendix Aviation corporation, yesterday sold the Potter Palmer "castle," at 1350 Lake Shore drive, to a small syndicate of wealthy Chicagoans, who bought it for speculative purposes. The price was not disclosed but it is understood Mr. Bendix took a loss. He purchased the world known residence in 1928 from Potter Palmer Jr. for $3,000,000.

VINCENT BENDIX.

Mr. Bendix had plans drawn for a $15,000,000 cooperative apartment project, one unit of which was to be forty-four stories high. The slump in building sidetracked these elaborate plans and Mr. Bendix turned the old castle into an art gallery.

Potter Palmer Jr. still has one definite link with his boyhood home, for when he sold the residence to Mr. Bendix the contract provided that the famous murals by Gabriel Ferrier and others, painted in 1888, would remain his property. Yesterday's sale was made subject to this same stipulation, that Mr. Palmer can at any time remove these valuable works of art.

Cost $660,000 in Interest.

When Mr. Bendix bought the property he paid one million dollars cash and assumed a $2,000,000 mortgage at 5½ per cent interest. Figuring the whole $3,000,000 investment at 5½ per cent, Mr. Bendix has paid approximately $660,000 in interest alone during the four years he's owned it, to say nothing of taxes. There was no income.

The purchasing syndicate assumed the $2,000,000 mortgage, according to William J. Accola, vice president of the First Realty company, who negotiated yesterday's sale. The transaction is probably the largest real estate deal since the depression started.

House Bare of Furnishings.

Aside from these murals the house is empty, all furniture and works of art having been moved by Mr. Bendix several months ago to his forty room

INVESTMENTS OF U. S. ABROAD DROP IN VALUE

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—American investments abroad, having a face value of $17,163,620,500 at the end of 1932, are worth in current values only about nine billion dollars, it was estimated today by Dr. Max Winkler of the New York Stock exchange firm of Bernard, Winkler & Co., and head of the American Council of Foreign Bondholders, Inc.

This estimate of current value is based in late quotations for that part of foreign investments which is represented by securities, with an estimated value of the nation's so-called direct investments, namely, plants and properties in foreign countries owned by American interests.

"ITS NAME INDICATES ITS CHARACTER"

A Safe Place for Your Life Insurance Money

The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company of Fort Wayne, Indiana, operating for more than a quarter of a century on sound, conservative principles, offers life insurance and investment policy contracts to fit every need. These contracts should merit your attention after consideration of the following: Safeguarding the investing policyholder's dollar are—

1. The Company
Of more than 300 life companies in the United States, this Company ranks 19th in size.

2. The Indiana Compulsory Deposit and strict Indiana investment laws
Indiana is one of the few states which require their life insurance companies to deposit with the State, securities equal in value to the policy reserves.
The securities so deposited must meet rigid requirements as to earnings, protection, and stability.
Diversification is insured by the provision that not more than 1% of an Indiana life insurance company's assets may be invested in the securities of any one corporation.
An Indiana life insurance company is not permitted to own more than 2% of the securities issued by any one corporation.

3. The Lincoln National Life investment policy
In addition to the rigid requirements of the Indiana laws, this Company applies even more exacting standards to the selection of securities. Securities owned are under constant review of investment experts.
No one real estate mortgage loan amounts to more than six-tenths of 1% of our assets. All of our loans are first mortgages. Loans are made upon carefully selected residences and upon business properties which are adaptable to varied uses. Loans upon single-purpose buildings are avoided. The Company owns no real estate mortgage bonds of any description.

4. The same able and continuous management for more than a quarter of a century
The Company has had the same expert executive personnel since its organization.

5. No money owed
The Company has no bank or other loans of any kind.

6. Liquid position
The Company has several million dollars of securities which can be marketed on a moment's notice, in addition to the largest deposits in banks in its history. In addition to our customary deposits in our local banks and those in branch offices and city banks, more than One Million dollars is on deposit in Metropolitan banks.

7. Capital stock not in the hands of any one group
The capital stock of the Company is not concentrated in any one group of individuals but its stock is widely distributed among nearly 1800 stockholders.

8. Surplus
The surplus of the Company, which is the margin of protection to policyholders, is greater now than it was at the beginning of the year.

NEW YEAR FAILS TO PUT PEP INTO STOCK MARKET

Shares Drift in Slow Trade, Easing Lower.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 3.—Hanging the new calendar on the wall had little effect on dealings on the New York Stock exchange today. If anything, the market was a little thinner and popular interest a little more indifferent than during the time killing operations of the holiday period and the weeks immediately preceding it. Transactions hardly exceeded a half million shares.

Although the market lacked the tax loss selling of the last two weeks as an excuse, prices continued to slant as lazily downward. No one issue was under any great pressure, however, and the story was the old one of the tug of gravity getting in its work. Losses as a rule were limited to a point or less.

As on Saturday, there was a good representation of traders on hand, many of them as on the last day of the old year having been attracted by anticipations of "something special" in the way of a price rise on the first of the new year. Expectations of a "new and brighter spirit" were quickly dissipated.

Railroads Neglected.

Railroad shares continued to hug the background and the neglect shown them was the subject of as much comment by idling tape watchers as any other angle of the proceedings. Speculators appear to have lost their yen entirely for the carriers since the anticipated autumn pickup in carloadings failed to develop.

Atchison, New York Central, Louisville and Nashville, and one or two others sold off about a point and most of their followers eased fractionally on lighter dealings.

The tobacco shares attempted a little demonstration on the cigaret price cutting news, but the splurge didn't amount to a great deal. The cut had been pretty well anticipated by selling in this department last week. Today American Tobacco shares responded to the announcement by recovering 1¾ points of the losses on both the common and B stock and smaller recoveries were made by Reynolds and Liggett & Myers.

Crucible Drops 5 Points.

Crucible Steel, which cut some rather sensational didoes in the closing few minutes of last Saturday's dull year-end session by running up 9 points on a turnover of a mere 3,500 shares, thought better of its behavior today and gave up 5 points of its gain. The issue closed at 15, against 20 on Saturday. Just who was pulling the strings for the issue's supple-jack performance and what the object of it all might be, no one seemed able to guess. Officials of the corporation said Saturday that they had no plans under consideration which might explain the sudden show of interest in the company's stock.

The automobile group, which usually brightens up its corner just before the annual automobile show here, was satisfied to hold firm today. Chrysler registered a fractional gain, but General Motors and Nash merely held unchanged.

Public utilities simply reflected the new year uncertainty and lassitude and the amusements and oils did little or nothing.

Gold mining shares came in for a mild mannered little flurry. Homestake Mining rose 7 points on a small turnover and Alaska Juneau and McIntyre Porcupine eased ahead fractionally.

Mudge Quits Postal After Forty Years of Service

After forty years of continuous service, S. H. Mudge, resident vice president of the Postal Telegraph-Cable company, formally announced his retirement under the pension plan of the company, effective yesterday, Jan. 2. After his graduation from high school, Mr. Mudge was successively bellhop in Kansas hotels, news butcher on the Sante Fe railroad, and commissary clerk for railroad construction companies. He enlisted in the telegraph company's service in 1890 and has not lost a day's pay since.

BUTTER FUTURES STEADY

Butter futures closed steady on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, with prices unchanged to ⅛c higher. Egg futures were firmer, fresh being unchanged to ⅛c higher, and refrigerators up 1½c. There was little interest displayed in either market. Butter opened lower, but rallied when covering and new buying developed. The storage figures indicated an outward movement about on a par with last year. Most of the interest in eggs centered around the new spring and fall contracts. April storage packed opened for the year at 17c over the opening last year. Sales: Butter, 42 cars; eggs, 7 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 3 cars. Prices follow:

HOG PRICES RISE 10 TO 25 CTS. ON BRISKER BUYING

Cattle Weaken, but Lambs Rally Sharply.

The hog market got off to a good active start yesterday as prices headed upward again. The advance gained momentum as the session proceeded, the close being highest of the day. Buying orders kept well ahead of the available supply and at the close there were several of the local houses short on their droves.

A marked improvement in the wholesale pork trade, urgent eastern demand, and substantially reduced receipts warranted the 10@20c upturn. Near the close, with all buyers in the trade for numbers, occasional sales of medium and weighty butchers indicated as much as 25c gain. The top price advanced to $3.20, with the average at $2.95, highest since last Wednesday. The abrupt turn of the market after establishing new 54 year lows on the final day of the old year has revived some of the bullish sentiment among traders. Some go so far as to say that the first and last months of 1933, respectively, are likely to be the low and high points of the year.

Cattle Rule Weaker.

Further declines were recorded in cattle yesterday, but weakness was confined to the medium and heavy steers in most parts of the yards. The most dependable outlet was for the light steers and yearlings, which in some instances displayed a little strength. The much better showing in hogs and lambs had some bearing and buyers found the resistance just a trifle stouter.

A big holdover was estimated for today, but the carryover included a good many steers that were not being offered because of the condition of the trade the last two days.

Larger interests as well as order buyers showed the usual preference for the light weight steers. Swift paid the $7.00 top for 57 fancy 1,017 lb yearlings. Several other lots of 858@1,080 lb mixed steers and heifers also reached this price.

Only a small contingent cashed at $6.00 and above, the bulk of the day's crop of beef steers going at $4.00@5.75, a scattering of thin kinds going down to $3.00 and occasionally slightly lower. Prime 1,510@1,656 lb steers sold at $4.50.

Lambs Stage a Recovery.

After Monday's sinking spell action in the lamb market improved and prices swung abruptly about. Part of the loss was recovered at the close Monday and additional recoveries of 10@25c were registered during yesterday's brisk trading. Closing sales were highest since middle of last week, with large local houses well in the lead in the competition for top grades.

All interests paid the top of $6.10, the bulk of the crop of fat lambs going at $5.75@6.00. More of the strong weight lambs are coming and these did not share in the full strength of the recovery. Yearlings of lamb weight sold at $5.00. Country buyers took out a few thin lambs for fattening at $5.10@5.45..

RAW SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today, but the tone was steady. It was thought that refiners were willing to pay last prices or 2.75c for sugars in nearby positions, but these were generally held at from 2.77c to 2.80c and no sales were reported. Although quiet, futures were steady, influenced by the firm tone of the spot market with final prices 1 to 2 points net higher. The openings was 1 to 2 points higher on covering and a little buying by houses with Cuban connections with offerings comparatively light. Sales were 6,600 tons. Prices follow.

Miscellaneous.

MEN.

Eight men to learn our business. Our merchandise is salable. So much so that one new man last week within 48 hours after being shown how to handle our equipment earned over $20.

It isn't every man who can do this work. For instance, a man who needs some one watching over him to see that he does a day's work would not be considered for these vacancies.

Due to the depression many men out of work who formerly earned from $25 to $40 per week have taken up sales work, and we have men working with us now who did not know that could do this work until they investigated. One man was reluctant to start. [We recently paid this man over $100 for one week's work.] Had you seen the ad Mr. Parson saw Nov. 28 you would today be earning what he is earning provided you qualified as he did for this work.

The above statement should interest 8 honest progressive thinking men to the point where they will investigate this sales offer and require us to prove our statements. These men must have good character references, but no investment or deposit is required.

If you are willing to learn and to work hard and satisfied to get along on modest earnings while getting started, apply Wednesday, today, at 2 p. m., no other time, at 215 McGraham Bldg., 1046 Wilson-av.

EXCEPTIONAL POSITION.
